ARMY REJECTS F.D.R. FRILLS IN YOUTH TRAINING

Chiefs Urge Tough Military Life.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The war department favors strictly military universal training for purely military purposes, in contrast with President Roosevelt's suggestion of training with educational and social aspects.

The department, it was disclosed today, has stated its policy in a circular recently distributed to officers. The circular indorses such training "for the one and only reason that without such a program the continued security of our national life and institutions can no longer be assured."

It adds: "There will be no place in a sound universal military training program for activities that are nonessential to the task of preparing our young men for combat."

Views of President.

President Roosevelt, when asked last month for his ideas on universal training expressed hope the new congress would enact a compulsory, one year training law; said that the degree of training would be up to the legislators. He commented that there are lots of things a boy could do for his country; that there are different ideals on what constitutes military training; that cooking might be military training or might not, and so might carpentry.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters that it would be a good thing to build up youths, mentioning the physical benefits to those who served in the pre-war civilian conservation corps.

Target of Aggressors.

The army makes these arguments in support of its proposals:

"America probably will be the initial objective of the aggressors in any new war and the first engagements of that war will quite possibly be fought in our own homeland.

"Universal military training is absolutely essential in any practicable plan that can be considered adequate to insure the future security of our nation.

"Universal military training will be our preparation for the next war."

The only alternative to this program would be to maintain a standing army and national guard of sufficient strength to meet all requirements for the first year of a total war, the department says. It adds that such a plan would be "wholly impracticable" and the cost "prohibitive."

Full Year Needed.

A year of training would be necessary, the army says, adding: "We know that if we devote less time to the training of men who are to constitute units ready for combat, we shall be guilty of sending those men to battle without an average chance of survival and success."

Trainees under the universal program would be dispersed thru air, ground, and service units of all types to provide a "properly balanced force capable of sustained offensive or defensive operations immediately following mobilization day," the circular says.

WPB Reduces Passenger Car Tire Schedule

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Production of passenger car tires will be reduced by approximately 1,650,000 tires, or 24.8 per cent, from present levels of output in the first three months of 1945 to meet military demands. James F. Clark, director of the war production board's rubber bureau, disclosed today. The reduction will be effected by restricting the consumption of cotton tire cord and fabric in passenger, motorcycle, and bicycle tires.

The present level of production is 6,650,000 passenger car tires a quarter.

The new order, Clark said, is for the purpose of conserving cotton cord and fabric used in tires, but diversion of man power and conversion of facilities from the manufacture of passenger car tires to military types is necessary to obtain needed production for the army and navy.

No New "A" Card Tires.

Clark said "it is now very apparent" that A card motorists must get along with their present tire casings for most of 1945, while B and C drivers cannot expect to receive as many grade 1 tires as had been planned. He said that recapping is the only solution for the tire problems of A card holders.

Motorists with B and C cards were urged to recap, conserve tires, and participate in car pools if they expect to continue to use their automobiles in their essential occupations.

W. J. Sears, assistant director of the WPB rubber bureau, said at a news conference that the cord and fabric limitation order will not disrupt essential civilian transportation. He estimated that with the amount of cotton authorized the industry will be able to manufacture approximately 5 million passenger car tires in the first quarter of next year. This represents a reduction of 3 million tires from the total that the WPB had hoped to reach with previously scheduled increases.

Boost Truck Tire Output.

Clark said it is estimated that today's action will make possible expanded production of military tires, in addition to output already scheduled, at a quarterly rate of about 350,000 in the critical A-5 classification. This takes in several types of tires used on 2½ ton and similar army trucks, including a mud and snow type for which army requirements in the first quarter will total 1,327,322—the largest single military tire demand.

The limitation order provides that no manufacturer of passenger, motorcycle, or bicycle tires shall consume any cotton in these products except as specifically authorized by the WPB. The period for which authorizations are being issued is Jan. 1 thru March 31, 1945.

Clark said that because a sufficient supply of rayon tire cord, used in military tires, will not be available in the first three months of next year, cotton cord must be substituted in some of the smaller truck sizes. It is possible to substitute 1.3 pounds of cotton cord for each pound of rayon cord, he said.

Truck Program Boosted.

In making public the commercial motor truck program for 1945, the WPB said there will be increases in the production of all types as compared with 1944, except for light trucks, which were not manufactured this year, and heavy-heavy off highway trucks.

The program calls for a total of 245,449 commercial trucks of all sizes next year, of which 188,883 will be for domestic use and the rest for export thru the foreign economic administration. In 1944 the total was 126,678, of which 103,112 were for domestic use.

3,000 YULE TRAVELERS ON VERGE OF RIOT IN I. C. TRAIN STAMPEDE

More than 3,000 persons pushed and jostled each other in the concourse of the Illinois Central railroad station at Michigan av. and Roosevelt rd. last night in attempts to board coach trains for Christmas holiday trips.

Police received calls that the commotion threatened to develop into a riot, and 30 policemen were sent to the scene. They said toes were stepped on and ribs were elbowed, but no injuries occurred.

The disturbance reached its peak as the time neared for the departure of the Illinois Central train for New Orleans at 7:45 p. m. Two hundred persons stampeded thru the gates. Five hundred persons with coach tickets were left behind, because of lack of space on the train, when it pulled out of the station 20 minutes late.

CASE OF A DOUR DOBERMAN AND $4,000 IN JEWELS

New York, Dec. 22 [Special].—Granga, a Doberman Pinscher owned by Mrs. Joan Pierre Stern of Manhattan's Upper 5th av., was temporarily valued at $4,000 today.

At 7 p. m. yesterday Mrs. Stern notified police that her diamond and ruby dinner ring had disappeared from a night table earlier in the day. For seven hours two detectives searched the house for the ring.

They became suspicious at a dour expression on the face of Granga, frisking about the room. Granga was rushed to an animal hospital, where a fluoroscopic examination disclosed the $4,000 ring in her stomach. The dog was then taken to a veterinary. The ring is expected back momentarily.

Looks Into Liquor Store; 40 Line Up Behind Him

Wallace, Idaho, Dec. 22 (AP).—Word got around that the liquor store had received a big shipment, so a customer decided he would look in three hours ahead of opening time. He tried the store door, peered thru a window to see if any one was working, and turned to leave. A crowd of 40 people had lined up behind him.

8-Day Dice Game Raided in Toronto War Plant

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 22.—Police Cadet Norman Godden testified in Magistrates' court here yesterday that he had been in a dice game for eight days at a West Toronto war plant. He identified 13 men as participants. All 13 were convicted and fined $5 or five days. For running the dice game, William B. Gibb was fined $50 and costs.

1 Dies, 13 Hurt in Oven Blast in War Plant

One man was killed and 13 men and women were injured, one man seriously, in the explosion of a heating oven late yesterday in the war plant of the Victor Manufacturing and Gasket company at 5750 Roosevelt rd. The company is rated the world's largest maker of gaskets.

Merle Reid.

The blast shook the block square plant, shattered many windows in the building and neighborhood, and was heard a mile away. Part of the roof was blown out. A small fire started, but was extinguished by automatic sprinklers and firemen. Damage was estimated at $25,000.

Victim's Wife at Work.

The man killed was Merle Reid, 35, of 3855 Washington blvd. His wife was at work on the night shift at another war plant at the time, and their infant child was at home.

The only one seriously injured was Samuel Grecco, 51, of 1953 Ohio st., who was hurt internally. He was taken to Loretto hospital.

One of the injured was Benjamin J. Victor, 48, of 1115 N. Oak Park av., Oak Park, night superintendent of the plant, and brother of the owner, John H. Victor. He suffered head cuts and burns and received first aid at West Suburban hospital, Oak Park.

The explosion occurred in the saturation department where gaskets are temporized or dried. Four gas heated ovens were in operation and 40 men and women were at work.

Killed by Flying Bar.

One of the huge ovens, 12 feet high and as long, suddenly burst. The blast tore a hole thru the roof, and scattered torn metal and other debris thru the plant. A flying bar struck Reid in the head, killing him. Several of the workers nearest the oven were scorched by flame, but most of the other injured, farther away, were hurt by hurtling debris. First aid was administered by company nurses and doctors.

Water and explosion damage forced the dismissal of the night shift of 70. John Victor, owner and president of the company, said it was the first accident in the company's 35 year history. He said the company is engaged 100 per cent in war work, manufacturing gaskets and oil seals for anti-aircraft recoil apparatus and other uses.

PRINT 1ST OVERSEAS TRIBUNE IN AUSTRALIA FOR YANKS IN PACIFIC

The first issue of the Overseas Tribune printed in Australia today is ready for distribution to American soldiers and sailors in the Southwest Pacific theater. Word to this effect was received yesterday from Donald Starr, head of the Tribune's New York bureau who was sent to Australia last August to arrange publication. Starr's message said:

"The first issue of the Overseas Tribune printed in Australia for distribution to American troops in the Southwest Pacific theater was delivered to the army in Sydney today [Friday]. Army priorities have been granted for shipment of papers to forward areas by air. The army's special services section, which distributes the paper, has ordered 5,000 copies weekly but is expected to increase this number as lines of communications with the most forward areas improve."

Meanwhile, the Chicago Overseas Tribune, Hawaii edition, which has been reaching the G. Is from Midway to Guadalcanal, is celebrating its first anniversary this month. Bombers, transport planes, and surface craft carry the edition from Honolulu. Copies have found their way into the Pacific front lines while battles still raged.

The Overseas Tribune sprang from The Tribune's desire to furnish American soldiers and sailors with the news and features they liked in civilian life.

PATTON ATTACK SLOWS DRIVE, BERLIN ADMITS

3d Army Hits Foe's Southern Flank.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—A German military spokesman broadcast tonight that a "fierce" southern flank attack by Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army had succeeded in slowing down the German offensive.

The spokesman asserted, however, that, altho slowed, Field Marshal von Rundstedt managed to gain some further ground against the American 1st army "despite the desperate attempt of American leadership to master the situation."

Saying that the main brunt of the fighting now is on both flanks of the German drive, the broadcast declared that "particularly bitter fighting is raging on the southern flank where German spearheads pushing toward the southwest had to defend themselves against fierce counter-attacks by several divisions of the American 3d army."

Claim Seven Divisions Mauled.

Reiterating a claim that seven American divisions had either been destroyed or mauled, the radio named them as the 4th, 28th and 106th infantry, the 7th, 9th and 10th tank divisions and the 101st air borne group.

Earlier tonight, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, German military commentator, said Von Rundstedt's "winter offensive" was meeting with continued success and claimed that swiftly moving panzer divisions and motorized infantry were establishing bridgeheads on the west bank of the Ourthe river.

Part of the winding Ourthe is about seven miles west of Werbomont on the Liege-Bastogne highway, and is approximately 40 miles west of the Belgian border north of Luxemburg.

Another Berlin broadcast claimed the capture of St. Vith, important lateral communications hub behind American lines.

The German war bulletin claimed that on the Saar the Americans "had to evacuate bridgeheads near Dillingen and Ensdorf in order to release more formations."

Report Heavy Fighting.

The German reports said the heavy flank actions "bear the mark of an all-out battle particularly on the northern flank of the German attack near Elsenborn, Genbach and Lagleize." On the southern flank, Berlin said the Germans were engaged in very heavy fighting against forces near Waldbillig, Consdorf and Scheidger. These American forces, brought up from the Saar, have been reënforced continuously during the last 24 hours.

Berlin claimed 25,000 American soldiers, including the commander of the St. Vith garrison, have been taken prisoner, adding "the number of killed, and wounded American soldiers is many times the number of prisoners."

BATTLE THRILLS, HEROISM, PATHOS OF MIDWEST BOYS

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Dec. 22.—The day before his regiment, the 109th of the 28th division, was to be relieved in the bitter fighting for the Hurtgen forest, Staff Sgt. Don Kemp of Kenney, Ill., and an officer made a reconnaissance and marked a road safe from enemy observation from the regimental to the battalion command post.

The next morning Kemp started out to lead 25 sergeants and five captains of the relieving regiment back over the single file path. It wound thru snow covered woods past abandoned German bunkers and trenches. Kemp was careful to step exactly in the footprints he had made the day before.

After they had traveled a quarter of a mile, there was an explosion five yards behind Kemp. A captain had stepped off the trail and an anti-personnel mine had torn off his foot. He was given emergency first aid and the party went on.

Five minutes later another captain stepped off the trail and his foot was torn by a mine. After that, the column walked in Kemp's footprints like tightrope walkers.

The next day engineers went over the trail and found more than a dozen mines, many of them only a few inches from the path Kemp had marked.

In the Hurtgen forest fighting Pvt. Ernest E. Venture, 822 S. Leavitt st., Chicago, and two other soldiers became separated from the rest of Company L, 110th regiment, 28th division. A hidden machine gun opened fire, killing Venture's two companions. Venture dropped between their bodies and feigned death.

A moment later two Germans bounded up from the gun position and began fumbling at Venture's neck. He held his breath. There was a tug on his shoulder; the Germans were cutting off his pack to get his food. Another stroke of a knife against the webbing and his pack gave way.

Venture thought his pounding heart would give him away, but he lay motionless in the snow. Under cover of night he escaped to our lines.

'Bare Knuckle' Yanks Wipe Out Foe

SOMEWHERE IN BELGIUM, Dec. 22 (AP).—American doughboys fighting a powerful German armored column at close range with bazookas and hand grenades today sealed off the western exit to the Ambleve river pocket after a slam-bang 48 hour battle.

The Americans destroyed 11 Nazi heavily armed vehicles, killed 120 of the enemy, and took 26 prisoners.

"Our boys practically beat them back with their bare knuckles," said Lt. Col. Warren Williams of Sanford, N. C., describing the battle which kept large enemy forces from escaping across the Ambleve river.

Foe Fights for Life.

In mid-afternoon the remainder of the pocketed enemy column was fighting fiercely for its life across the narrow river. The wintry hills are ringing with the reverberating crack of tank and artillery fire, and on the other side of the Ambleve you can see towers of smoke from bursting shells.

The battle to halt the enemy's armored thrust in this sector has been one of the bitterest engagements of the European war—one in which American infantrymen, rushed in to halt the spreading Nazi advance, had to beat back a more numerous enemy equipped with heavier arms.

Vehicles Knocked Out.

Dead Germans sprawl grotesquely by the side of shattered vehicles where they had fought savagely even after being driven from their weapons. The vehicles knocked out were three 20 mm. flak guns, several half tracks, a reconnaissance car with an 81 mm. mortar, two towed 105 mm. guns, and two self-propelled guns.

"We had a couple of tank destroyers but our men knocked off most of these vehicles by going in with bazookas and hand grenades," said Williams. "We did not even have a single heavy machine gun with us when the battle started."

BATTLE RAGES FOR BELGIAN RIVER TOWN

U. S. Lines Hold on North and South.

PARIS, Dec. 22 (AP).—The violent German winter offensive spent much of its force today after pounding 40 miles across Belgium in seven days, bursting thru Luxemburg and nearing Arlon, only 10 miles from the French border 40 miles east of Sedan.

Field dispatches reporting that the enemy advance had slowed down, said, however, the Germans were believed massing armor for renewed blows.

[An Associated Press dispatch said the London Star announced yesterday that Field Marshal Montgomery had consulted with American generals regarding the German counter-offensive. Dispatches from the front or Paris did not tell of any fighting on the British front.]

The Germans lost more than 200 tanks in five days of battering around Malmedy on the north flank along the routes to Antwerp and Brussels.

Slash Thru Luxemburg.

Supreme headquarters and field dispatches gave this picture of the sweep of the German drive from Tuesday noon—when the Germans were 32 miles inside Belgium—to Wednesday noon, keeping events of the last 48 hours under a security blackout:

The most powerful wedge of Field Marshal von Rundstedt's offensive slashed thru Luxemburg and by late Wednesday had cut major roads north, south, and east of the key road center of Bastogne, inside Belgium four miles west of Luxemburg's border.

This force then lanced on 13 miles northwest across the Ourthe river to Laroche, 32 miles inside Belgium and about 15 miles south of the northern flank west of Stavelot. Heavy fighting raged at Laroche.

German armor which by-passed Bastogne headed on west for an undisclosed distance.

U. S. Force Encircled.

In the drive thru Luxemburg, an American force was encircled at Wiltz, in the northern part of the duchy nine miles east of Bastogne. The Americans still held out inside the town. The Germans had been reported nearing Wiltz on Tuesday.

A front dispatch covering the situation up to Wednesday reported there was brisk fighting in the areas of Bastogne and Arlon, Belgian city on the allied supply route leading down from Antwerp thru Liege and Bastogne. Spread of the fighting to Arlon broadened the front inside Belgium to some 50 miles.

The situation was officially reported stabilized on the southern flank Wednesday around Echternach, in eastern Luxemburg near the German border, and one front dispatch said the threat to the little duchy's capital seemed to have subsided.

Hold Firm on Flanks.

Advanced German forces were reported Tuesday to be about 14 miles northeast of the capital, and the push toward Arlon reported today put the Germans about 13 miles away on the west.

On the basis of today's up-to-the-minute dispatches it appeared that the pace of the German advance westward also had been slowed, and that American lines were holding firm on both the north and south flanks.

Front dispatches describing the Germans' point of deepest penetration as 40 miles and reporting the slow-down of the enemy offensive apparently described the situation as it exists tonight.

[The Germans said several spearheads crossed the Ourthe river, which at one point in its meandering course is seven miles west of Werbomont, the deepest previously announced point of the enemy's dogerlike wedge. At this point the river is about 30 miles from the Meuse river at Namur and about 15 miles south of Liege, also on the Meuse. The Ourthe is about 40 miles inside Belgium.)

On the extreme north flank in the Monschau sector, some 16 miles southeast of Aachen, furious fighting flared over the muddy, snow covered hills and dispatches told of a massing of enemy strength in this area.

Spear Thru Soft Spots.

Roving German detachments, sometimes powered by more than 30 tanks, still were spearing thru soft spots into rear areas despite heavy costs, but it appeared that the enemy high command was pausing and gathering strength for renewed blows.

Some of the heaviest fighting was east of Malmedy—along the route the kaiser's armies struck in 1914—where for 24 hours the Germans banged without success against a doughboy wall that refused to give an inch.

A front dispatch said that this stubborn defense was slowly breaking the back of the German offensive

A dispatch from British-Canadian headquarters said it would be premature to say that Von Rundstedt's scheme had failed, if he hopes to sweep across the Meuse river, 65 miles west of the Belgian border, as some quarters believe.

Allies Gain Time.

But while he pauses to get his second wind, the allies are gaining time, and time is a vital factor when every day sees Eisenhower's countermeasures becoming stronger.

A dispatch reporting the bruising battle in the Malmedy sector, said the Germans had been hammering at a vital "elbow" east of there for 24 hours.

SS [elite guard] troops moved in to the attack at 5 a. m. today, and by noon 19 German tanks had been knocked out in an area less than a mile square.

A captured trooper told doughboys "the Germans are going to give Antwerp to Hitler as a Christmas present." To which one battle-grimed doughboy replied: "The fuehrer sure is going to be disappointed."

R. A. F. Blasts Nazi Positions.

Clearing skies enabled the R. A. F. to fly more than 100 sorties, blasting German gun positions and strafing ground troops in support of the embattled Americans.

Another front dispatch said that southwest of St. Vith—four miles inside Belgium in the path of the German offensive where American formations have been cut off—55 enemy tanks were knocked out in the last 24 hours.

Still another front report said the Germans lashed out in an attack on a new sector 20 miles south of the city of Luxemburg, which would put it in the area of Thionville on the United States 3d army front. This was in two company strength and supported by 10 tanks. It was repulsed last night.

Nazis Counter-Attack in Saar.

There were four light German counter-attacks last night inside the 3d army's Saar basin front east of Sarreguemines.

The United States 7th army still held to the fringe of the Siegfried line in the Palatinate against scattered artillery fire.

In the Colmar-Mulhouse sector of Alsace, the French 1st army repulsed counter-attacks at Mittelwihr, five miles northwest of Colmar. The French occupied La Chapelle, six miles west of Colmar, but the town was under violent shelling.

Supreme headquarters announced that the Germans were laying down long range artillery fire on the big Graves bridge, between Arnhem and Eindhoven, which supplies Canadian troops of the Nijmegen salient in eastern Holland.

The bridge, which was captured by American air borne troops late in September, appeared to be the target of giant railway guns firing from 20 miles away, a Canadian 1st army artillery officer said.

OFFICIAL GERMAN REPORT.

The broadcast German war bulletin, as recorded by the federal communications commission, said:

"In southern Belgium all enemy attempts to stop our attack were smashed again yesterday. One of the enemy strongpoints left encircled behind our front, St. Vith, fell yesterday in a concentric attack. The garrison was taken prisoner.

"Our offensive spearheads advanced farther westward and established several bridgeheads across the Ourthe river.

"In the Stavelot area heavy fighting developed against enemy tank forces which, having been brought up from the Aachen area, tried to thrust into our northern flank. In central Luxemburg our attack is also making good progress. The enemy suffered extremely heavy losses thru surprise thrusts by mobile formations into his rear communications.

"Our successes in Belgium have compelled the enemy command to draw off strong formations from previous fronts of attack. In front of Aachen the enemy was, therefore, only able to launch a series of abortive containing attacks. On the Saar he even had to evacuate his bridgeheads near Dillingen and Ensdorf in order to release more formations. In the Bitche area the enemy did not continue his attacks. Northwest of Wissembourg he was dislodged from a number of pillbox groups.

"In upper Alsace fierce fighting is taking place west of Kaysersberg."

ing for a place to dig his foxhole. The ground was rocky and Kay finally tried to sleep in the open with shells crashing around him. He was not hurt.

The next day, believing his luck was overdue, Kay searched for an abandoned foxhole. He found a shallow slit trench, but no sooner had he climbed in than a shell burst in a tree and sent fragments whining. One just broke the skin of his throat.

"A shallow slit trench doesn't afford much protection," Kay philosophized, "and every time I get near one shells start coming over. I just slept in the open until we went back."

The action in Hurtgen forest found the 28th division in the bitterest fighting of its history. Day and night for the last month Americans and Germans have tried ceaselessly to kill one another in the forest's gloom. Yet there were times —

Pvt. Ivan N. Torfin, Clearbrook, Minn., a medic with Company L, 110th infantry regiment, had been treating wounded and carrying litters for three days and nights. He was tired, but the wounded had been without food and water for more than 48 hours and so Torfin and another medic started down the hill to fetch water.

Nearing a rain-filled stream they were intercepted by a German sentry who pointed across the creek to an American who had been wounded by machine gun slugs. Torfin and his partner waded the stream and brought the soldier back.

While they were dressing the soldier's wounds an American machine gun opened up farther up the valley, and the next moment two Germans came tearing down the hill. One fell wounded, and the other, his arm partly shot away, kept on running until Torfin waved him over. The two aid men applied a tourniquet and then led the German a short way down the valley to where they knew a German aid station was located. Then Torfin, by sign language, indicated he would lead the German aid man to the other wounded Kraut. They went back into the wood and searched for an hour, but couldn't find him.

They did, however, encounter a German patrol. While the German aid man argued with the patrol leader against capturing the two Americans, the latter sat against a tree, fighting sleep. Finally the patrol went on away and the aid men went back to where the wounded American had been left.

Then it was the Germans' turn. From their aid station they brought a ladder, and Torfin and his partner, after signaling their thanks, used it as a litter to carry the wounded Yank back to the battalion aid station.

Not all the Germans battling in Von Rundstedt's drive thru the Eifel forest area are fanatics. Not long after a new tank division was in action, a German officer and a soldier went to a civilian home on the outskirts of a town where Yanks were billeted, asked for food, and told the householder to summon the Americans.

The nearest Yanks were Capt. Boleslaus Osuch, 29, of 5330 W. 31st st., Cicero, Ill., of a service company, and some battalion personnel men. To them fell the honor of capturing the first Germans taken by this battalion.

Corp. Felix Levin, 37, of 1701 N. Fairfield av., Chicago, served as interpreter for the far-from-haughty Germans. Other soldiers sharing in the capture included 2d Lt. Bert J. Persell Jr., Indianapolis, Ind.; 2d Lt. James R. D. Stansfield, Urbana, Ill.; Tech. 4th Grade Elmer N. Peterson, Royal, Ia., and Corp. Ervin L. Kolpitcke, Wausau, Wis.

Staff Sgt. Milton Tockman, 661 Sheridan rd., Chicago, mail clerk with an armored division, knows that Christmas is coming. About this time every year he has to forward a Christmas envelope to Joseph Milash, an ex-soldier of Pittsburgh, Pa. Milash was discharged from service in 1942, but every Christmas Hubbard, Inc., of Pittsburgh sends Milash's envelope to his old division.

First Lt. William V. Graham, 1940 Wilson av., Chicago, has been appointed aid to the commanding general of an armored division. He formerly was communications officer of a division combat command.

If your husband, sweetheart, son, or brother is serving with an armored division on the western front, you may get a fur coat, a dollie, parachute silk, or a box of German soil for Christmas. And that's not all, says Corp. Ralph A. Kraus, 1721 W. Juneau av., Milwaukee, Wis., a postal clerk. An advance peek into Santa's haul from this outfit reveals boxes containing:

Perfumes, shampoos, and other cosmetics; jewelry, including watches, rings, necklaces, pins, rosaries, and crucifixes; stamp collections, pictures and statues, wine glasses, goblets, beer mugs, dishes, cups, plates, silverware, and books.

The women may get fur coats, gloves, dresses, silk stockings, black silk underwear—some rayon, too—scarves, handkerchiefs, lace tablecloths, and doilies. For baby there are smaller fur coats, blankets, dresses, and shoes, and for father such items as captured German cigaret lighters.

Your trophy room at home may contain wooden shoes and such home made items as cigaret lighters and ash trays from brass shell casings, army medals, and German battle mementoes such as uniforms, helmets, caps, and belts, arm bands, flags, banners, swords and bayonets. Some soldiers have even wrapped up soil of France, Belgium, Luxemburg, and Germany.

Some soldiers have tried to send home wines, liquors, and captured enemy firearms, but these are turned back.

Corp. Kraus got his biggest laugh when a high ranking officer brought in a parcel for mailing. Kraus asked what it contained, and the answer came from the package itself—the muffled "cuck-oo, cuck-oo" of a cuckoo clock.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The insigne of the newly created rank of general of the army was described today by the war department as follows: "Five silver five pointed stars, each star three eighths of an inch in diameter, fastened together in a circle, the inner points touching. The surface of the stars to be plain, raised, and grounded."

Nazis' New 'V-1½' Seems to Be Self-Propelled Shell

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Germans' new secret weapon in use on the western front was described here today as "not V-3 or V-4 but V-1½." It apparently is a barrage weapon and takes the form of a self-propelled shell, it was said. It has been described in front dispatches as a small V-2 rocket. Classifying it as V-1½ might indicate that it has some features of both V-1, the flying bomb, and V-2, the long range rocket.

NAZIS ACCUSED OF CARRYING OFF NORWEGIAN FOOD

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Germans are carrying off or destroying all food and burning all buildings as they retreat from northern Norway, Wilhelm Morgenstierne, the Norwegian ambassador, said today. In that sub-polar climate, "indescribable suffering" has resulted for the population, he declared and added:

"The inhabitants, old and young, men, women and children, are either left in the snow, darkness and cold, without shelter or food, or crowded into small boats under such conditions that many die from exposure and exhaustion."

The ambassador said the Russian troops which crossed the Norwegian border in October are "doing everything to help" in the districts they have occupied. He said the Swedes are dropping food and clothing from the air but that such aid is necessarily limited.

BANDITS TAKE $2,900 FROM WOMAN.

Police were searching yesterday for three bandits, all armed, who held up Mrs. Vincenza Petruconis, 50, in her tavern at 902 W. 38th pl. and stole $2,900.

CRUSH GERMANS, GEN. EISENHOWER EXHORTS TROOPS

Sees Chance For Big Victory Now.

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, Paris, Dec. 22 (AP).—Gallantly resisting American troops already have done much to foil the Germans' "great gamble" in Belgium and Luxemburg, Gen. Eisenhower declared today in a fighting exhortation to his allied armies to "destroy the enemy on the ground, in the air, everywhere—destroy him."

In his first order of the day since the Nazis blasted thru the 1st army's lines last week-end, the allied commander in chief told his men that "the enemy may give us a chance to turn his great gamble into his worst defeat."

Hits "Treacherous Tricks."

He charged the Germans with using "every treacherous trick to deceive and kill you," and called upon every allied soldier to "rise now to new heights of courage, of resolution, and of effort." The allies, he declared, could not be content merely with repulsing the nazi onslaught, but must crush the enemy.

Following is the text of the order:

"The enemy is making his supreme effort to break out of the desperate plight into which you forced him by your brilliant victories of the summer and fall.

"He is fighting savagely to take back all that you have won and is using every treacherous trick to deceive and kill you. He is gambling everything, but already in this battle your gallantry has done much to foil his plans. In the face of your proven bravery and fortitude, he will completely fail.

No Mere Repulse.

"But we cannot be content with his mere repulse.

"By rushing out from his fixed defenses the enemy may give us the chance to turn his great gamble into his worst defeat.

"So I call upon every man of all the allies to rise now to new heights of courage, of resolution, and of effort. Let every one hold before him a single thought—to destroy the enemy on the ground, in the air, everywhere—destroy him!

"United in this determination and with unshakable faith in the cause for which we fight, we will, with God's help, go forward to our greatest victory.

"Signed,

"Dwight D. Eisenhower."

'WE FIGHT FOR PEACE,' MONTGOMERY TELLS TROOPS IN MESSAGE

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—Field Marshal Montgomery made no reference to the changed situation on the western front in his annual Christmas message to his British and Canadian troops today. He reaffirmed the resolve "to continue the contest with stout hearts and with determination to conquer."

"Today we sing Christmas hymns, full of hope and steadfast in our belief that soon we shall achieve our hearts' desire," the message said.

Recounting allied successes since the landings in Normandy, he said: "We must not fail to give praise and honor where it is due," and quoted from the scriptures: "This was the Lord's doing and it is marvelous in our eyes."

"Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace and good will toward men—this is what we are fighting for, that is what we desire: on earth peace, good will toward men," he said. "I wish all of you good luck and a happy 1945. We are all one great team. Together, you and I, we have achieved much. And together we will see the thing thru to the end."

Radio Threatens Belgians with New Secret Weapons

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—An enemy radio station began broadcasting to Belgians today, urging them to leave their homes. Obviously trying to jam the roads with civilians, the announcer said: "German armies are using horrifying new weapons. Not a human being will remain alive in sectors where these weapons will be used."

Paris Regime Ratifies French-Soviet Alliance

PARIS, Dec. 22 (AP).—The French-Soviet alliance was ratified today by the French government.

GOEBBELS HOLDS 100 SUEZ SHARES, FRENCH REVEAL

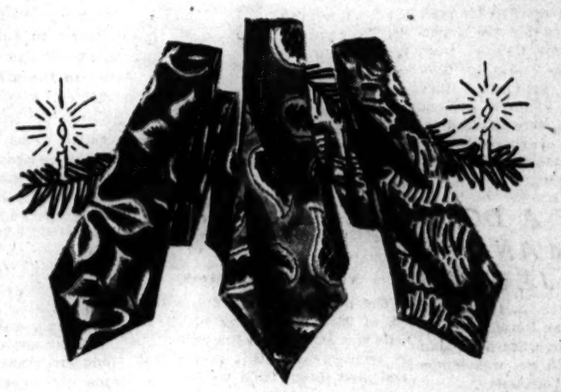

PARIS, Dec. 22 (AP).—Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels has been holding 100 shares of lucrative Suez canal stock, a French government decree disclosed today. The decree sequestered all Suez dividends. The money will be held in escrow pending settlement of the shares' ownership, it was believed.

The ownership of the Suez canal has long been a financial mystery. For a half century the securities have been a gilt-edge investment, so remunerative that speculation in them was world-wide. Of the effective 800,000 shares at last reports, the British government was holding 353,024. The others were scattered all over the globe.

A report was current during the German occupation that the Nazis, by manipulating the securities of France, had garnered a working majority of the shares extant. In 1910 the Germans ordered the French people to turn in their Suez shares to be impounded.

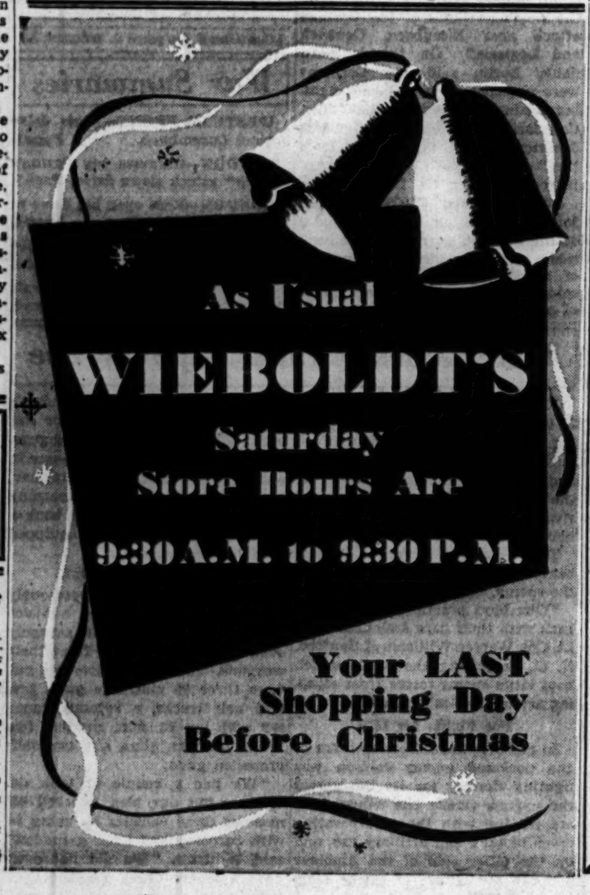

Allies Deny Germans Land Chutists Near Paris

PARIS, Dec. 22 (AP).—Allied supreme headquarters issued a denial today of a report that since the start of the German counter-offensive Nazi parachute troopers had landed near Paris. "No paratroopers whatsoever were dropped in the vicinity of Paris," the statement said.

BELIEVE THREAT TO LUXEMBURG CITY SUBSIDES

Refugees of '40 on Road Again—but Hopeful.

BY LEWIS HAWKINS.

WITH AMERICAN FORCES NEAR ECHTERNACH ON THE LUXEMBURG-GERMAN FRONTIER, Dec. 21 [Delayed]—(AP).—The threat from the northeast to Luxemburg City which developed swiftly last Saturday morning seemed definitely to have subsided today as American defenders rallied quickly from their initial surprise.

Striking across the Sure [Sauer] river from the Siegfried defenses opposite Echternach the Germans moved up to three miles into Luxemburg within the first few hours of the dawn attack, and then were only about 15 miles from the capital of the duchy.

Several American units were surrounded and for 48 hours it appeared to be touch and go whether the Nazis were going to recapture a liberated capital for the first time. But while infantrymen rallied and consolidated their lines, more infantry and armor were shoved in behind them.

U. S. Lines Stabilized.

Today we completed the withdrawal from Berdorf, 17 miles northeast of Luxemburg City, as well as from Echternach, on the border, and stabilized lines inside the duchy parallel with the Sure river which forms the border in this area.

The Germans used a few tanks inside Echternach, but in this sector they hadn't been extensively employed by the enemy. Nazi infantrymen have been using infiltration tactics persistently to encircle American positions, but so far have been able to make an encirclement stick only in Echternach and much of our small garrison slipped thru the ring even there after killing an amazingly large number of the attackers.

With northern Luxemburg overrun, the familiar scenes of 1940 are being reenacted with refugees fleeing in wagons, on bicycles, and afoot.

This evacuation was impromptu at first, but now is being organized by the Americans who are expediting the movement to rear areas and clearing civilians from towns behind the present lines.

No Sign of Hysteria.

These refugees whom I have seen streaming along the roads, in all sorts of vehicles jammed with all sorts of household effects from featherbeds to pianos, show no signs of hysteria. This presumably is because they feel, as the American soldiers do, that this is only a temporary setback and however bitter it may be to leave home at Christmastide it is not the hopeless sort of a departure some made in 1940.

This comparative optimism is particularly apparent among those leaving towns still inside American lines, because they feel their homes will escape occupation by the enemy.

In the city of Luxemburg itself there is a crop of rumors about parachutists—none of whom has been officially reported in this area—and some uneasiness thru the city.

It seems apparent now that the main effort is not being directed toward Luxemburg, altho it is a fat psychological prize, but along the attack routes farther north. [Forty-three words censored.]

HEROIC 'AIDMAN'S BROTHERS SHOW VALOR IN BATTLE

Pvt. Albert Joe Bernstein, 26, of Chicago, whose exploits with the 1st army in bringing medical aid to the wounded were told in a story yesterday by John Thompson, Tribune war correspondent, has two brothers who also have made enviable records on fighting fronts.

The brothers are Corp. Earl, 37, who is now in the Pacific, and Sgt. David H., 31, who served with the marine corps at Guadalcanal, Munda, Bougainville and in other campaigns. Sgt. David, members of his family said, has three major battle stars and two Presidential citations. Sgt. David returned to the United States two months ago and is now stationed at Cherry Point, N. C.

At the home of the Bernstein brothers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bernstein, 8016 Phillips av., relatives said they had been told all three brothers had been recommended for the silver star. The brothers never mentioned their exploits to their parents, the family said. The parents know, however, that Pvt. Albert Joe received the Purple Heart for wounds received in France.

R. A. F. BOMBERS BLAST TWO NAZI SUPPLY CENTERS

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—R. A. F. Lancasters and Halifaxes tonight blasted the Rhine railhead cities of Coblenz and Bingen, supply distribution centers for Field Marshal von Rundstedt's attacking armies.

Coblenz has large freight yards and is on a rail line from the Rhine to the Trier and Luxemburg areas—one of the focal points in the German offensive. Bingen is a junction city on a railway leading to the industrial Saar valley.

The R. A. F. also was out during daylight hours and flew more than 100 sorties over the northern sector to aid American troops by blasting German forces and gun positions. Altho the R. A. F. was able to take advantage of a break in the weather, American air bases were closed in and both British and Italian based United States heavies were forced to remain home.

The daytime lull was the first time in weeks that German skies were clear of the American bombers.

TWO NAZIS FLEE ACROSS FRANCE TO IOWAN'S GUN

Shell Beats Illinoisan to Foxhole; He Lives.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES ON WESTERN FRONT, Dec. 22.—Two German soldiers who escaped from a prisoner of war camp in Normandy and crossed France were picked up again recently when almost within reach of their own lines.

Their captor was Pvt. Orie W. Bidwell of Melbourne, Ia., a 5th division infantryman. While on night sentry duty, Bidwell halted the pair and demanded their passports. When they mumbled and pointed in the direction of German held Fort Driant, Bidwell put his M-1 [Garand rifle] at their backs, marched them into the light, and discovered they were wearing G. I. clothes with the exception of German caps altered to resemble American. They were armed with hand grenades.

Hid in Car.

The Germans said they had hid in a car they were assigned to load and escaped several hours later by cutting a hole in the roof of the car. Then they hopped an ammunition train. The last stage of their journey was afoot. Pvt. Bidwell was the first man to challenge them, they said.

Another 5th division soldier, Sgt. Henry Erdman, 1807 N. California av., Chicago, Ill., also took a prisoner recently. He was an SS [elite guard] sergeant who had deserted and was wearing civilian clothing.

Staff Sgt. A. E. Cox of Belleville, Ill., a mess sergeant with the 2d infantry of the 5th division, credits the fact that he didn't quite reach a foxhole during a shelling with saving his life.

Cox, with his kitchen helpers, Sgt. Allen Knowles of Bellville, Corp. Joseph Kosler of Chicago, and Corp. Roscoe Wilcozen of Canton, Ill., was preparing supper when enemy shells began dropping in.

Late and Glad.

All ran to foxholes but the cook was beaten to his by a shell. So he was unhurt.

The 10th armored division also has a lucky sergeant—Staff Sgt. Koening of 3508 Broadway, Chicago. Sgt. Koening decided to pitch a tent and sleep in it instead of in the kitchen truck in which he had slept every other night since reaching France. During the night a shell scored a direct hit on the truck wrecking everything inside.

Lt. John Campbell Jr., whose parents live at 5539 Agatite av., Chicago, has received a battlefield promotion to captain. He holds the Purple Heart and recently received the silver star for gallantry in action. His wife, Mary, lives in Sterling, Ill.

London Poles Say Nazis Massacred 20,000 Jews

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Polish government-in-exile said today the Germans had massacred 20,000 Jews in a forced labor camp at Plaszow near Cracow. A spokesman quoted a report from underground channels which said the Germans also liquidated Jewish forced labor camps at Skarsysk, Starachowice, Pionki, and Ostrowiec.

Fashion Note in Madrid; Swastikas Appear Again

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 22 (AP).—A fashion note: Swastikas are being worn again here among Germans since the Nazi counter-offensive began. They had almost vanished from German lapels following the liberation of France.

CHICAGO FLYER GOES DOWN WITH B-29 HIT BY TWO TOKYO PLANES

TWENTY-FIRST BOMBER COMMAND, Saipan, Dec. 22 (AP).—Now that next of kin have been notified, names of the 11 Super Fortress men lost in combat Nov. 24 near Tokyo can be disclosed.

The B-29 was riddled by bullets from a twin engined fighter plane of a new design. A second Japanese fighter, hit by cross-fire from other B-29s, exploded and tore off the tail of the hapless Super Fort, which streaked downward and splashed into the sea, sinking immediately. Nobody was seen to parachute.

Among those aboard were Lt. Odne N. Dahl, 26, 1503 N. Hamlin av., Chicago; Staff Sgt. Ralph C. Banovicts, 25, Detroit, and Pvt. Rex E. Merritt, 20, North Manchester, Ind.

Suicide by Exposure to Freezing, Is Verdict

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict holding that Mrs. Martha K. Alexander, 45, of 758 Congress st., committed suicide by exposing herself to freezing temperatures. She was found dying on a bench in Lincoln park, near Diversey pkwy., early Wednesday. Two notes found beside her complained of ill health. Her husband, Joseph Alexander, testified he knew of no reason for suicide. The jury's verdict is believed to be the only one of its kind on record in Cook county.

GERMAN SPIES IN YANK UNIFORMS BEHIND U.S. LINES

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS NEAR STAVELOT, Belgium, Dec. 21 [Delayed].—In the chill mist of a Christmas tree forest, Capt. Fordyce Gorham of Coudersport, Pa., chatted unknowingly today with four Germans in a jeep—a captain and three privates wearing American uniforms.

Half an hour later this group and four other Germans, also wearing American uniforms, escaped after an unarmed private became suspicious.

"I am a boy from the hills," was Gorham's rueful comment, "and this time I was taken in by city slickers. Me, who's supposed to know about things like that."

All the Americans had been alerted to beware of Germans masquerading in our uniforms and using captured equipment. Spies had been sent ahead of the main German columns to gather information, harass communications, and attack command posts in the same way that the Germans had a reconnaissance screen on motorcycles in the invasion of Yugoslavia.

Talk Beside Road.

"I was standing beside the road," Gorham related, "when their jeep stopped. This guy in front was wearing a mackinaw with captain's bars on his helmet. The driver and the two other soldiers in the back looked like G. I.s, but they wore sweaters. They were carrying carbines and M-1s [Garand rifles].

"The captain said he was from blank corps and was looking for his tanks. He wanted to know if any had gone up the road. I told him some had, but that he couldn't get across the river because the bridge was out. He asked me how things were going and I answered in the usual fashion, 'All fouled up.'

"So he said he had some good news. He said Gen. Patton had broken thru and in 24 hours moved four armored divisions deep behind the German lines, capturing 11,000 prisoners and destroying 250 vehicles. Like a damned fool, I shouted: 'Whoopee, he's loose again.' The captain started to drive away, then stopped and asked me for a cigaret. What a dummy I am."

Medic Discovers Trick.

Somewhat later, nearer the front, Pvt. Theodore Watson of Brooklyn, N. Y., an unarmed medic, was standing in the shelter of a stone house while waiting for tank destroyers to come up to attack a German tank which had been firing thru the thick white mist.

Two jeeps skidded to a stop and four men jumped out of each. Watson thought such actions were strange and was about to challenge them when one of the masqueraders shouted to another in a German accent: "Where is it?"

The men ran for the woods. Watson shouted to Yanks in a snowy foxhole to fire on them as they were Germans, but the soldiers were hesitant because of the uniforms. The Germans reached the shelter of the trees before firing broke out. One German was seen to receive a wound and two of the Yanks were hit before the enemy disappeared.

Because of the circumstances of the Germans' flight and the cry: "Where is it?" officers believe a tank was waiting at a rendezvous to pick them up.

Salvaged from the encounter were the two jeeps and a set of German maps.

SENATOR ELECT REPORTED OUT OF GAS; HUNTED

Kane county sheriff's deputies thought it sounded a little silly yesterday when they were asked to find a United States senator-elect, his daughter, and two saddle horses "who had run out of gasoline." And tho they had no luck they communicated with scores of garages, hotels, and wayside filling stations trying to locate Senator-elect Wayne Morse [R., Ore.], his daughter, and his horses, with whom he supposedly is traveling cross-country to Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Morse, in Washington, told the Associated Press her husband had phoned her from near Aurora, reporting he was out of fuel. The deputies planned, if they found Morse, to offer him some gasoline, tho they thought that a man who could get enough to drive this far on a coast to coast jaunt should be resourceful enough to get more.

The searchers were handicapped also by not knowing what sort of equipage to look for. It seemed logical to them, however, that Morse must have a truck or truck and trailer. If the senator-elect and his daughter were riding the horses, one deputy pointed out, a lack of gasoline would be no obstacle.

Find Mexicans See U. S. End 'Good Neighbor' Plan

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 22 (AP).—A public opinion poll reported today that 54.6 per cent of 5,000 Mexicans interviewed believed that the United States would not continue "the good neighbor policy" toward Mexico and the rest of Latin America after the war.

BOB 3 IN CLOTHING SHOP.

David Helfand of 1355 N. Homan av., owner of a men's clothing shop at 1210 Union av., was robbed of $10 and two war bonds yesterday by two Negroes, who also took $15 from two customers, Armendo Trovi, 3135 S. Western av., and William Rubin, 3919 W. 14th st., Helfand told police.

11 YANKS HIDE IN CELLAR 10 HRS.; ENEMY UPSTAIRS

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN BELGIUM, Dec. 22 (AP).—Eleven American soldiers, caught in a town when German armor swept thru it, hid for ten hours in the cellar of a house occupied by enemy troops.

The men were in the house and were sitting down to breakfast when the Germans broke into town. As machine gun fire began spraying the house they dived into the cellar.

Black uniformed crews of two German tanks broke in, searched hastily and then sat down and ate the Americans' breakfast.

"There was no way out so we just sat tight in the cellar," said Tech. Sgt. Jack McClure of Sherman, Tex. "We were divebombed by our own planes and raked by our own artillery but it was music to our ears."

Eat American Rations.

During the day, as many as 18 Germans wandered about upstairs, ate American rations and smoked the Americans' cigarets.

One German raked the stairs and cellar door with a pistol. Another looked in the basement window and passing tanks peppered the building.

When a German officer and an enemy enlisted man walked into the cellar "Tuffy," the Americans' pet dog, kept quiet, and the crouching soldiers were not seen in the dark.

Shortly thereafter the pint-sized pup began to bark playfully. Afraid to risk their lives by repeatedly trying to keep him quiet, one soldier reached out in the dark and strangled "Tuffy."

Hike Thru Mud and Water.

Splitting into two groups, the Yanks made a break for their own lines after dark. As they left they said the Nazis started to burn down the town and blow up captured ammunition. The men hiked miles thru the mud, slush, and water.

Finally, they saw a patrol ahead and hesitated. Were they friend or foe?

"Are you Americans," doubtfully called one American.

"No, we are Yanks," came the answer.

The 11 men were safe.

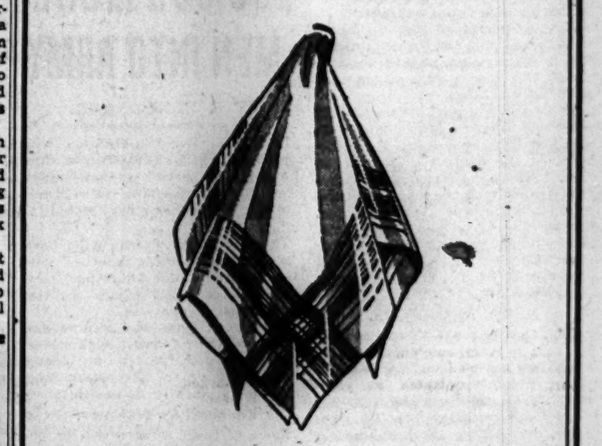

GERMANS FIGHT TO ESCAPE TRAP ON ITALIAN RIVER

ROME, Italy, Dec. 22 (AP).—German resistance northeast of Faenza on the Adriatic end of the Italian front has broken under pressure of Canadians who smashed to the Senio river on a broad front and captured Bagnacavallo, allied headquarters announced today.

The enemy line was broken north of Bagnacavallo, highway center eight miles northeast of Faenza, and the German command was battling to extricate troops, tanks, and guns pinned in a bulge on the west bank of the Lamone river.

Fifth army patrols to the west probed German positions south and southeast of Bologna, running into a concentrated artillery fire in all sectors.

GREEK LEFTISTS SEND NEW PEACE OFFER TO BRITISH

Rightists Charge Invasion by ELAS Forces.

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 22 (AP).—Lt. Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, tonight received a reply from the left wing ELAS group to the British terms for the cessation of hostilities. The ELAS answer is reported to be a new three point proposal and was signed by three members of the ELAS committee.

The ELAS message—delayed for four days because of the heavy street fighting—is being considered at British headquarters. It will take considerable time to translate the lengthy letter, it was said.

Meanwhile, Gen. Napoleon Zervas, chief of the rightist EDES, charged that 15,000 to 20,000 ELAS were invading his territory in Epirus, but the Greek capital itself was quieter today as British mopping up operations continued.

Tanks patroled the Omonia square region. An office building in that area—a favorite snipers' position—was set afire.

Deny Message from King.

As ELAS-British negotiations continued, the Papandreou government tonight denied a report that King George had communicated any decision on the regency question.

Meanwhile, a tentative acceptance of a regency was made by Archbishop Damaskinos of Athens, in an interview with the newspaper Elephteria.

Damaskinos said, "I believe the idea of state may be strengthened and this should be the main idea of a regency. I, therefore, consider I have no right to turn a deaf ear to the voice of my country."

The ELAS truce proposal was unofficially understood to agree to Scobie's terms, including disarmament and withdrawal of ELAS forces from Athens and all Attica, providing there would be a simultaneous formation of a new government.

It was understood that the ELAS would propose to disarm to an Anglo-Greek commission, rather than to the British forces with whom they have been fighting.

The dispatching of the new ELAS note was reported after hope virtually had been abandoned for settlement of the dispute before Christmas. It remained uncertain whether the British and the Greek government would accept the new proposals as the basis for negotiations. Scobie previously had demanded that that ELAS lay down their arms as a prerequisite to further negotiations—a demand the ELAS rejected.

British Attacks Gain.

Gen. Zervas reported to the British that a large body of ELAS already had overrun eight villages in his territory, from which they ejected all EDES suporters, and that they now were massing on Dhriskos ridge, overlooking his headquarters town of Yanina.

Continued British attacks with tanks and rocket firing Beaufighters appeared to be liquidating ELAS opposition in southern Athens and the near-by port of Piraeus. Following up his declared intention of cleaning up ELAS resistance, Scobie sent landing forces across the main harbor in western Piraeus in assault boats today.

The Tommies effected a landing, but ran into stiff resistance from ELAS machine guns and mortars in warehouses and industrial buildings.

ELAS forces appeared to be pulling out of the southern suburbs of Athens, where their communications lines were endangered, and regrouping to the north and northwest. British Sherman tanks in the foothills of Mount Likabettus shelled these ELAS concentrations, while rocket firing Beaufighters blasted ELAS held Averoff prison, demolishing its main block.

Ships Remove Prisoners.

British headquarters announced that 3,000 ELAS prisoners had been sent by sea to an undisclosed destination and that another 1,000 remained under guard in Greece. The International Red Cross reported that the ELAS had evacuated an unstated number of British prisoners into the mountains.

Civilians living in zones controled by the British were served over 100,000 meals yesterday. Recruiting for the government's new national militia began in Piraeus and officials said they expected 2,000 enlistments.

11 STORY PLUNGE KILLS INFANT; MOTHER SEIZED

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 22 [Special].—The estranged wife of an engraver was booked on suspicion of murder today after a 3 week old boy whom she identified as her son hurtled to his death from the 11th floor of a downtown office building.

Police said the woman, Mrs. Marian Johnson, 33, called them an hour after the baby's fatal plunge to report that her child was missing from its crib when she awoke from a nap. Taken to the county morgue, she identified the child as hers.

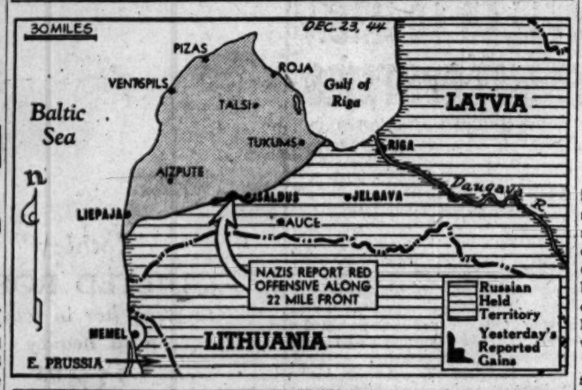

Detective Sgt. S. A. Brown said Janise Black, elevator operator, identified Mrs. Johnson as the woman who rode to the 11th floor with a baby wrapped in a blanket. The same woman later returned to the ground floor without the baby, Miss Black said.

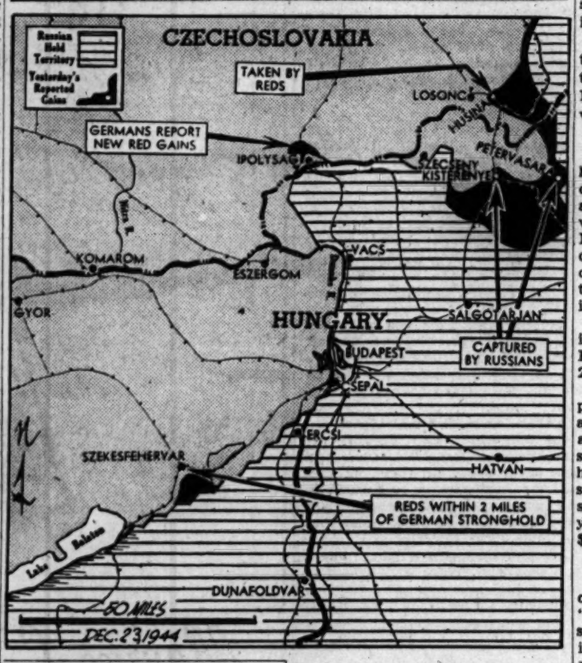

Mrs. Johnson told police her husband, Arnold Johnson, 33, who she believes is in the merchant marine, left her five months ago.

British Magazine Accuses U. S. on Civil Aviation

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—The New Statesman and Nation today accused the United States of adopting an uncoöperative attitude in such world matters as civil aviation and "marking out for itself a sphere of influence as alarming to other nations as any extension of frontiers."

Reds Smash at 2 Ends of Long Front

BRITAIN TO RUSH 250,000 MORE MEN INTO ARMY

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Britain will draft an additional 250,000 men into the army, a special announcement from No. 10 Downing st. [Prime Minister Churchill's office] stated tonight.

The increase, which will take place in the "coming months," will be above the quota which had been contemplated as necessary for the prosecution of the war.

Churchill's hand was seen in the phrase of the announcement which stated the new draftees are being called "in order to sustain and nourish our armies in the line."

Obtained by Transfers.

Some of the new men will be obtained by transfers to the army from the navy and the royal air force. Others will be selected directly from civilian life, including many workers no longer needed in the manufacture of munitions.

Still other front line troops will be found within the army itself, by combing out and retraining units and individuals who have been in noncombatant or administrative branches.

Jolt to Whitehall.

Despite Churchill's recent warnings of heavy battles to come the new German counter-offensive was said to have jolted Whitehall's government and parliamentary circles.

"It may have been a greater surprise than generally admitted," said Saturday's Daily Mail, "for apart from calling up of more men or their transfer from other services to the army there are other important changes pending in Whitehall following the German offensive."

No indication was given as to what the changes might be, but Churchill was said to have called for regular reports not only on the resistance offered to the Germans but also regarding events before the Germans struck. He was expected to make a statement in commons when parliament reassembles in mid-January.

CHICAGO POLES AMONG HEROES IN OWN FORCES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Many stories are being recorded here about the heroic activities of American-Polish citizens who have been fighting under the Polish banner thruout the most sanguinary battles of the European campaign.

One of the Yanks in a Polish uniform is Lance Corp. Antoni Wieczorek, 818 N. Racine av., Chicago. He said he was only 50 but confided that that has been his age for the last 10 years. Wieczorek was in the American army from 1922 to 1937, after emigrating from Poland in 1921. Part of his service was spent in the Philippines and Hawaii. He joined the Polish forces in May, 1941, and now is serving with a supply unit. In Chicago, where he has a brother, Adolph, he once worked as a cook and butcher in the neighborhood of North and Western avs.

Lance Corp. Josef Surmacz, 39, of 1441 N. Oakley blvd., is a Polish company cook. Two brothers, Frank and Peter live at the Oakley blvd. address while a third, Lee, is in the United States navy. Surmacz' parents live in Otis, Ind.

British Santa Has Planes for Children in Hospitals

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Children in hospitals and institutions will get an unusual Christmas gift when government departments distribute among them 7,000 silhouette models of war planes formerly used in aircraft recognition training courses. The models, which represent obsolete types, are made of wood or composition and are true scale replicas of the big planes.

RUSSIANS OPEN HUGE DRIVE IN LATVIA: BERLIN

Big Winter Offensive Called Imminent.

LONDON, Dec. 23 [Saturday] (AP).—Berlin said last night that 270,000 Russians, including ski troops supported by strong tank and plane formations, had begun "a big push of extreme operational importance" against 30 Nazi divisions pocketed in snowswept Latvia.

The Nazis said a crushing aerial bombardment opened the Latvian attack. It was followed by a 90 minute artillery barrage in which the Russians fired 170,000 shells into German dugouts. Then 27 soviet divisions sprang forward on a 22-mile front south and southwest of Saldus road junction.

A Moscow dispatch early today also said the long eastern front was stirring into action with strong Red army patrols probing German positions and sub-zero temperatures hardening the soil to create conditions in which the Russians in the past have won some of their greatest military successes.

Expect Long Front to Blaze.

Red army men have been issued all-winter equipment. Familiar white-robed skimen are once more in the lines; tanks have been winterized and men marshalled in strategic areas. It is believed the Red army shortly will strike the Germans from Latvia on the Baltic sea thru East Prussia and Poland down to the already active Czechoslovak-Hungarian front, said the dispatch.

Berlin predicted a general large-scale winter offensive "in the near future" as part of the allied master plan of finally crushing Germany from the east, west, and south.

Drive on Budapest.

The northern strike was launched Thursday at the same time that Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's 3d Ukraine army in western Hungary began a new drive southwest of Budapest in a double effort to surround the Hungarian capital and crack open a direct invasion route to Vienna.

Berlin also told of soviet gains northwest of Sahy [Ipolysag], 34 miles northwest of Budapest, where Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2d Ukraine army is threatening to break out into the Bratislava plain at a point within 85 miles of the Slovak capital and 115 miles due east of Vienna.

In Czechoslovakia meanwhile the Russians drove to within nine miles of the important rail center of Losonc [Lucenec] and to within six miles of a secondary junction near the Hungarian frontier, thus threatening to trap a sizeable force of Germans routed from the Hungarian Mara mountains by other soviet units attacking from the south.

RESCUE 7 U. S. FLYERS WHO HID FOR 2 MONTHS

ABOARD A SEAPLANE TENDER, Philippines, Dec. 22 (AP).—Seven men of a navy Liberator crew, who have been reported missing, were rescued after two months of hiding in a Japanese-held island in the Philippines. Among them was Ensign H. W. McDaniel of Illinois [whose home town is unavailable]. His wife and baby live in Los Angeles.

All of the men had been injured, several seriously. One of the crew was killed and two were missing. The Liberator was hit by anti-aircraft fire and crashed into the China sea. Within a day after the survivors reached shore at a nearby island, a Japanese bomber was shot down, crashed in their midst, killing one of the survivors and reinjuring three. The men were finally picked up from a native sailboat.

The survivors are going to Sydney and then to the United States.

FRENCH SHOOT 18 COLLABORATORS IN WEEK'S TIME

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 22. — Provincial firing squads so far this week have set a record by executing 18 persons who were convicted of collaborating with the Germans. In addition, six collaborators who had been sentenced to death were executed in the last four days by "unknown persons." These victims were seized from authorities.

Six of the legally executed persons faced firing squads this morning. One was a woman.

Other executions this week were three at Nimes, three at Arles, three at Rouen, and one each at Bethune, Tours, and Aix-en-Provence.

Slain by Tommy Guns.

Four alleged collaborators who had won the right to appeal their death sentences were slain by men armed with tommy guns as they were being transferred from the Beziers jail to Montpellier. Two convicted collaborators, who were confined to a hospital pending their legal execution, were killed in Tarbes.

Courts of justices in the provinces, particularly in southern France, are sentencing from 12 to 20 collaborators to death each day.

At Nimes Angelo Chiappe, former prefect of the department of Gard and a brother of the late Jean Chiappe, Paris prefect of police, was sentenced to death today. His trial had attracted large crowds. Admission tickets to the courtroom, with a seating capacity of 200, were sold yesterday by speculators as high as $60 each.

Ex-Prefect Denies Charges.

The former prefect, whom the official report described as a man "half crazed by the abuse of strong drink," was accused of shouting: "Long live Germany," furnishing a false French identity card to a German detective who was spying on the Maquis [patriots], and participating in a manhunt for Maquis. Chiappe denied all charges. He said he had used his influence with the Germans to free arrested patriots.

Josseline Gael, 27, a movie star, and Jean Max, stage and screen actor, were arrested in Paris today. Miss Gael is accused of being the mistress and partner of a former butcher's boy who allegedly became rich thru the black market and illegal foreign exchange deals. She also is accused of acting as "killer" for Jacques Doriot's French People's party.

The butcher's boy, who is sought by the police, is said to have killed a Jew. Max is accused of acting in German propaganda plays broadcast over the Paris radio during the occupation.

JAPS RUSH MORE TROOPS TO HOLD CHINA RAIL CITY

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 22 (AP).—Reënforcements were brought up to bolster stiffening Japanese resistance at Hochih tonight, the Chinese high command announced. Observers here believed the enemy had decided to try to hold the Kwangsi province town as one of its strongpoints screening the China Indo-China corridor.

"Severe fighting" was in progress around the South China railway town, a Chungking radio broadcast said. It said Chinese units east of the town were "fighting to regain" another near-by railroad town.

Praising what it described as "effective" American air support now being given to the Chinese counter-offensive in Kwangsi, the Chungking broadcast reported that United States fighter planes had bombed Kwaiyuancheng and Liuchow.

An American bulletin said five Japanese aircraft were destroyed yesterday when P-51s attacked an airdrome at Tsinan, 150 miles south of Tientsin on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

BULLETS MADE IN U. S. FIRED ON YANKS BY JAPS

LEYTE, Philippines, Dec. 22 (AP).—Soldiers fighting the Japanese here know what it's like—how the enemy must feel—to have American-made bullets whine and shells crash about them. One-third of the ammunition captured in Japanese dumps in the early phases of the Leyte campaign was manufactured in the United States. It had been seized by the Japanese when they invaded the Philippines early in the war.

A majority of the Japanese garrison on Leyte was found to be armed with .30 caliber, model 1917 Enfield rifles, originally made for the United States army.

An American 75 mm. field gun was discovered, when the mud brown Japanese paint was rubbed off, to bear the colorful crest of a Filipino regiment.

The recaptured ammunition included large quantities of .30 caliber cartridges, both in rifle clips and machine gun belts. Much of this bore the Frankfort arsenal stamp, showing it had been manufactured in July, 1941.

British Motorists Turn On Lights; Trolleys Dimmed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Continuing the piecemeal relaxation of its black-out, Britain tonight granted permission to motorists to remove the masks from their front and side lights and to illuminate their rear license plates. Bicycle lights also may be unmasked, but operators of all vehicles still must extinguish their lights on orders from police. While the new easement applies to public buses, trolleys still must keep their lights shjelded.

JAP PLANE CITY BLASTED AGAIN BY SUPER FORTS

Nagoya Raided Third Time in 10 Days.

21ST BOMBER COMMAND, Saipan, Dec. 22 (AP).—A good sized force of B-29s bombed Nagoya, Japan's aircraft center, again today. The Super-Fortresses flew thru a thick overcast and ran into heavy anti-aircraft fire and a horde of defending fighter planes.

Precision instruments helped to overcome the handicap of the overcast and the bombardiers expressed confidence their loads of explosives found a mark. Gunners caught sight of parts of the city thru holes in the clouds.

It was the third time in 10 days that the B-29s had flown 1,400 miles from Saipan to plaster the Nagoya area.

[The war department said none of the attacking planes was lost to enemy action. The attack was centered on a Mitsubishi aircraft plant, but results were unobserved due to the overcast.]

Meet Heavy Fire.

The first planes over the city today met heavy anti-aircraft fire but few enemy fighter planes. As in previous raids, the later B-29 formation fought off many Japanese fighters.

Capt. Jay J. Brown and his bombardier, Lt. Norman Ek of 2445 N. Newland av., Chicago, estimated 150 enemy fighters were in the air. Lt. George H. Timson, navigator of Silvis, Ill., said enemy planes were coming in from all angles, some "very aggressively." Another Illinois flyer who took part in the raid was Lt. Herschel Connor of Canton.

[Japanese broadcasts reported about 100 planes participated; that they didn't do much damage, and that 10 of them were shot down. Japanese reports added that the prefectures of Shizuoka, Aichi, and Osaka on the east coast of Honshu Island were raided, that one plane bombed Fukushima prefecture north of Tokyo and that another penetrated the Tokyo vicinity but did no damage.]

"Dream Girl" Leads Parade.

When the B-29s left here today Brig. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell was in the control tower. With him was Col. Mike Lee of Mount Pleasant, Ia., deputy chief of staff.

Leading the plane parade to Nagoya was "Dream Girl." Among its crewmen were Lt. Robert Berfield of Toulon, Ill., and William Swiatek of Chicago.

When one of his B-29s failed to return from a night weather strike mission against Nagoya, Lt. Col. Robert Haynes of Hermosa Beach, Cal., a Super Fortress unit commander, sought permission to search for it.

Finds 10 Survivors.

Basing his search largely on hunch and luck, he found the survivors on two rafts a half hour after his take-off—10 men, and all uninjured. But two others had drowned.

Col. Haynes sighted them at about 11 a. m. and stayed over them for three hours until they were rescued by a destroyer, about 130 miles northwest of Saipan. Among those rescued was Robert G. Lovell, River Falls, Wis.

EX-MISTRESS OF MUSSOLINI GETS 30 YEARS

ROME, Italy, Dec. 22 (AP).—Cornelia Tanzi, 36 year old poet and artist identified in court as a former mistress of Benito Mussolini, was convicted on a charge of collaboration with the Germans today and sentenced to serve 30 years in prison.

Many of Rome's Bohemians testified at the trial. The poet read a book of her verse entitled, "O My Lord." Defense counsel, announcing an appeal, said the only real charge against her was that she had a brief affair with Mussolini before the outbreak of the Ethiopian war.

Two Italian generals, Riccardo Pentimalli and Ettore del Tetto, convicted of failing to defend Naples from the Germans in the days following the Italian armistice with the allies, were sentenced to serve 20 years.

U.S. PLANES DESTROY MORE BRIDGES HELD BY JAPS IN BURMA

CALCUTTA, India, Dec. 22 (AP).—As United States 10th air force pilots wrecked more enemy bridges front line dispatches indicated today that the Japanese had decided to give up northwest Burma and fall back to a defense line around Mandalay. Field reports offered mounting evidence that the enemy was in general retreat from the town of Indaw in a quarter circle southwest to Gangaw, on the Myitha river.

In the northern combat area the "Burma bridge busters"—the 490th medium bomb group—have knocked out eight more Japanese bridges, five of them railroad spans. Other formations of American planes streaked over the 450 mile jungle stretch between Lashio and Moulmein, plastering Japanese troops, vehicles, supplies, and defense works almost without opposition.

In the ground fighting British 14th army troops have struck south from the captured town of Wuntho on the Myitkyina-Mandalay railroad and occupied Kawlin. Near the west Burma coast the town of Rathedaung, on the east bank of the Mayu river about 25 miles north of Akyab, was shelled by British and Indian naval units supporting the Arakan offensive.

Argentine Protest by 17 Latin Nations Jan. 25

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 22 (AP).—The work stoppage voted by the recent Latin American Labor Federation congress in Colombia to protest against the Argentine government will be held in 17 nations on Jan. 25, Vicente Lombardo Toledano, president of the federation, said here today. Workers will pause for 15 minutes during the day, and for the same period at night. Affected will be the Latin American republics with affiliated labor groups. The labor federation objects to the Argentine government as "Fascist."

YANKS DRIVE FOR ESCAPE PORT OF JAPS ON LEYTE

MacArthur's Prayer

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Dec. 23 [Saturday] (AP).—Gen. MacArthur today issued the following Christmas prayer to his command: "It is my Christmas prayer that merciful God will continue to preserve and protect the members of this fine command and return each and every one of you safe and well to your beloved homes."

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Dec. 23 [Saturday] — (AP). — The United States 77th infantry division has advanced three miles west of the Ormoc corridor on the mountain road toward Palompon, escape port for the embattled Japanese remaining on Leyte Island, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

Palompon, which is on the western coast of the northwest shoulder of the island, is under American artillery fire. Japanese remnants fleeing from the corridor are trying to cut their way thru to Palompon.

Mop Up in Other Areas.

Mopping up continues in other areas near the corridor, where the door has been slammed shut on the Japanese after destruction of their defense lines. Another 1,546 enemy dead were counted Thursday. MacArthur has reported the finding of 12,873 Japanese dead in the last seven days.

The Japanese air force continued its raids on American ground positions on Mindoro, far to the northwest of Leyte, and lost nine planes. Two American fighters were lost in intercepting the attack. Enemy ground opposition still had failed to develop on Mindoro.

New American bases on Mindoro have accelerated the tempo of the aerial invasion of Luzon. Mindoro is now within 30 minutes' flight of Manila, on Luzon to the north.

Clark field, near Manila was again attacked by heavy bombers, causing fires and explosions. It was the fourth consecutive day of attacks on Luzon.

A hundred tons of bombs were dropped on air fields on Cebu and other Visayan Islands, cratering runways and destroying or damaging 13 Japanese planes. Heavy raids also were made on airdromes at Davao and Zamboanga, to the south.

Identify Two Lost Ships.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Two American warships lost off Leyte in the Philippines were identified by the navy today as the destroyer Mahan and the destroyer transport Ward.

Loss of the two ships, which raises to 236 the number of naval losses since the war started, was announced Dec. 8 by Gen. MacArthur. They were not identified at the time.

At that time he reported the vessels were heavily damaged by aerial torpedoes. Their crews were removed and the ships then were sunk by our own forces, he said.

There was no loss of life on the Ward, which had an outstanding war record including the sinking of a Japanese submarine early on Dec. 7, 1941, Pearl Harbor day. Built during the last war, the Ward at that time was constructed in 17½ days, setting a world's record for destroyer building.

The Mahan was built in 1933 and had participated in many landing actions in the Pacific area. Next of kin of the casualties aboard the Mahan, which carried a crew of about 170 men, have been notified, the navy said. The number of casualties was not disclosed.

GUNS ON LEYTE BOMBARD JAPS WITH TRUE NEWS

LEYTE, Philippines, Dec. 22 (AP).—Publication of a newspaper for isolated Japanese troops was started today by the American psychological warfare branch. A weekly two-page illustrated tabloid, it will be delivered from the air and by artillery. It is printed in Japanese, with pictures illustrating the good treatment accorded to Japanese on American-occupied Saipan.

Lt. Col. Claude E. Hawley.

The psychological warfare branch said the purpose was to break enemy morale by disclosing the truth. A spokesman said many Japanese have not heard of Japanese defeats since Attu.

The first issue carried headlines about the Mindoro and Ormoc landings by American troops, and the earthquake and Super Fortress blows at Japan's homeland. The paper is directed by Lt. Col. Claude E. Hawley, Waukegan, Ill.

DON'T GET TOO ELATED BY NAZI DRIVE, JAPS TOLD

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Tokyo newspaper Asahi told its readers yesterday that they must not become "too elated over the German success" in Europe.

The current Nazi counter-attack has been hailed in all quarters of Japan, said the editorial, broadcast to the controled Asiatic press by Domei news agency, but the Japanese must not "sit back and relax."

The broadcast editorial exhorted the Japanese to exert every effort, and to "join hands with Germany and open the road which will lead to victory."

STRIKES COSTING LIVES OF YANKS, SHAFER ASSERTS

Says Shortage of Shells Permitted Nazi Drive.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Charging that strikes and other production failures have cost the lives of American boys in Europe, Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.] today said the German drive into Belgium could have been stopped in its inception but for serious shortages of ammunition and heavy artillery pieces.

Shafer, a member of the house military committee who has just returned from the European war front, appealed to American workers to stick to labor's no-strike pledge to save American lives and end the war more quickly.

"General officers informed me that they are rationing artillery shells fired by their batteries," Shafer said in a statement. "They further informed me frankly that if it were not necessary so to curtail the use of ammunition, many men who have died in our uniform would be alive today. The only reason for such rationing is a shortage of ammunition.

Continue to Be Lost.

"The stark fact is that lives of American men have been lost, are being lost, and will continue to be lost because there are not enough shells and guns on the fighting fronts.

"The blood of these men who have died needlessly stains the hands of those who have failed to produce. No matter how justified a worker may think he is in striking or in slacking off on production, no argument, no demand for seeming rights, can justify what amounts to a slaughter of those who are fighting for us all."

The congressman said the serious shortages were disclosed to him and other house members on their recent tour by high ranking generals on the western front.

Scarcity of Other Things.

"My conversations with these generals convinced me," he said, "that if we had had the long range guns we needed and the ammunition to go with them, the German drive now in progress could have been stopped before it got started.

"And it is not only these shortages. There are scarcities of trucks, tires, and other vehicles. I am sure no American worker who realizes this would permit anything or anybody to break down the essential line from raw materials to finished products.

"There is not much we can give our men in the war for a Christmas present, but the American workers can pledge themselves now that never will anything again for an instant interfere with the production of these vitally needed supplies."

Shafer said this critical period is not the time to indulge in "recriminations" over past mistakes or to attack individuals. In his opinion, he said, our present reverse in Europe is not the result of any one's poor planning, but stems primarily from underproduction that could not have been avoided by military planners. He said our generals expected a big German push to come soon, but did not have the equipment to stop it.

Controled by Professionals.

Shafer said the German army has undergone a tremendous change in its leadership since D-day last June, and is, he added, completely controled now by able professional soldiers. He said our generals recognize that Hitler no longer is taking a direct hand in German military strategy.

Discussing the Italian campaign the congressman said our forces there are faced with greater equipment shortages than the allied armies on the western front. Our army in Italy, he added, has only one eight-inch gun on the entire front, and that, he said, was borrowed from the British. He termed the Italian front the "sad sack and forgotten front," but described it as a "necessary holding action" to pin down part of the Nazi forces.

INJURED IN PLANE CRASH, HIS LIFE IS SAVED BY NURSE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—A fast thinking flight nurse was credited today by the army with saving the life of a crewman on a hospital plane after his throat had been cut in the crash of the ship.

She is 2d Lt. Louise Hawkins, 23, Redwood City, Cal., who was in charge of 24 litter patients aboard the air transport command plane flying from Palau to Guadalcanal in the Pacific.

The pilot of the plane, 1st Lt. George W. Jones, 23, St. Albans, W. Va., crash-landed the plane on a tiny island when its gasoline supply ran out. All those aboard, except the one crewman, escaped injury.

Swiftly and efficiently, the war department related, Lt. Hawkins fashioned a suction tube from a syringe, a colonic tube, and inflation tubes from a life saving jacket, and with this contrivance kept the man's throat clear of blood until a destroyer arrived 19 hours later. The identity of the injured man was not disclosed.

Flyer Gets His Greatest Thrill—in Police Stables

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 22 (AP).—Lt. Erwin Letak, who has downed four Jap planes and completed more than 109 missions, got his biggest thrill today—in the city stables. As the flyer entered a stall, Paint, a big, black police department horse, turned his head, stomped, and rubbed his nose against the man who rode him when he was a mounted patrolman. Paint had refused to let any one ride him for the two years Letak has been away. Now he was ready to go again.

CHICAGO MAKES YULE MERRY FOR BLIND AND HALT

Children Get Gifts at Many Parties.

Chicago generously opened its heart yesterday for the blind, the maimed, and other unfortunate persons, most of them children, at scores of Christmas parties, and many more parties are planned for today, tomorrow, and Monday.

Blind Jean Dowden, 6, of 1101 N. Sacramento av., was happily surprised by a visit from members of the Philanthropic club's committee for the handicapped, who presented her with a live canary and some toys. The group, headed by Mrs. Henry N. Schaefer of 4406 Kimball av., then visited Anne Mae Preston, 8, blind Negro child of 434 E. 41st st., who received similar gifts. Listening to birds sing is believed by many physicians to sharpen the hearing of the blind.

Clown Visits Hospital.

Ill and crippled children at Michael Reese hospital had a party at which Mandel Brothers' clown, Koko, made his traditional appearance and gave scarves to the boys and babushkas to the girls. All the children received toys and candy and other gifts.

A score of the little charges of the Martha Washington Home for Dependent Crippled Children, 4515 Drexel blvd., were guests at a dress rehearsal yesterday of "Hansel and Gretel" to be sung in English tomorrow and Monday in the Civic Opera house.

Children at the Chicago Commons War nursery at 956 Grand av. had a joyful time trimming the Christmas tree.

2,000 Children at Party.

More than 2,000 youngsters visited the Wicker Park Lions club party in the Fairfield Savings and Loan association banking room at 1601 Milwaukee av., where there was a huge tree. Candy and toys were distributed by Santa Claus, impersonated by Edgar T. Woods, club president.

Forty cadet nurses of South Shore hospital at 8015 Luella av. staged their own Christmas party last night with their own orchestra and soloists, including Miss Maxine Edwards, pianist; Miss Edna Snell, vocal soloist and accordionist; Miss Dorothy Kraus, clarinetist, and Miss Jean Kennedy, violinist.

Trucks from the Chicago service men's centers picked up 4,000 gifts from three west side firms and on behalf of the South Austin office of civilian defense organization will deliver them along with a three foot wide cake to the center in the old Auditorium hotel at Michigan and Congress sts. for ceremonies at 9 o'clock tonight.

C. Y. O. to Entertain 1,000.

Approximately 1,000 children will be guests at 1:30 p. m. today of the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, senior auxiliary bishop of Chicago, at the seventh annual Catholic Youth organization Christmas party, 31 E. Congress st.

Thirty girls from St. Casimir Academy High school yesterday sang Christmas carols to county jail inmates and later sang in the Criminal court building lobby.

The Volunteers of America will start distribution of Christmas baskets, containing nonrationed fare because of OPA point collection requirements, at 9:30 a. m. today at its headquarters, 2841 Washington blvd.

Greater Chicago lodge No. 3, Loyal Order of Moose, will be host to 1,000 children at 2 p. m. tomorrow at 1016 N. Dearborn st.

400 N. ZEALAND GIRLS HAIL THEIR YANKS AT PARTY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Dec. 22.—Four hundred New Zealand girls of the Eagle club, awaiting calls to the United States to join their husbands and fiances, paid tribute to the absent boys at an American Christmas party. The honored guests were Kenneth S. Patton, the American minister, and a Chicago Tribune correspondent.

The girls presented the Nativity play, followed by a vaudeville show. Gifts were hung on a Christmas tree. A supper included coffee, cake, and ice cream.

The best wish she could offer the girls, said Mrs. Ina Brennan, the club president, wife of a marine from Washington state, was that "the next Christmas might be spent in America."

Pawns Stolen Flatiron, Sentenced to 60 Days

Judge George B. Weiss in Shakespeare Avenue court yesterday sentenced Stanley Jagielski, 39, of 2037 N. Winchester av. to 60 days in the Bridewell on a charge of stealing a flatiron belonging to a neighbor and pawning it.

G.O.P. CANDIDATE SUES TO BECOME UTAH GOVERNOR

Salt Lake City, Utah, Dec. 22 (AP).—J. Bracken Lee sought today by legal action to become Utah's governor after his failure in the Nov. 7 general election to defeat the incumbent, Gov. Herbert B. Maw. The official canvass gave Maw a 1,056 majority.

Lee, a Republican, filed suit in 3d District court, seeking under the corrupt practices act to disqualify Maw and asking that he be named governor instead.

The complaint accused Maw, a Democrat, of making "excessive and illegal" expenditures during the campaign; of using state liquor stores for the distribution of campaign literature, and asserted that Maw "caused the intimidation" of recipients of old age pensions.

Roscoe Boden, Utah Democratic state chairman, called the charges "groundless."

Pastor Will Distribute 235 Bushels of Apples

A truck loaded with 235 bushels of Michigan apples will halt at 11 a. m. today at the Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial home, 1400 Monroe st., for the first distribution by the Rev. Carl P. Nelson of the Chicago Evangelistic center among approximately 100 institutions for the blind, aged, and other unfortunates. It will be the 14th consecutive year the Rev. Mr. Nelson has made such gifts.

SANTA TO WEAR G. I. KHAKI FOR LITTLE BRITONS

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—American troops who make friends of children wherever they go, will try to make this Christmas resemble those at home by entertaining thousands of British children with parties at Red Cross clubs thruout Britain.

In London, the Red Cross, with transportation provided by the British admiralty and other agencies, will gather up children from the East End dock quarter and other bombed out areas and deliver them to the clubs. Each G. I. will be host to a child for the whole day. In addition to the children's parties there will be free turkey dinners for the troops at each of the 12 London Red Cross clubs and elsewhere thruout the country.

Candy Rations Saved.

For many weeks the G. I.'s have been saving a part of their candy rations to give the children who also will receive gifts, a big feed, and be entertained by movies and magicians.

The London Eagle club party will be broadcast to America. Adm. Stark, commander of the United States naval forces in Europe, is expected to be present at the Golden Square club, where sailors will entertain children of British merchant seamen.

Soldiers and WACs from the Moysten club will visit British hospitals on Christmas eve to sing carols to the patients.

Sixth War Christmas.

Its cheer damped down but not snuffed out by the German counter-offensive on the western front, Britain is preparing to celebrate its sixth war time Christmas, with the fervent hope that this may be the last Yuletide on which Mars eclipses the Star of Bethlehem.

In some respects this will be the best Christmas of the war for London's little folk—they'll get a few extras in the way of food—but on the other hand an ironical situation arises in that while more money is floating around the country than ever, there has never been so little to buy with it.

Yanks Hosts in Alsace.

6TH ARMY GROUP HDQ., Dec. 22 [Reuters].—Santa Claus will not pass by the children of some war darkened village in 7th army territory. Officers and men of the 15th corps are pooling Christmas gifts from home for the kiddies of war torn Alsace.

Bubble Bath Powder.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Dec. 22 (AP).—A lot of sailors out in the Pacific are getting bubble bath powder for Christmas—and they haven't seen a bathtub in months.

More than 500,000 bags of mail reached Pacific stations during November and early December, Lt. Comdr. Earle D. Chance, fleet postal officer, reported.

Live Fowl Dropped.

KANDY, Ceylon, Dec. 22 [Reuters].—Thousands of live geese, ducks, and chickens are being parachuted to men in the forward areas of Burma to provide them with a good Christmas dinner.

Extra sorties are being flown so that the men get the meat, fruit, and chocolates.

69 MORE STRIKE FOR RIGHT TO SIT IN DODGE PLANT

A strike which began Thursday because the company removed stools, chairs, and boxes, used by workers at their machines, spread to include more workers yesterday in three departments at the Dodge Chicago plant, where most of the engines for B-29 Super Fortresses are made. The number on strike increased from 56 Thursday to 125 last night.

The seats had been accumulated by the workers, without permission of the company, an official said. They were removed in trucks which went thruout the plant Thursday in an effort to "increase efficiency," the company said.

Strikers protested the removal, saying that "production was increased by the use of the seats at the machines." Seventy workers were sent home from the three departments because they lacked materials.

GIRL, 5, TO LEAVE HOSPITAL; BEST CHRISTMAS GIFT

Beatrice Downey, 5, for half of her life a patient in county hospital, will spend Christmas this year with her mother, Mrs. Oliver Thibedeau, and her new stepfather in their home at 9931 Ewing av. Beatrice, under treatment for a skin and dietary ailment, has been told by physicians that she can leave the hospital today or tomorrow.

Mrs. Thibedeau, as happy as her daughter, and her husband already have done their Christmas shopping for the child. Among other gifts, the little girl will receive a chair, a teddy bear, a fuzzy dog, and a doll. A candy filled stocking will be hung for her on the Christmas tree, but Beatrice is unable to eat candy because of her ailment and will save the confection to serve to guests.

The child's Christmas will be shared by two sisters, Patricia, 8, Sharon, 4, and a brother, Earl, 12. Two older brothers, Jack and Ernest, are in service.

Seek to Make Trust Firm Pay Tarnowsky Alimony

Attys. Joseph H. and Norman Becker, representing Capt. Alexis de Tarnowsky, filed a petition with Judge Michael Feinberg in Circuit court yesterday asking him to compel the Metropolitan Trust company to pay alimony owed by Mrs. Alice Rand de Tarnowsky McIntosh, Barrington heiress. The company is custodian of a $100,000 trust for her, and the attorneys said she did not pay the $200 a month alimony for December. Judge Feinberg granted leave to make the trust company a defendant in Capt. de Tarnowsky's divorce suit.

CATHOLIC PAPER ASSAILS ALLIED POLISH POLICY

Demands Protest on 'Horrible Crime.'

Boston, Mass., Dec. 22 [Special].—Declaring "Poland is being sold down the river," The Pilot, official organ of the Boston Roman Catholic archdiocese, will say in an editorial tomorrow that "idealism, principle, demands that we cry out against this crime no matter the cost."

"The guilding scraped off and the naked actuality laid bare, the world knows that Poland is being used horribly," the editorial reads.

"Churchill knows. So do De Gaulle and our state department. But by saying nothing and doing nothing, we condone this Herodian murder of innocents."

Curzon Line Only an Armistice.

"And the motive for our silence and Churchill's consent is the very mirage that seduced poor Chamberlain [former British prime minister] —'peace in our times,'" The Pilot will continue.

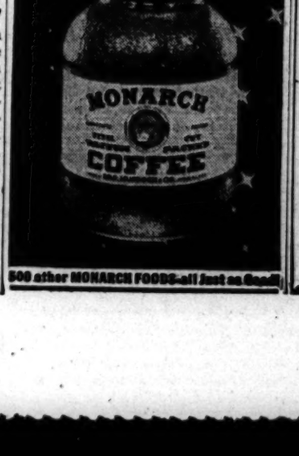

"The 'Curzon line' was intended only as an armistice boundary to last for one month. Not for a moment could it be justified as a permanent Polish border if an honest effort were made to apply the Atlantic charter principles to this issue. As sop for the theft of land and people indisputably Polish, Poland is offered a segment of land and people just as indisputably German."

Assails F. D. R. Policy.

United States Sen. Weeks [R., Mass.] tonight released a letter sent to several Polish constituents in which he declared that the policy of President Roosevelt and the New Deal administration toward Poland was "weak and vacillating" and that in the Polish case "truly 'the birds are coming home to roost.'"

"President Roosevelt, at least inferentially, gave our citizens of Polish descent every reason to believe their mother country would not be subject to another partition," Sen. Weeks wrote. "I am sorry to have appear indications that Mr. Roosevelt and his government may not be able to live up to their commitments in this respect."

Weeks said he realized the difficulties and complexities of the situation and that it may not be possible "for you and me to bring out the ultimate settlement we desire," but "such an eventuality should and could have been foreseen had Mr. Roosevelt been willing to face realities and tell the people the truth."

DIVORCE COURTS DRAW GREATEST CHRISTMAS RUSH

Divorce courts were jammed yesterday with hundreds of women and many unhappy husbands in a pre-Christmas rush that was without precedent in the memory of veteran courtroom attendants.

At times the divorce applicants filled all seats, sat on window sills, leaned against walls and stood in the aisles as thickly as crowds of Christmas shoppers at department store counters.

Judge Michael Feinberg in Circuit court and Judges John A. Sbarbaro and Joseph Sabath in Superior court expressed dismay at the scenes.

For five hours Judge Sbarbaro did nothing but sign decrees. He signed approximately 150 decrees, many of which followed hearings held several weeks ago.

"In the good old days," Judge Sbarbaro said, "most people thought Christmas was a happy season for getting married. Now, unhappily, the custom appears to be reversed."

Wife Hides in Car and Listens.

One of the decrees he signed was granted to Mrs. Effie Ramig, 38, of 3238 Elston av., mother of six children, who said she hid under a blanket on the rear seat of her husband's automobile while her husband, Richard, 39, a mechanic, made love to a Jane Doe in the front seat. They were married 18 years, but Mrs. Ramig said she learned more about love making in her half hour under the blanket on Nov. 19 than in all the rest of her married life.

She said she finally poked her finger against the back of Jane Doe, who cried "My goodness!" and fled. Ramig turned around and punched his wife, she said in support of her charge of cruelty. She was represented by Atty. Oscar Brotman.

Henry Shapiro, 60, of 4324 W. 16th st., a meat dealer who weighs 110 pounds, exhibited a tuft of hair in Judge Sabath's court to bear out his charge of cruelty against his wife, Ruth, 43, who weighs 210 pounds. She lives at 1819 S. Ridgeway av. and appeared yesterday to ask temporary alimony on a cross bill for separate maintenance she said she will file.

Explains About Tuft of Hair.

Attorneys Joseph H. and Norman Becker, representing Shapiro, said the hair covered a two inch patch on his pate, which has just a fringe on top. Mrs. Shapiro, they said, also tore off Shapiro's shirt and underwear, bit his finger, and chased him down a street. "I just got mad, Judge," said Mrs. Shapiro. Judge Sabath continued the case 10 days.

The first divorce for an absent service man since the Illinois Supreme court recently ruled that a personal appearance or deposition is not necessary when other proof is sufficient was granted by Judge Sabath to Naval Lt. Andrew Kolar Jr., 30, of 7546 Merrill av., who is in the South Pacific.

Kolar, son of an assistant county treasurer, was represented by Atty. Victor Frohlich, who exhibited letters to prove a charge that he was deserted by Mrs. Mildred Inwood Kolar, chief dietitian for American Air Lines in New York. They were married May 8, 1942, and separated Nov. 15, 1943.

"Other Woman" Aids Wife.

Mrs. Alyce Willer, 27, of 1520 School st., was granted a divorce by Judge Sabath on the ground of adultery after Miss Paula Nelson, of 3216 S. Halsted st., voluntarily testified that she had lived at intervals since Jan. 29 with Mrs. Willer's husband, Ralph, 30, a railroad fireman. Willer was arrested Wednesday night at the Dearborn station as he was about to leave for Galveston, Tex., with Miss Nelson. He was released from jail yesterday, and Miss Nelson said they would start for Galveston again. Atty. Harry X. Cole, representing Mrs. Willer, said she was "convinced of the futility of trying to keep my husband."

Mrs. Betty Hoffman, 34, of 3503 Adams st., who said she wanted a divorce from John Hoffman, 34, before New Year's eve, was given one on her charge of cruelty. Her attorney, Samuel Starr, said Hoffman gave her a black eye last Jan. 2 "while still celebrating."

DEARTH OF ARMY MAIL BLAMED UPON WEATHER

Altho action in Europe undoubtedly is keeping many thousands of soldiers too busy to do much letter writing, other factors probably account for the lack of mail for from one to three weeks, Maj. O. V. Rowe, 6th service command mail officer and commanding officer of the Chicago V-mail station, said yesterday.

Maj. Rowe said he has had no definite word about mail delay, but that from observation in the V-mail station it is indicated that winter flying weather has not been good. Microfilm on which V-mail is recorded is flown to the United States. In recent weeks, V-mail rolls have been reaching Chicago in large batches at increasingly long intervals.

Letter mail, Maj. Rowe said, comes by boat and, because holiday mail has been heavier than even the army anticipated, this may account for some of the delay. Shipping space, he added, also may be required for other purposes.

TWO MORE DAYS OF COLD WAVE, FORECAST SAYS

The cold wave which has enveloped Chicago will subside, after tomorrow night, Forecaster E. S. Hanlon said yesterday. He said a light snow was expected Christmas eve with somewhat warmer temperatures for Christmas. Yesterday's temperatures rose from a low of 2 degrees below zero at 3 a. m. to a high of 24 degrees at 9 p. m.

FRENCH LOAN RESULTS STIR CRY OF 'FAILURE'

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 22.—Disappointment was expressed today by resistance groups at the results of the much publicized "liberation" loan campaign, which closed Wednesday night.

The chief criticism of the loan, which Gen. De Gaulle called on his countrymen to make a "triumph," was that it failed to accomplish its primary purpose of ferreting out ill acquired gains and reducing the fiduciary circulation. The Franc Tireur, most aggressive of the resistance papers, charged that the loan was sabotaged by vested interests as part of the underground struggle against the resistance movement and the revolutionary spirit that animates it.

"Big Business" Assailed.

Critics said that while the provincial middle and working classes subscribed generously, only an insignificant part of the total came from bankers and big business men. Peasants who had hoarded large sums made during the occupation also made contributions far below estimates.

It was asserted that one billion dollars of the total subscription represented treasury bonds converted into government securities, thus reducing the new money invested to about 15 per cent of the fiduciary circulation.

The general conclusion of the critics was that the government's experiment in orthodox and gentle measures to clean up the financial situation had flopped and that more drastic steps were needed.

Total Still Undisclosed.

The figure given by the press for the total subscription was between 3 billion and 3 billion 200 million dollars. This was followed in some papers by a report that 2 billion 400 million dollars had been subscribed in Switzerland. These statements provoked a denial by the French press agency, which quoted a finance ministry spokesman as saying the total was not yet known. The same source was quoted as saying it had been impossible to subscribe to the loan abroad.

FRENCH TENSE OVER RUMORS OF SPANISH UPSET

But Cling to Policy of Hands Off.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOULOUSE, France, Dec. 19 [Delayed].—Persistent rumors of an imminent change of regime in Spain, with the banished Spanish Republicans headed by Miguel Maura negotiating secretly with sympathetic elements in Madrid, have revived tension in this border area. In the critical period in September and October, the Toulouse radio daily summoned Spaniards to revolt against Dictator Franco and thousands of Spanish Republicans, refugees in France since the revolution, sought to cross the frontier and lead the uprising.

Following Franco's reënforcement of his frontier army with elements which include African units, the French government has placed [several words censored].

While the French do not hide their antipathy to Franco and while they support the Republicans openly, they agree with their British and American allies that no provocations must arise to jeopardize the situation or interfere with Spain's domestic policy until after the European war is won.

Propaganda Stifled.

As a result of that policy the French government recently stifled inflammatory propaganda from the Toulouse radio and all material now carried by that transmitter is subject to censorship by the allied officer here.

The French attitude is highly complicated, however, by the fact that thousands of Spanish Republican refugees went to France after the revolution and became leaders of the Maquis [patriot guerrillas] during the German occupation. Spaniards undertook desperate acts of sabotage and hundreds sacrificed their lives to aid in the liberation of France. When the Germans fled after the Avranches break-thru, these Spaniards turned toward their homeland and attempted to infiltrate across the frontier to foment an uprising.

Failure of the Spanish people to react forcibly to propaganda calling for a revolt and the grim positional warfare along the Siegfried line, indicating many more months of war in the west, have convinced leading spirits among the Spanish Maquis and war veterans that they should await the end of hostilities against Germany before attacking the Fascist regime in Madrid.

Await Sign of Weakening.

It is recognized here, however, that the first sign of weakening by Franco—such as reorganization of the government to include any liberal or democratic elements—certainly will revive the determination of the Spanish Maquis to purge the Francoists.

Another factor causing this area concern is the status of thousands of German refugee soldiers in Spain. Technicians and specialists from the German army have been incorporated into Spanish units for improved efficiency.

Belief is expressed in some quarters here that when the French receive the equipment needed to start the liquidation of the 100,000 Nazis holding the Gironde estuary and La Pallice, the enemy may attempt to cut thru to Spain and internment rather than face capture or death.

A further belief is current here that if Franco should offer sanctuary to the Germans, the gravest crisis would result.

GRADE CROSSING PRIORITY DENIED BY WPB TO CITY

Because Chicago is classed as a critical labor shortage area, the war production board has refused to consider priorities for the construction of a grade crossing over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks on 87th st., at the main entrance to the Carnegie-Illinois steel plant, Ald. Bohling [7th] said yesterday. The city council had approved an appropriation of $98,000 for five blocks of street paving in the proposed crossing, which Bohling said would be used by 12,000 steel workers.

Time has made it America's Quality Beer

The holly at the window . . . the electric candle . . . and the colorfully wrapped gift packages are comparatively modern notes in today's festive holiday season. But time has made them as much a part of the yuletide as the carols and the tinseled tree. Time, likewise, has added much to the fine Old Style Lager you enjoy today. Its fine character originates in the slow old style krausening method of brewing we adopted nearly a hundred years ago. But down thru these many years, experience has introduced refinements in brewing by which we hold so steadily to the standards that have made Old Style Lager . . . America's Quality Beer.

BROWNE, BIOFF, LEADERS IN FILM RACKET, PAROLED

Ordered Freed After Less than Year in Prison.

New York, Dec. 22 [Special].—Willie Bioff, erstwhile Chicago pander, and George Browne, former boss of a theater workers' union, who were imprisoned for extorting $1,000,000 from the film industry, today were ordered released because they testified for the government in obtaining the conviction of a gang of six Chicagoans in a similar shakedown.

Federal Judge John C. Knox granted the application for release, which was consented to by Boris Kostelanetz, special assistant to Atty. Gen. Biddle. The defendants had served three years of their sentences, which for Bioff was 10 years and for Browne 8 years.

The two had been in federal prison less than a year. They were sentenced in November, 1941, but remained in New York until last May when they were taken to the penitentiary at Sandstone, Minn.

Parole Deal Reported.

There had been reports in September that the pair had made a deal with the government to be granted pre-Christmas paroles.

Prosecutor Kostelanetz said he approved the release because of the aid which the convicted extortionists had given the government, and added that it is the policy of the government to give recognition to the assistance of convicted criminals who become government informers.

"I have been impressed," Kostelanetz said, "with the fact the testimony given by Bioff and Browne was given in spite of latent and actual threats of physical harm, and in spite of the fact that—at least in their minds—they believed they would be objects of revenge on the part of the convicted men and of their families and associates for the balance of their natural lives."

Browne, 50, formerly was president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes [AFL], and Bioff, 44, was his personal representative, but referred to himself as having once been "boss of Hollywood."

Extortion of Movies Admitted.

They were convicted on three counts charging extortion of $550,000 from Warner Brothers, Paramount Pictures, Twentieth Century-Fox, and Loew's in exchange for not calling strikes and otherwise keeping labor peace within the film industry.

Bioff testified glibly to having "moved in on Hollywood" and to have collected more than $1,000,000 from film officials.

In the trial of the Chicagoans, who were described by the government as members of the old Al Capone gang, they were accused of having extorted money thru Bioff and Browne. The six are Louis Campagna, Philip D'Andrea, Francis Maritote, Charles Gioe, Paul De Lucia, and John Rosselli.

With the help of Bioff and Browne the government convicted them about a year ago. Each was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment and fined $10,000. On Wednesday the United States Circuit Court of Appeals upheld their conviction.

$20,000 Fines Paid.

Bioff and Browne, each of whom has paid a fine of $20,000, are to be released as soon as Judge Knox' order is served on the warden at Sandstone prison. Federal court authorities said it was not likely they would be freed before Christmas but that they probably would be out by New Year's day. They will be on probation for five years.

During their brief stay in prison Browne has been in charge of issuing clothing to other inmates and Bioff has been in charge of cleaning the prison garbage cans.

OUT OF UNIONS.

George E. Browne, who rose from business manager of local 2, the Chicago Stagehands' union, to president of the IATSE & MPMO union, with the help of Bioff and the old Capone gang, is "definitely out as even a member of both organizations," members of local 2 said yesterday.

Some months ago the local union brought charges against Browne, to oust him from membership. Browne resigned, according to William A. Sammon, attorney for the union.

"Bioff never was a legitimate member of the union, he was placed in the union by Browne, so he definitely will not have a place in the organization," Sammon said.

Daniel D. Carmell, attorney for the Chicago Moving Picture Machine Operators' union, which Browne looted as international president, and also attorney for the Chicago Federation of Labor and the Illinois State Federation of Labor, when he learned that Bioff and Browne had been released, stated emphatically that "neither is ever again wanted in the AFL movement. Men of their caliber are leeches on labor, and are the type that the AFL is glad to be rid of," Carmell stated.

Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman, when they learned that Bioff and Browne were to be released, joined in stating "the team of Bioff and Browne will never be welcome in Chicago."

VOIDS FIRING OF 7 CAPTAINS OVER GAMBLING

Judge Lifts Jail Terms for Merit Board.

Civil service commission orders under which six Chicago police captains and a lieutenant-acting captain were discharged from the force last June were voided yesterday by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Superior court. His action made it possible for the police officers to demand immediate reinstatement.

The ruling terminated a stormy session marked by table thumping, clashes among counsel and defendants, and stern ultimatums by Judge Graber. At one point it appeared that contempt jail sentences hanging over Walter L. Gregory, president, and William F. Clarke, member of the commission, might be executed summarily.

Vacates Jail Sentences.

With the voiding of the commission's orders, however, Judge Graber also vacated the jail sentences on the ground that the two had purged themselves of contempt by agreeing to amend the false records on which the police officers had been discharged. Corporation Counsel Hodes, representing the commission members, served notice the city would appeal the court's upset of the dismissal orders, thus blocking immediate reinstatement.

The officers are Captains Thomas H. Harrison, whose appeal for a review of his case brought to light the falsification of records; Louis Klatzco, John Cartan, Walter Healy, Thomas Connelly, and William Drury, lieutenant and acting captain.

The seventh officer, Capt. Eugene Barry, already has obtained two court orders for reinstatement and his case was included only technically in Judge Graber's ruling yesterday. All seven were dismissed by the commission on the general charge that they failed to suppress gambling.

Records Dated Falsely.

When Capt. Harrison appealed for a review and the commission was ordered to produce its records, it was found that the copy of proceedings dated June 16 and supposedly transcribed that day, actually had not been reduced to writing and signed until June 24 and therefore had been falsely dated. The court then sentenced Gregory and Clarke to jail for 30 days and fined each $2,500.

Gregory and Clarke yesterday offered amended records by way of purging themselves of the contempt. Stephen Love, attorney for Lt. Drury, charged early in the hearing that the supplemental material included two sheets falsely purporting to be a record of the commission's action. He corroborated the charge by questioning James S. Osborne, secretary of the commission. Osborne replied that he had made no notes at the meeting and that the two sheets in question were not minutes of the meeting, which were written up afterward by Miss Anne Fisher of his office staff.

Threatens Immediate Jailing.

"If this is true," said Judge Graber, "some one is in contempt and it will be direct contempt, from which there will be no appeal. I'm tired of temporizing with you people. I'm going to call in bailiffs who will take you right over to the county jail and lock you up.

"Intelligent men, two of whom are lawyers, would have seen to it that these matters were put properly into the record."

Hodes made an effort to show that the two pages represented a record of the proceedings, even if they were not actual minutes. He added that, after all, the court was trying to find out what had happened.

"The court is pretty well convinced of what happened that day," said Judge Graber. "No man's rights are safe if some one can come in in the face of records six months later and say: 'Now, here is what really happened.'"

Gregory Shouts for Rights.

When it came to changing the date on the commission's records from June 16 to June 24, the court ordered that the original date not be obliterated, but that it be changed in such a way as to show that a correction had been made. As this order was given, Gregory shouted:

"I evidently have no rights here, either as president of the civil service commission or as a citizen."

"Never mind that," said the judge.

"I am going to mind it," cried Gregory, pounding upon a railing.

"Don't talk to me like that," Judge Graber responded. "Those men you fired were citizens, too! They faced criminals with guns to protect you and me!"

PUT ON PROBATION FOR YEAR.

Roy Thomas, 49, of 949 Madison st., was placed on probation for a year yesterday by Judge Charles S. Dougherty on a charge of embezzlement after he said he would repay $159 he had taken from Ernest Scott, owner of a restaurant at 1859 Madison st.

MEN AT FRONT SPEAK TO FOLKS TUNED TO W-G-N

Tribune Writer Tells of Their Heroism.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Several Chicago families yesterday experienced the thrill of hearing soldiers sons, husbands, and brothers, all members of the 25th infantry division, speak to them from the western front in Europe. These personal Christmas messages were made possible thru interviews with Robert Cromie, Chicago Tribune war correspondent. They were broadcast by W-G-N, which sent telegrams in advance to the families so they might tune in.

Their Heroism Described.

All the men interviewed were holders of the bronze star. Their stories of heroism first were brought out by Cromie. Then they sent messages of Christmas cheer to their families. Tech. Sgt. William H. Smith sent his best to his wife and two children, Larry, 2, born on Valentine's day, and Cheryl, born last Armistice day, who were listening in their home at 7028 Union av. His sister, Mrs. Elaine Doyle, and others in the family tuned in at 7331 Dante av.

First Word Since Thanksgiving.

Staff Sgt. Speits H. Parker's voice thrilled his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Parker, 9808 Seeley av. They had received no word of him since Thanksgiving day. He went into the service five years ago while a student at the University of Illinois.

Others who were heard:

First Sgt. John S. Laskowski, 3024 W. 41st pl.; Sgt. Alex N. Borkowski, 1310 Portland st., Chicago Heights; Master Sgt. Stanley G. Koziel, 2624 W. 23d pl., and Staff Sgt. Henry English, whose wife resides at 2424 Madison st. Sgt. English also holds the Purple Heart.

F. D. R. APPOINTS NIGEL CAMPBELL TO REVENUE JOB

Nigel D. Campbell was named yesterday by the President to succeed Carter H. Harrison, 84, as collector of internal revenue for the northern Illinois district effective Dec. 31. Campbell had served as assistant to Harrison, who has announced his resignation. Campbell joined the internal revenue office here in 1933 as a deputy collector and after a series of promotions became assistant to the collector in 1942. His brother, Bruce, directed the downstate Democratic campaign.

I'LL PUNCH YOU, HE WARNS AND 3 ROBBERS FLEE

Joseph A. Sammons, president of the Haggard & Marcusson company, bedding manufacturers at 1109 W. 87th st., told police that three men attempted to rob him and two other officials in front of the company's offices yesterday, but fled when he threatened to punch one of the men, who fired three wild shots in the air. Oscar Heppes, 313 8th av., La Grange, vice president of the company, and Marshall Argyle, 5339 Leland av., assistant treasurer, were returning to their office with $4,000 in checks and $100 from a bank.

THOMPSON 'DAD' NOTE TO WOMAN RULED GENUINE

Court Accepts It in Suit for Million.

A note signed "Dad," which Miss Ethabelle Green, secretary to the late William Hale Thompson, contends indicated that the former mayor regarded her as a foster daughter, was accepted as genuine in Probate court yesterday with only a murmur of objection by James W. Breen, attorney for Mrs. Thompson. Miss Green is seeking $1,000,000 from Thopmson's 2 million dollar estate.

The note appeared clutched in the hand of Miss Green's attorney, Joseph T. Harrington, who spoke of his client thruout the hearing as "foster daughter" as well as secretary to Thompson. Harrington asserted Mrs. Mary Wyse Thompson had acknowledged the note as her late husband's handwriting. He said he wanted it recognized as genuine so he could have an expert compare it with some 40 other Thompson letters in his possession.

Agrees on Comparison.

Breen said he would not object to considering the note genuine for purposes of comparison.

"If it's genuine for one purpose, it's genuine for all purposes," said Harrington.

"All right, go ahead," Breen said, and Judge John F. O'Connell let Harrington read it into the record.

Altho yesterday's hearing was intended only to consider the note, Harrington prolonged it with an argument that Mrs. Thompson be removed as administratrix on the ground that she lacked business ability.

Breen Under Attack.

He also wanted Breen removed because he had paid $100,000 income tax for the estate. Harrington said the government had not claimed the payment. Breen said that by making the payment he has "saved $300,000," but he did not explain how.

"It's easy to pay out $100,000 when half of it comes out of my client's pocket," said Harrington.

Harrington also charged that Breen and Mrs. Thompson had destroyed clothing and papers belonging to Miss Green and left in the room in Thompson's Blackstone hotel suite which she occupied while employed as his secretary for 13 years.

TEACHERS ASK $200 MORE AS EMERGENCY AID

The Chicago Teachers' union has asked the board of education for a $200 emergency salary adjustment for all Chicago teachers in 1945 to compensate for increases in the cost of living, Ira S. Turley, union president, said yesterday. He reported the board had agreed informally to consider this and other union requests in preparing its 1945 budget, which will reach the board in preliminary form Wednesday.

The emergency adjustment would give the teachers more salary, but would allow the board to avoid a formal salary raise that might be hard to rescind later, it was explained. There was no indication whether the board would grant it.

The union also asked the board to adopt a single salary schedule for elementary and high school teachers, paying equal salaries for equal work. The high school scale is higher now. A third union request was that the 10 month year be restored at the Chicago junior colleges for parity with the high schools.

DRY OAK LAWN BEGS CHICAGO TO LEND WATER

Mayor A. H. Brandt of Oak Lawn asked each resident of the village yesterday to borrow five gallons of water a day from friends in Chicago to supplement the dwindling supply from the community well.

He said the well is pumping only 90 gallons of water a minute, compared with 300 gallons two months ago. W. R. Beatty, 9520 La Crosse av., said his home was without water for two days.

The village, which has a population of 5,724, has petitioned Chicago for permission to connect a 7,300 foot line with the city water main at 103d st. and Crawford av., and the city council may act on the request when it meets next week.

F. D. R. DEFENDS CHARTER'S AIMS AS STILL VALID

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—President Roosevelt placed the Atlantic Charter today in a class with documents which have been presented to the world for thousands of years in the effort toward the world's betterment.

Some people, the President said at his press conference, are saying that the objectives of the Atlantic Charter cannot be attained, and, he commented, people don't always live up to the Ten Commandments.

Mr. Roosevelt explained that he was not necessarily comparing the charter to the Ten Commandments, but that they are both pronouncements for a better world. He predicated that some one will come along in the future with something better than the charter.

A Direct Quotation.

Altho the direct quotation of Mr. Roosevelt's remarks at his press conferences is customarily banned, he authorized the statement that the principles of the charter "are as valid today as they were in 1941," when it was made public.

The President's inclusion of the Atlantic Charter with other declarations for the improvement of mankind, among which he ranked President Wilson's celebrated "14 points," and Mr. Roosevelt's reference to the principles rather than the enforcement of the Atlantic Charter, revived the controversy of the document.

It has been charged in the senate that the charter has been scrapped by the President's agreement to the dismemberment of Poland and by the recent events in Greece.

Only a Memorandum.

There has been considerable speculation as to the ultimate fate of the charter since Mr. Roosevelt disclosed on Tuesday that it never was a signed and sealed document known as the Atlantic Charter, but that it was only a memorandum.

This explanation brought from Sen. Bushfield [R., S. D.] the warning today that the President "cannot now laugh off" the interpretation that has been placed upon the charter thruout the world.

"President Roosevelt's jocular admission to the effect that nobody ever signed the Atlantic Charter was what he himself termed an amazing statement," Bushfield said in a statement.

Complete Explanation.

"It is so utterly at variance with what the American people and the world have believed that we are entitled to a complete explanation of what did take place and the meaning thereof.

"Is this amazing statement to be his answer to the rising demand for clarification of the basic principles of our foreign policy? Was it intended to be the President's idea of an inspired Christmas message of hope to the suffering people of the world?

"Whatever it was the President intended by his blithe assertion, he has in fact added to the confusion and uncertainties which have characterized his handling of our foreign policy.

Calls It Repudiation.

"No amount of jocularity can erase the record as to the origin, the content and the nature of the Atlantic Charter."

Bushfield accused Mr. Roosevelt of "lightly repudiating" what the world had accepted as a solemn declaration of principles by the American government.

"I'm glad I saved these tree decorations! The Army and Navy doesn't seem to have changed them too much!"

HOUSE MAY SKIP ILLINOIS IN WAYS AND MEANS POST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Illinois is scheduled to lose its representation on the powerful house ways and means committee as a result of the defeat of Rep. Dewey [R., Ill.] for reelection, congressional sources said today.

The place of Dewey on the committee, which originates all tax legislation, is likely to go to Rep. Curtis [R., Neb.], it was said. Surprise was expressed that house G. O. P. leaders now considering shifts in committee assignments have not chosen an Illinoisan to succeed Dewey, inasmuch as Illinois is one of the leading taxpaying states.

There is still a chance, leaders said, that Rep. Sumner [R., Ill.] may succeed to Dewey's post. Republican committee assignments will be definitely made after the new congress convenes Jan. 3. Choices are made by the G. O. P. committee on committees.

F. D. R. EXEMPTS WIFE IN REMARK ON COLUMNISTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt described columnists today as an unnecessary excrescence on our civilization, but he quickly declared Mrs. Roosevelt's newspaper column is different.

Mrs. Roosevelt writes mostly a diary, he differentiated to a news conference. The question of columnists arose this way:

A reporter said there has been some discussion of a joint chiefs of staff to handle political and economic matters for the allies. He asked whether anything like that was contemplated. Mr. Roosevelt replied that he thought columnists suggested it.

"I'm not a columnist and I wrote it," remarked James Wright of the Buffalo Evening News.

All he could say, the President replied, is that columnists are an unnecessary excrescence on our civilization.

"But you've got one in the family," burst out Elisabeth May Craig, who represents Maine newspapers.

Mr. Roosevelt laughed with his audience and said that was perfectly true. But, he said, Mrs. Roosevelt's column is a little bit different because mostly it's a diary.

Silent Night

CHRISTMAS EVE! When all the world is still and expectant. The sky is silver-dusty with a million stars. And the moon hangs low like a headlight.

Listen! What are those sounds that break the hush of the frozen prairies, the massive silence of the ice-clad Rockies, the deep quiet of the snow-decked evergreen forests?

They're the throb of the diesels, the hum of the electrics, the chug of the steam locomotives.

Yes, they're the sounds through the night of the speeding Hiawathas, the electrified Olympian, the Pioneer Limited, and other Milwaukee Road trains, carrying their precious burdens of people and things.

There's Private Smith coming home on Christmas furlough . . . a doll from grandma for the little girl down the line . . . a young mother fresh from kissing her sailor-husband goodbye . . . a new tractor for Farmer Olsen . . . high octane gas for the B-29's in the Pacific.

Nothing is permitted to interrupt The Milwaukee Road's essential service—even Christmas. All year round, three hundred and sixty-five days a year, 35,000 loyal, hard-working Milwaukee Road employes are giving their best. Their aim—to help speed the war to quick victory, and to provide you with dependable transportation.

GOVERNMENT HOARDING.

The RFC, with considerable pride in its own efficiency, has disclosed its plans for storing obsolete equipment and materials from war plants, pending sale. For this storage acres of space will be required in Chicago alone.

Instead of building permanent warehouses, which would cost several dollars a square foot, the RFC is going to use pre-fabricated steel buildings of a standard 20 foot width and various lengths and heights. Some of the structures can be heated, where that is necessary to protect the materials stored. They will cost a dollar or less a square foot and about half of the cost, it is estimated, can be salvaged by the resale of the buildings to farmers or manufacturing plants for use as storage buildings in new locations.

This seems an excellent plan and whoever thought of it deserves congratulations as one of those rare persons in government service who actually seems interested in saving some money for the taxpayers. Only one objection appears. Why is it necessary to store the machines and materials for any length of time?

The machines are obsolete only in the sense that the particular products which they were purchased to make are no longer needed in the war and the floor space where they stand in present war plants is required for different machines, making different products. Both machines and materials will be useful for peace time manufacturing. Instead of storing them why not sell them now?

Some storage space would, of course, still be needed while buyers are being found, but the extent of the warehousing program, involving sites of hundreds of acres, and the precautions that are to be taken to protect the materials against rust indicate that the storage period contemplated is not for a few weeks but for many months or years. Why immobilize these useful materials and machines at a time when the productive facilities of the country are being strained? The thing to do is to sell them immediately.

Even if buyers are not permitted to use them for peace time production immediately, possession of the machines will speed reconversion when that becomes possible. The problem of disposal of war plant surpluses is admittedly a difficult one, but the fact that it is difficult is no excuse for the government's tying up hundreds of million dollars' worth of machinery until some plan can be agreed upon.

The governmental agencies at present are the worst hoarders in the United States. Their inability to get rid of their surpluses, combined with the known ambitions of the New Deal radicals, give ground for suspicions that the hoarding is deliberate and that the purpose behind it is to sabotage the reconversion of private industry. That would provide an excuse for the government to step in and undertake socialized peace time production as a means of combatting unemployment.

ARMY OF MERCY.

Chicago has just witnessed another successful invasion by an army of thousands of volunteers, the men and women who have given their time, untiringly for many weeks, to the annual solicitation of the Community and War fund.

Christmas week brought the happy announcement that the fund had exceeded its quota, $12,980,000. This will provide for metropolitan Chicago's annual gift to the U. S. O. and other activities for the welfare and comfort of our fighting men and women, for a variety of foreign charitable enterprises, and for Chicago's own community fund. Most suburban communities contributed to the war fund this year thru the Chicago organization, but their community fund contributions were for use in their own areas.

It requires a complex organization to solicit nearly 13 million dollars for charitable and patriotic purposes. The leaders of the campaign devoted to it the same degree of executive talent that they devote daily to their businesses, and a great deal of their time. Their individual contributions have been recognized from time to time in accounts of the drive. The best executive talent would be worthless, however, without the rank and file workers, the thousands of privates in this volunteer army, who actually went out and got the pledges. They have done a great job for their city and nation, and both owe them gratitude.

IGNORANCE COMPOUNDED.

The report of Representatives Shafer and Harness that American soldiers in Europe are being kept woefully in the dark about what is going on in the United States, just as a reverse censorship is preventing Americans at home from finding out too much about what is afoot in Europe, justifies the demand that the New Deal stop its policy of obstruction and give the professional press a free hand in exchanging news between the home and fighting fronts.

Too many untalented amateurs and political ax-grinders have been permitted to impede the flow of news in both directions. Rep. Shafer's description of the result is, "The troops complain that they do not get enough home news. They get plenty in the Stars and Stripes about President Roosevelt's saying this and that, and other New Deal propaganda, along with a bunch of boiler plate material."

The army newspaper which Mr. Shafer mentions has had a notorious administration bias. The officer in charge of its Mediterranean edition was dismissed from his job because he committed the lese majesty of trying to report the Republican national convention. The flop achieved by Stars and Stripes in attempting to inform American fighting men is paralleled, Mr. Shafer said, by the equally abysmal failure of the office of war information to represent an American viewpoint in its attempt to propagandize France and other European countries. "What is drastically needed," he said, "is a locally edited edition of an American newspaper."

THE TRIBUNE offered four months ago to remedy the deficiency. It volunteered to divert paper from its quota and ship it to France so that home news might be presented to the fighting men. The administration refused to grant the small amount of shipping space required. After American authorities refused to lift a finger, French authorities took the position the manpower shortage would make mechanical operations impossible, even if the paper were brought into France. THE TRIBUNE countered that with the offer to mold lightweight plastic plates in Chicago. The administration executed another pincers by refusing priorities to fly the plates to Europe.

Meanwhile, the British were successfully presenting the empire viewpoint thru a Paris edition of the London Daily Mail, printed on paper bought in Paris. The New York Herald Tribune, which shares the internationalist ideas of the administration, was given the go-ahead for a Paris edition and ran off its first issue Friday. The war production board has now changed its rules to authorize overseas distribution of American newspapers, but THE TRIBUNE is not permitted to avail itself of the opportunity.

This newspaper, like every one else who understands the subject, has always interpreted the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press to mean freedom from government coercion and constriction. The facts recited do not cause us to change our conviction.

WHILE OUR BOYS FIGHT FOR THEIR LIVES.

Nothing could better illustrate the criminal irresponsibility of both management and labor in some war plants than the strike that has cut production of engines for B-29 bombers at the Dodge Chicago plant. While American fighting men are dying as they fight the German hordes, and while other Americans are risking their lives in B-29s over Tokyo, a strike spreads in a vital war plant because the union members won't work standing up and the management won't let them work sitting down. Such a senseless altercation can evoke only a feeling of outrage.

It seems improbable that management could justify its position, for most machine operations can be conducted while seated. If that serves to reduce fatigue, make the operator more attentive to his task, and increase efficiency, there is no reason why the workers shouldn't be seated. And surely there is no reason why some of the operators should be forced to stand while waiting for parts to be machined.

But the workers have been just as lacking in responsibility. If they had a complaint, they had a grievance committee to take it up with the management. If they had a sense of patriotism they would realize how petty a minor discomfort is in comparison with the sacrifices of the men on the fighting fronts. The workmen showed no reluctance to seize upon a frivolous pretext to gain a long holiday weekend. They weren't averse to letting their country down.

If there were any abstract justice in these situations, a select committee of bullheaded labor and another of bullheaded management would be packed off and set down somewhere in Belgium, where the Nazi Tiger tanks are running loose. Then they could be given the choice of standing up or sitting down. If they had sufficient time to learn the lesson, they'd realize that war is serious business.

LOOSE MONEY AND LOOSE MORALS.

In the course of a technical discussion of taxation, Enders M. Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation, recently said:

"There is no use blinking the fact that taxes and regulations are setting back the moral clock and there is every reason to believe that all income taxes are heading into a moral outlook not unlike the moral outlook on violations of the Volstead act. There is no way to explain all of the vast increase in the amount of hand money in circulation except on the ground that many transactions are being carried on with cash that leaves no trace behind it. The inevitable consequence of bad laws is the moral degeneration of evasion."

Mr. Voorhees is not the sort of person to make such charges flippantly. Presumably the cash transactions are not all on the black market, nor in the time honored field of public graft. They are pretty well distributed thru the commercial and financial structure of the nation.

The influence of the income tax on business transactions has become fantastic. Lawyers who advise business men today spend far more time telling their clients what effect contemplated transactions will have on their tax returns than in advising them whether the same transactions are permitted by civil, criminal, and administrative law.

The immorality that Mr. Voorhees discerns is, as yet, confined to a minor fraction of the public. It may be expected to increase as taxes become heavier, regulations become more complex, and public sentiment shifts from the side of the tax collector to that of the offender.

The federal taxing machinery today is becoming as oppressive as the feudal system. The lord of the manor is again claiming the right to take first and to take as much as he wants without leaving much more than a bare subsistence to those who produce the wealth.

Some members of the house have recently toured the European war theater, and now 10 of our representatives have arrived in Australia after a tour of the Pacific war front. Some day we may have news from Washington that a party of representatives is touring the house.—Arkansas Gazette, Little Rock.

MR. PEPYS' PARTY LINE.

23d Dec.—The merriment of the season started, for me, with Marie's high tea and picnic supper, given in the morgue. If this sounds weird, please understand that "morgue" is newspaper slang for the reference room where the clippings and photographs are embalmed, and Marie O'Connor is the chatelaine of that department, while Augie Bartz, who collected the fund for the party, is its dean.

There was food and drink for all ticket holders from 4 to midnight last Thursday, and much nourishment was consumed, for Marie is a good provider. The journalists destroyed great quantities of ham, corned beef, potato salad, cake, olives, pickles, and beverages when they found time, and returned to their desks much refreshed. Between editions the attendance looked like a run on a bank. Marie's party has never been mentioned in the society column, so I have decided to put it on the editorial page as a notable event in my circle.

Today I shall zigzag between Matthews' Tom and Jerry luncheon at the Cliff Dwellers club, another famous but unchronicled annual, and the wassail bowl assembly at eventide in the Tavern club. Hope to come thru these festive gatherings in condition to set up a Christmas tree at home without falling off the ladder.

Expect to be away from my office, devoting myself to the feasts and observances of the season, from now until next Tuesday. So am saying to readers and contributors, one and all, "Joyeux Noel" and also "Merry Christmas." Old Scrooges, please note.

TINSEL STARS.

Twinkle, twinkle, little stars,
Gilt and tinsel avatars
Of the One that strangely blessed
Ancient wise men in their quest.

Glitter, magic make-believes,
For among dark holly leaves
Memories gather, to ensnare
Hearts grown wistful unaware.

Sparkle, gay and spurious,
When our hands turn tremulous
And the round, bright baubles blur,
As we trim the gaudy fir.

Since you bear us light release
For the moment, so till Peace
Wash again our wounds and scars,

In the taming of the West after the Civil war, Beadle's Dime and Half Dime fiction helped to set ablaze a juvenile ambition to fight Indians. The glorified deeds of the Beadle heroes as they went unscathed thru dangers while hundreds of redskins bit the dust made Indian fighting seem a pleasant pastime. News accounts of Gen. Miles' exploits against Sitting Bull, Geronimo, Rain-in-the-Face, and Man-Afraid-of-His-Horse offered convincing support to the Beadle romances.

With Beadle's seductive sagas of the West in hand while tending the peanut roaster or perched back of the cigar case in the family "Fair store," one made secret plans to run away to the Black Hills for a glorious career of Indian shooting. There was need for haste, too, as one's contemporaries were already stealing off toward the West and the supply of Indians might give out.

Then one learned that some of the runaways had met with hardship in adventuring on a scant pocketful of two-bit pieces and had returned to the family roof, but first, to the table. Others, more rugged, were brought back by sheriffs who were said to be fed up with itinerant, whiskerless namesakes of Davy Crockett and Kit Carson. After a memorable visit to the woodshed they rejoined the family circle, wiser and less inimical to Indian welfare. To the best of one's knowledge, all of them grew up to be respectable, go-getting citizens. Chiggers.

REFUGEE CHILD.

Somewhere a little child today
Along a dark and war-torn way
Has lost his smile, and knows no play.

With eyes grown old as history
And trembling lips that once were free,
He searches for a memory—

A table set with milk and bread,
Clothing for his feet and head,
And warmth about a hearth-fire red.

He searches for his mother's face
That was as tender, full of grace
As Mary's, in her star-lit place.

O, little Jesu, come tonight,
Let Love his starveling soul requite,
And fill his eyes with childhood's light.

N. P. T. asks: "Are there only two types of furloughs for overseas men, that is the rotation and emergency? My husband has been overseas 27 months now, and he ought to be able to come home at least once."

There is what is termed a "nonemergency" furlough and this plan recently has been extended to the European theater, where 1,300 men of the 1st and 3d armies already have qualified and are being sent home. Each has been twice wounded or holds two combat decorations, or a combination of both. Men furloughed under this type of relief are included within the quota for the area, and hence there will be no increase in the general number furloughed.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

STOP WORRYING AND ENJOY GOOD HEALTH.

THE patient who remarks, "My nerves are all unstrung" implies that unhappiness of some sort has gained the ascendancy. The fact of the matter is that the tiny, threadlike structures which make up a nerve cable are not diseased. Neither have they been injured or unraveled. There is no pain, no paralysis, no pressure on these delicate parts. We can settle once and for all that the central powerhouse [the brain] is not at fault, altho impulses carried by the sympathetic [autonomic fibers] may be a thousand times as numerous as they should be.

The patient who complains of a hundred varieties of intestinal discomfort [chiefly colitis] will rarely possess a steady, even temperament. On the contrary, such an individual is likely to be jittery and jumpy. Relieve the colon spasm and complacency returns; cure nervousness and irritation within the large bowel will disappear. There are literally hundreds of symptoms with no basis in fact. They are unreal.

To deny, however, that the mind has a hold over the body is to ignore an obvious truth. Every schoolboy who has studied physiology knows that the glands which secrete the digestive fluids, and which are not under the control of the will, can be stimulated or depressed by worry or anger. There are so many manifestations that are mental that the physician may be hard put to it to distinguish between reality and imagination. While actual ailments can be demonstrated, psychic disorders may defy the most accurate investigation.

But it is customary to term "nerves" a disease because the condition presents all of the damaging signs of an infection or an upset within a vital organ. Take, for example, fear of foods or certain combinations. Most of these suggestions have come over the radio or have been accepted from a supposed authority. The trouble is that we brood over our woes, perhaps coddle them. In consequence, we disturb the normal processes of absorption of perfectly suitable dishes. If the situation continues, sooner or later, digestive disorders will be encountered.

Instead of eating less and less "because nothing agrees with me" the sufferer should consume more and more and forget about what happens once the edibles have reached the "bread basket."

I have in mind a successful and conscientious business man. Recently he had been losing weight. When he visited his family physician he was found to be in excellent physical trim. The difficulty lay in the fact that he had been cutting down on his caloric intake because some one had told him that special articles on the menu, of which he was particularly fond, would manufacture uric acid. He didn't wish to develop gout, so he omitted them. His blood uric acid level was normal and his system was handling all the nutriments successfully.

Another friend was fussing himself into poor health because, as he put it, "I need eight hours of sleep." On many nights he did obtain eight to nine hours; on others, only six or seven. Because of the latter circumstance he felt that he was headed for a breakdown. Here, a mild amount of reassurance settled the problem.

If we would capture vigor and well being we must school ourselves to dismiss trifling annoyances. We can banish nervousness with training and will power, just as surely as we can eliminate diphtheria with toxoid.

Notes of an Unwilling Wanderer.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—The Hollywood jeweler's display case was full of those simple little 18 karat gold trifles that only a movie mogul can afford. The price tags were tucked nicely face down. Everything was s-o-o-o simple and s-o-o-o purely gold that you knew it was supposed to represent the acme of dollar sign good taste. Then you saw the jeweler's name shining against the gold and the velvet: Lackritz.

The warrior returned from Iceland was discussing the army shoulder patch. It is red, white, and blue, but for different reasons than those we usually associate with the American colors. The blue was the ocean, the curved slip of white was the glacier, the triangle of red was the volcano at Iceland's heart.

"The British," he said, "use a polar bear as their Icelandic badge. Made the Icelanders sore because polar bears are what come in on the ice packs and naturally are none too welcome. The Icelanders consider the British patch an insult and a great cross to bear. Well, last summer, when they celebrated their independence day, they had the coat of arms of each of Iceland's 28 counties hanging on the walls of the telegraph office in Rekjavik. I looked at them and six—all from the northern counties—had polar bears in them. When I called this to an Icelander's attention, he was incredulous."

Lines from a boy on Leyte: "The Filipino children continue to be our greatest diversion. You can't imagine cleaner people. Many of their huts have been bombed, but if the outdoor well is in good shape, it's a cinch a few members of the family will be out washing the very, very few clothes they have. Most of their clothes are of 'abrica' cloth, a hemp product which they wove at home while the Japs were here. Why can't some one at home [United States] start a bundles for the Philippines drive? Most of the people here are absolutely destitute now, and, well, they are part of us. We've had bundles for Britain, Poland, Greece, etc. How about the same for the people who are as American as the best in the United States? That will be a real and worthy cause."

The Los Angeles Union Station seems to be the world's end. Many of those crowding it now think it just that. Either the boy in uniform to whom you are saying good-by is on his way to a coastal port near here to take off, or going across 3,000 miles of his native land to take off, or going back to some desolate camp from which he may take off any day. The station is a scene of terrible, tight, confused emotion, and the pilgrim there runs into partings so painful he turns his head away for fear he intrudes on privacy.

It isn't the boys who are together, the nine sailors who jump out of one 1927 Ford coupe like the clowns in the circus, grab their duffel bags, and race for the train. They are together and gay. It isn't the marine who stands alone, lost and wondering at Christmas. It is such sights as that of a woman of 50 or so, her head bare, her face as smooth as an old coin, who seems to totter as she comes out of the station into the lovely patio full of palms, vivid flowers, and brilliant sunshine. All she does is lean her head against the mosaic tile of one wall and close her eyes. Then, again and again, she wipes away the stray tear she can not stem. The line of her figure, crumpled and limp in utter desolation, is that of the Pieta.

A week later the scene is still an indelible, searing memory. It all rushed back to mind last night when swaying on one of the jammed street cars. The car held three times as many customers as seemed possible. One woman screamed invective at the conductor and fellow passengers the length of the car as she battered her way down and the girl beside us observed.

"Tired, I guess. Every one is. I'd like to yell and scream myself. But every time I want to I just take that street car that goes to the station here. I look at all those guys, a lot of them saying good-by forever, and at all the rest who are going to be alone this Christmas . . . and I tell you I can't scream at any one for a week."

THIRD PARTY.

Palos Park, Ill., Dec. 13.—I was pleased to note in your editorial, "The American Spirit and Party Labels," that you will support any label or any movement to bring the American government back into control of Americans. From what preceded this declaration it is evident that THE TRIBUNE is disposed to make it from its recognition that the south, altho naturally opposed to the crack-pot control of the Democratic party, yet cannot be brought to support the Republican party.

The writer has advocated the forming of a third party and the giving up of the name of the Republican party so that southerners, without loss of face, could vote their feelings instead of their prejudices. Yet I am convinced that no progress will be made toward the inauguration of a new party which will be equally supported in both southern and northern states unless an organized effort is at once made to start such a party and get recruits. The Progressive party, with a magnetic leader in Theodore Roosevelt, who was felt to have been robbed of a nomination, was able to start without preliminary organization, but such is not the case now. What is desired is a party that will be truly national and hence I have always favored the name "National" for the party, but it doesn't make much difference what it is called. What it stands for is the important thing.

What is needed is organizers and contributors to such a movement. The attempt should be made not to oppose the Republican party, but to have its members realize that its merging into a new party to meet changing conditions would be a patriotic service to the country and would have a great influence in removing sectionalism.

HOLD THAT LINE!

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 17.—The other day there was a news item about raising the salary of the President from $75,000 to $100,000, cabinet members from $15,000 to $25,000, and congressmen from $10,000 to $15,000. I am a war worker giving my best in the present struggle. When I or any other common working man asks for a raise in pay, we are laughed at and told it would cause inflation. But it would not cause inflation if the President, congressmen, and cabinet members were to receive a raise. That is a different story. HUBERT CORTEWAY.

PREPARING FOR PEACE.

Monroe City, Ind., Dec. 1.—Mr. Roosevelt suggests a year's training for all young men from 17 to 23. Isn't that just what our forefathers left Europe to get rid of? Mr. Roosevelt says we are going to have permanent peace when this war ends. Does he believe what he says? If so, why train boys for a new army? J. A. JONES.

USE "GREEN" TOBACCO.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—I suggest that we meet the demand for cigarets by using this year's crop. It won't taste as good as it would if old tobacco were used, therefore some people will give up smoking until the quality is better. For next year's supply we'll double the crop, which we should have done when the war started. HELEN CHRISTOS.

DEFENSE OF AUSTRALIA.

IN THE PACIFIC, Nov. 16.—The Nov. 16 issue of the Townsville, Queensland, Australia, paper quotes your paper as lambasting the Australians for not being in the Philippines.

If you had been in Australia recently, you would have seen people who are bearing up under this fight under conditions a lot harder than America's. When they go to work they ride a bicycle or walk. There are no street cars or any gas for the cars they own. Even if there were gas, there are no tires or spare parts to fix them. Their clothes are rationed to the point where they have 20 coupons a year, and a pair of shoes will take 12 of them!

There are still armies of Japanese soldiers in New Guinea to be taken care of and that any American soldier will tell you that he would a lot rather be in the Philippines any day than the pest infested jungles of New Guinea. There are only 7 million people in Australia and climatic conditions are such that it takes more people to provide for civilization than in the United States.

We are beside the cobbers over here and they are doing a swell job, and should be thanked instead of ridiculed. If you would use your influence to stop the strikes over there and absenteeism, instead of finding something wrong with this country over here, then all would be fine. JACK H. STRANGE, Captain, F. M. P.

BROWDER, ET AL, COLLECT.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 12.—Three startling occurrences during the last few weeks should cause any thoughtful American to wonder:

First—The banishment of Upton Close from the air because of his broadcast criticism of communistic activity in China and the newly liberated countries of Europe.

Second—The announcement by the new secretary of state almost before he got to his desk that what happened to Poland was none of our affair, and that the United States would follow its traditional custom of "hands off in European affairs."

Third—The undiplomatic and unprecedented blast against our ally Great Britain for her attempt to put down communistic insurrection in Italy and Greece.

These events appear to indicate that the Hillman-Browder-Dubinsky PAC are collecting from the administration in return for their support in the fourth term election. PAUL CLEMENT.

THE JOB GOES WITH THE SPOILS.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—As Russia and England have decided to carve up and control Europe and the Balkan states, why not tell them the United States has decided to allow them to fight Germany, and that we will withdraw all lend-lease aid and our armies from Europe and use them to fight the Japs? We are doing a good job knocking out the Japs without the aid of Russia and England, so let them fight Germany.

Miss Wyman's Troth to Be Told at Party Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

At a small eggnog party this afternoon in the Fortnightly club, Mrs. William Kennard Kenly is announcing the engagement of her granddaughter, Miss Mary Ann Wyman, to Andrew Werner Lawson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Werner Lawson of Scott st. Miss Wyman, daughter of Walter Frothingham Wyman of New York and of the late Rebecca McDoel Wyman, has lived in Bellevue pl. with her grandmother for a number of years.

Miss Wyman attended the Girls' Latin school and Ethel Walker and was graduated from Smith college. She made her debut at a tea during her freshman year in college and now is a provisional member of the Chicago Junior league. When she and her grandmother returned the first of October from spending the summer in Mrs. Kenly's home in Manchester, Mass., Miss Wyman resumed her duties as a nurses' aid.

Mr. Lawson was graduated from Columbia university, at which he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Now on leave from his post as assistant professor of physics at the University of Pennsylvania, he temporarily is engaged in war research in Boston, Mass. He is a fellow of the American Physical society.

One of young Mr. Lawson's sister's, Mrs. John C. Leggitt, will be present at the party today, as she has been living with her parents while Ensign Leggitt is on sea duty with the naval reserve. Ensign Leggitt had a brief leave earlier this month which he spent in Chicago. The Lawsons' other daughter, Mrs. John H. Burrowes, could not make the trip from Concord, N. H., at this time, but hopes to come to Chicago for her brother's wedding, which is set for April 7.

Other Engagement News.

Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Flournoy Slaughter of Evanston today are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Capt. Edward Rydell Baumann of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Butler Baumann of Northfield. The wedding will take place Jan. 5 in St. Luke's chapel, Evanston, with only the families and a few close friends present.

Miss Slaughter was graduated from Mount Vernon seminary, and her fiance from Princeton university. He will arrive Dec. 30 from his post at Fort McClellan, Anniston, Ala., where he and his bride will live.

Mrs. Dorothy Stone Obernier of E. Bellevue pl. announces the engagement of her daughter, Frances Renee, to Capt. Robert A. Kiefer of the army air forces. Miss Obernier, a graduate of the Ursuline convent in Springfield, Ill., is attending De Paul university. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Kiefer of Baltimore, Md., was graduated from Western Maryland college and took his medical degree from the University of Maryland. He now is stationed at Westover field, Mass.

Holiday Gatherings.

The party that the Tavern club gives every Christmas will be held from 4 to 7 p. m. today, with eggnog, Tom and Jerry, snacks, and strolling musicians to make the occasion gay. Each member may bring one guest to this traditional "wassail bowl" gathering.

The club's Christmas party for members and their children will be given in pre-war style tomorrow from 2:30 to 5 p. m. Party groups are limited to four adults with their own children—"no added entries of casual kids," the invitations make clear. Professional entertainment will be provided for the children.

To welcome home Lt. Comdr. Robert M. Ayer after a long absence, his sister, Mrs. Ross J. Beatty Jr., and Mr. Beatty, are entertaining at cocktails after 5 p. m. today in their E. Delaware pl. apartment. Comdr. Ayer who has been serving in the Atlantic, will be here for a few days. Another Christmas guest of the Beattys is her mother, Mrs. Walter Ayer, who now lives in New York.

The Tom and Jerry party that Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Frey give every Christmas will be held tomorrow noon instead of on Christmas, as in past years.

Tomorrow afternoon's celebration in the Winter club in Lake Forest will be both a Christmas party and a birthday party, to which 100 young friends of Edo Chainski, eldest son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward L. Chainski of Lake Forest, have been invited. Edo's 12th birthday anniversary falls on Christmas day.

The John P. Hookers' new Winnetka home will be the setting tomorrow evening for an open house which they are giving for their subdebutante daughter, Mary, who is at home for the holidays from Chatham hall.

Mrs. Walter Strong will entertain the pupils of the North Shore Country day school again this year, following their annual Christmas eve caroling in Winnetka. The carolers also will go to the home of Mrs. Edith Sackett Howard, whose two sons, Charles and Lt. Hubert How-

On the Record

By Claudia Cassidy

Conjure Trick.

It may be mechanics, but it sounds like magic when you put a needle on a record and out comes a voice from the past. Victor's Christmas gift is Marcel Journet's resonant singing of "La Marseillaise," and the Collector's Record shop [825 7th av., New York] puts on limited sale not only a recording by Sarah Bernhardt, but what is said to be the only record ever made by Lillian Russell. Bernhardt's is the passionate French denunciation of World War I., ironically called "Prayer for Our Enemies," with the line, "Forgive them not, they know well what they do—" and Russell's is her famous "Come Down, Mah Evenin' Star," written by John Stromberg, orchestra leader for Weber and Fields. Bernhardt's was recorded in 1918, when she was 73, but you would know that voice anywhere. Russell's, made privately when she was 50, is little more than a quavering hint of what must have been a bewitching personality.

Lillian Russell.

Ah, Melchior!

Lauritz Melchior, who recorded a crack album of Scandinavian songs for Columbia, has done the same with other Scandinavian songs for Victor [M-871; six 10 inch records]. This one holds superb performances of "Black Roses," "Eros," "White Roses," the exuberant "Spring Song," "Forest Loneliness," and many more, including the gay jester's song from "Twelfth Night," with the giant Melchior singing "When I Was Only as Big as That."

His son, Ib, made the English translations in the album, while Ignace Strasfogel plays the piano accompaniments, and Johan Hye-Knudsen conducts the orchestral ones.

Adults May Eavesdrop.

Don't forget children's records for Christmas, and consider Capitol's J-1, three 10 inch records in which The Great Gildersleeve, sometimes known as Harold Peary, relates with variations the adventures of "Jack and the Beanstalk," "Rumpelstiltskin," and "Puss in Boots." He has a set of voices, an ogre's chuckle, a deft orchestra, and a droll disarray of facts that may, if you are lucky, remind you of Joe Cook pulling his rocking chair up to a microphone. Tells you when to turn the records, too.

Some Singles.

The Victor chorus has filled two 12 inch records with all the favorite Christmas songs it can think of. . . . Alexander Brailowsky is at his best in a Victor 12 inch holding Liszt's "Liebestraum" and Chopin's Impromptu in A flat. . . . E. Robert Schmitz fills another Victor 12 inch with authoritative performance of the prelude and minuet from Debussy's "Suite Bergamasque." . . . Want some crisply bouffant waltzes? Try Walter Goehr and the London Philharmonic [Victor 12 inch] in a medley of favorites by the family Strauss. . . . Want something for a Kostelanetz fan? Try Columbia's 12 inch with both the Schubert and the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," done with rather surprising simplicity. . . . And of course you know "Swan Lake" is a Columbia, not a Victor set. . . . That was my last mistake of 1944—maybe.

Coming Up.

Columbia's first important new set of 1945 will be Shakespeare's "Othello," with Paul Robeson, Jose Ferrer, Uta Hagen, and others of the Theater Guild cast.

Have You Ordered the Turkey? If Not, You May Not Get It

The answer to the question, "Can I buy a turkey for my Christmas dinner?" is uncertain. If you listen to OPA the answer is yes, but poultry dealers' answer is 'maybe."

Dr. Cliff D. Carpenter, executive manager of the Institute of American Poultry Industries, which represents a number of fowl distributing firms, said yesterday his prediction of a week ago still holds true. At that time he said the supply would be inadequate" because of black market operations." He claimed only 15 to 20 per cent of the supply was being marketed thru legal trade channels.

George Maier, OPA meat specialist, declared that "while the supply is not abundant, turkeys are available for any one who wants to buy one." He added, "a glance at newspaper ads will tell you there are turkeys for-sale."

Regardless of the turkey situation for Christmas, no one is going to be left out on a limb when it comes to trees. There are plenty of them in spite of the tremendous demand by hospitals, churches, and organizations.

Gay Week-End Events Planned for Debutantes

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE.

The parties which fill this Christmas week-end for the debutantes and their younger sisters were planned when their parents had high hopes of good news from the European battlefront. The current war dispatches are casting a shadow over any gayety arranged for the young persons home from colleges and service posts, who, however, should be entitled to a little whirl, their elders feel.

The only debut dance on the holiday calendar, a supper party in the Racquet club which will be Miss Barbara Meincke's introduction to adult society, will give the buds a chance to wear their best ball gowns tonight. Other young women around whom today's and tomorrow's festivities are centered include the Misses Ann and Lee Wilcox, Nancy Brock, Polly Sheldon, Clarissa Haffner, Margaret Carson, Anne Clark Schmidt, Gay Tuttle, Betsy Weir, Maribel Sears, Ruth McKenna, Lilian Montgomery, Florence Howell, and a subdebutante, Mary Elston Tullis.

Miss Meincke and her parents, the Howard B. Meinckes of Glencoe, will receive at 10:30 o'clock tonight at the top of the stairs in the Racquet club, which has been decorated in evergreens sprayed with powdered felt to simulate new-fallen snow. A hedge of whitened evergreens surrounding the dance platform, garlands of sprayed laurels over the mirrors, and poinsettias add to the Christmas spirit. A hot buffet supper will be served at small tables in the dining room. Among the guests will be the Meinckes' house guest, Lt. [j. g.] Rufus Walker of Boston, Mass.

Christmas trees strung with white carnations will form the decorations in the Indian Hill club, at which the Byers Wilcoxes and the Donald C. Brocks will give a debut tea for their daughters, the Misses Wilcox and Miss Brock, from 4 to 7 p. m. today. Miss Brock's Vassar roommate, Miss Nancy Michael, is here from Milwaukee to serve as an assistant. Later the Brocks will give a dinner party at home before the Meinckes' dance.

Miss Sheldon, the Theodore Sheldons' younger daughter, will have a small informal debut luncheon today in the Indian Hill club. The bud, who attends Vassar, and her sister, Peggy, who is studying at the Child Education Foundation in New York, are having a holiday house party. Their guests include Miss Patricia Benedict of Washington, D. C., and her brother, Cadet Calvert Benedict; the latter's roommate at West Point, Cadet Harrison Lobdell, and Orrin W. Potter Jr., of Missoula, Mont.

Another gay dinner dance tonight, altho not a debut, is a small party which Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr. and Mrs. Edward K. Welles are giving in the Haffners' Lake Forest home for their children, Miss Haffner and Scott and E. Kenneth Welles Jr. Among the guests will be Miss Haffner's house guest and Vassar classmate, Miss Louette Goodbody of Toledo, O., and Miss Ann Frothingham of Washington, D. C., who is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Donald R. Wegg, for the holidays.

About 60 young women, friends of Miss Carson, Miss Schmidt, Miss Tuttle, and Miss Weir, have been invited to a 1 p. m. luncheon today in the Skokie Country club. Miss Schmidt's cousin, Pvt. Thomas Fischer, has arrived from Fort Jackson, S. C., to spend Christmas with his parents, the G. Lyle Fischers, with whom she lives. The other young hostesses are the daughters of the Samuel P. Carsons, the William F. Tuttles, and the Norman W. Weirs.

Debutante LaVerne Knight will be the special guest at a dinner which Mrs. Andrew Sandegren will give tonight preceding the Meinckes' supper-dance tonight in the Onwentsia club for Miss Tullis, with her grandparents, Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood, as hosts.

With careful planning, a guest could drop in on all four of tomor-

Spirited Movie of Adventure Worth Seeing

"FRENCHMAN'S CREEK."

A Paramount picture, directed by Mitchell Leisen from the novel by Daphne du Maurier, adapted by Talbot Jennings; starring Joan Fontaine and Arturo de Cordova, with Basil Rathbone, Nigel Bruce, Cecil Kellaway, Ralph Forbes, and Harald Ramond, at the State-Lake.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

If you're Christmas shopping for a new movie try "Frenchman's Creek." It's a 17th century flourish in technicolor, a picaresque romance of a lovely lady who runs away from a dull husband and the amorous rakes of the Restoration and falls headlong in love with a piratical Robin Hood who has invaded her Cornish castle with a whimsical manservant, a thin volume of Ronsard's poems, and an aromatic jar of tabac. You can share their adventures in beguiling make-believe with a light hearted sense of mischief.

As a gleaming vehicle for Joan Fontaine and Arturo de Cordova, "Frenchman's Creek" never shows you the price tag, tho it cost Paramount nearer four than three million dollars. It just does things right, in acting, writing, and direction, and in production so deft it sends the lilt of the harpsichord scurrying thru the music as gayly as those runners with flambeaux heralding a London coach. I hereby revise my opinion of Mitchell Leisen, which suffered a slump after his overstuffed version of "Lady in the Dark." For all I know, Mr. Leisen, you may be a genius.

Let's compromise by saying a man with a flair. For, thru love story and pirate raid and prison escape and murder on the stairs, he never loses his sense of humor in adventure. For all the picture's lush beauty, the play's the thing. Of course he had the best of help, and why not, with that budget? Joan Fontaine is no sleeping beauty here, but the hoydenish great lady beloved of romantic fiction, glowing under a red gold wig enchanting even when tied with curl papers. And Arturo de Cordova is a striking hero, a swarthy courtier in the debonair tradition, who might actually captain that gallant ship manned by handsome fellows who just steal back from England what England has stolen from France.

Supporting cast is hardly the name for some of the experts who keep the tale skimming. Basil Rathbone, who adores looking sinister in costume, has a field day as the lean brute put in his place when a suit of armor comes clanking down the baronial stairs; Ralph Forbes plays the obtuse husband with a precise knowledge of how to fumble, and Cecil Kellaway enjoys the drolleries of William the manservant, who smoothes the primrose path until it reaches rue. For even a hoydenish great lady can't sail away forever in a pirate's cap, not when she has two babies. You aren't even entirely sure you want her to.

Antiquaries may want to see "Frenchman's Creek" twice, once for the story and once for its trappings. The costumes by Raoul Pene du Bois are a technicolor eyeful, and some of the rooms are the real thing, bought with other treasures from the Hearst collection. The dogs are two of the dozen King Charles spaniels in the United States. But don't expect too many soaring seagulls about "La Mouette," tho the lovely ship has its share. It wasn't Mr. Leisen's fault, either. He had 500 pounds of fish scattered around to lure some gulls in swooping flight, and what do you think happened? Those ungrateful birds ate so much they couldn't fly.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"What is the best method of roasting a turkey?"

Roasting the turkey in a slow oven, uncovered, is of primary importance. For an 8 to 10 pound bird the temperature should be no higher than 325 degrees, for a 10 to 14 pound turkey, 300 degrees is best, and for a great big boy, set the regulator as low as 275 degrees. A small turkey requires about 25 minutes per pound, while a huge one calls for only 15 to 18 minutes per pound of roasting. These estimated times are for turkeys taken from the refrigerator chilled, not frozen.

Rub the turkey all over with unsalted fat and baste frequently during roasting, or cover bird completely with a fat saturated cloth. This eliminates constant basting, for not until the cloth dries out does extra fat need to be spooned over it, and the bird will brown beautifully under the cloth. If drippings show signs of charring, be sure to add water to the pan during the last hour or so of roasting. Do not prick turkey to test for doneness, instead wiggle the drumstick and if it moves easily in the thigh joint, the bird probably is done to a turn. After this, one insertion of the fork might be allowed to relieve your anxious mind about the tenderness of the meat. Before making gravy, spoon out excess fat, if necessary, but use every particle of those brown drippings if you want a delicious gravy.

"How long should plum puddings be reheated before serving? Do you have any novel suggestions for serving the pudding?"

Plum pudding before serving should be steamed for one to two hours, depending on size—this time, of course, is for the cooked plum pudding which previously has been steamed from three to five hours. Hard sauce pinwheels are attractive. To make, color and flavor half the hard sauce with lemon juice or extract and yellow coloring: Flavor the other half with orange juice and tint an orange hue. Spread out one portion and cover with the other. Roll up, jelly roll fashion, in waxed paper and chill in refrigerator. When hard cut in slices and serve on steaming hot pudding bedecked with holly sprig.

Even the Small Child Grieves for His Father

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Without being exact enough to identify the family concerned, I want today to give you an illustration of the subject of a recent article in which I mentioned that children both young and older, automatically hide their deeper feelings, especially their deeper griefs. It is only when we are very close to them, and can interpret what may seem like quite unrelated actions, that we may surmise what lies below the surface. The case in point is briefly this:

A little girl, at the age of 4, lost her adored father. She now is 7.

A year or so ago her mother married again. During this year, but also before this, the little girl has insisted that her father is alive and away in the army. She will not show any affection for her stepfather and goes on every possible occasion to the home of her aunt. The stepfather is getting to be annoyed, as is also the mother, and they are now trying punishment to correct the state of affairs, tho kindness prevailed at first. To these parents I would say:

"It is pitiful even to read about such unhappiness and grief in a child. I suppose you realize that you have a daughter with unusual depth of feeling. For her to have continued this love and longing for her father from the age of 4 is most unusual, and, no matter how difficult the present situation is, both you and your husband must continue to deal gently and patiently with her. Your husband must win her love and you must win her back.

"I think both your husband and yourself will have to bear in mind constantly that your little girl has made herself believe that her father is alive. At no time should you, at present, insist that she call your husband daddy or father. Let that take care of itself. From your description of her going to your sister's house I think she is in a very involved and emotional state of mind and must have very careful handling.

"Perhaps your sister might be able to make your child understand that her father has gone to heaven [or express it as you do in your family], and that when people go there they do not come back. She must be made to feel that her father is happy there and that he would like her to be a happy little girl now with this other man who has come to try to be a friend to her. These are the only brief suggestions I can give."

Plea to Housewives: Resolve to Save Tin and Fat in New Year

A plea for housewives to put tin and grease salvage high on their list of New Year's resolutions was made yesterday by Mrs. Walter J. Kelly, chairman of the campaign. She told Chicago women the stepup in production of airplanes, guns, and ammunition will increase the demand for both tin and grease.

In tin salvage, proper preparation of cans is the first step, Mrs. Kelly said. They should be washed, dried, de-ended, and pressed flat before being placed conveniently for private or public scavengers. If pick-ups are not made, she said, a call should be made to her office, Randolph 3760.

Mrs. Kelly urged women to help boost munitions productions by saving fat. "If it's a choice between frying the potatoes instead of baking or boiling them, decide in favor of the grease campaign," she advised. Both campaigns have been lagging for months, she said.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Cover Girl.

Perhaps you've looked enviously at pictures of Dorothy Hubert in recent newspapers and magazines and have meditated on the years of hard work and publicity necessary to make a top ranking professional model. But Dorothy herself could tell you a different story. Only a month ago she was a secretary for a microphone manufacturer. She had pounded a typewriter for about a year while going to night school at Northwestern, and then one day she closed up her desk and went home with her fingers crossed for a new career — modeling. Within two weeks she was selected as cover girl for Cover Girl magazine and now is one of the most eligible contestants for the title of Miss Photo Flash of 1945 which the Chicago Press photographers will choose at their annual dinner next month. Twenty-one years old — stage and movie prospects in the offing — a chance for the photographers' crown — quite a heap of acclaim in one short month since the day Dorothy put the cover on her typewriter and told the boss good-by.

No Santa Claus.

There's nothing like a single life—
No man to boss you as his wife;
Your salary is yours to use
In any foolish way you choose;
You go out when and where you please
To theaters, on dates or sprees;
You have no kitchen floor to scrub
Nor laundry soaking in the tub;
You do not have to sew and cook
But spend your evenings with a book.
I could go on but that's enough—
Of course you don't believe this stuff!

BETTY CLARKE.

Jottings On a Journey.

It wasn't an especially eventful train ride to New York. The porter was smiling and solicitous and as "pre-war" as anything these eyes have seen. There was the slight, frail mother in the Pullman with her very small baby, en route to meet her husband, her face so sweet, so rapt, so infinitely touching. . . . There was the youthful sailor eating dinner with the young WAC, his voice rising above the rumble of the train. "Of course, she's terribly old — she's 40!" — and the understanding smile that circulated among all those unfortunates past 40 in the diner. . . .

There was the discontented woman two tables away remarking that "Chicago is miles and miles of ugliness" — but has she never noticed our beautiful skyline? There was the group of men relating their domestic trials over Christmas cards. "D'ya mean to say, Bill, my wife didn't send you one. I told her to!" — and aren't all families alike?

There was the black haired beauty who emerged, at meal time, from a drawing room and swayed gracefully down the aisle with all G. I. eyes upon her. . . . There was the recently discharged naval officer across the aisle from me who leaped to his feet when the table collapsed and my typewriter fell with a clatter. "Time was," he reflected sadly, "when ladies dropped lace handkerchiefs and scented gloves.

If You're Told an Off-Color Tale, Forget It

BY MAUREEN DALY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Here's something outside the usual boy-dates-girl department. It's something to mull over and then decide for yourself. Most ever-lovin' mothers think their fellows and girls are slightly wonderful, so if one of them has a complaint to make it's worth listening to. It gives out this way:

"I wish some one would do something about the current fashion of telling suggestive stories. My daughter tells me that these stories are passed around among the girls until they are worn out. If some one could only make them realize how much they cheapen themselves mentally and morally by telling—or listening—to such stories. It is especially unpleasant to think that this even goes on in mixed groups."

Occasionally a smooth girl or fellow might make the mistake of repeating an off-color story among friends but only a strictly off-the-cob character would make the same mistake twice. A gal might think that this kind of hot chatter gives the impression that she's been around. Well, it does. It gives the impression that she's been around the wrong places. And any stupid cupid who tries to be a boy-about-town by telling his current best girl a joke with a shady punch line will soon realize he's used the wrong approach. To tell a gal an off-color joke is one way to give her your opinion of her in a very small nutshell.

And to look at both sides, any girl who has to resort to spiced jokes to keep her date amused is strictly a vixen with fixin's. There's always enough to talk about without mixing in that kind of conversation on a date.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 22.—Happy holidays! And Bill Elliott sure is in the mood for them. He plays the "Fabulous Texan," which will be Republic's biggest western to date. And, surprising as it may seem, they're trying to get Jennifer Jones back there. That's where she started in pictures. . . . RKO wants Dorothy McGuire for "Welcome to the City," which Clifford Odets wrote from "Deadline at Dawn." Adrian Scott already is set as producer. . . . Harriet Parsons' "Enchanted Cottage" is just that. It's an enchanting love story, done beautifully by Dorothy McGuire and Robert Young. . . . When I asked Charley Koerner, "What's next for Sinatra?" he replied, "A Slight Case of Murder with Music." Cary Grant's next for RKO is "The Greatest Gift." I thought he'd given that to Barbara Hutton—her new Bel Air home. . . .

There and Here in Hollywood.

Eddie Horton, spending Christmas in Washington, D. C., with his mother, will be happy to know Felix Jackson allotted him a choice rôle in Deanna Durbin's next, "Lady on a Train." . . . It's news when a gal like Ann Sheridan asks for a suspension because she doesn't like the script of "Little Old New York." But because she asked for it I'll bet Warners will rewrite the story for her instead. . . . The Bette Davis epic is postponed until February. Probably then another statement will be forthcoming: "Postponed until the lady is ready and willing." . . . Georgie Jessel is so crazy about Tommye Adams it wouldn't surprise me if he'd try to sneak in another sister and add her to "The Dolly Sisters." Gosh, their mother would have been surprised! . . . Velez and Yolanda's opening at Ciro's on the 29th will sure have me in a ringside seat. Those are two dancers I never tire of. . . . That all-soldier Christmas program from the air field at Pyote, Tex., on the air Christmas morning at 2:30 a. m. [CWT] should make good listening if you're up that late—or early.

And How News Travels.

The wedding of Gloria DeHaven and John Payne is set for Jan. 8 This is how I know: A friend of mine wanted reservations in Palm Springs for the week beginning Jan. 8 and was told he'd have to wait until the 9th because on the 8th that suite would be used as the bridal headquarters for Mr. and Mrs. John Payne!

Here's Good Luck, Anyway.

Ginger Rogers will make her own pictures, which RKO will release in addition to one a year which she'll make for them. Lela Rogers will have lots to say about them. I suppose she and Ginger figure that if Constance Bennett and Kay Francis can produce, they can, too. Personally, lined as my face is, I wouldn't like to add producer's lines to it. . . . Johnny Considine will receive coöperation from the International Red Cross for his picture, "The Gripsholm." . . . Loretta Young, in "Along Came Jones," had to roll a cigaret for Gary Cooper, strike a match cowboy fashion, and light it. Loretta had been practicing at home. After the scene Coop said, "Come on, let's stage a contest"—'cause he's been a home roller for years. And Loretta beat him by two seconds!

Well, Why Shouldn't He?

I see Walt Disney is still acting on my advice and showing "Snow White" in many other cities during Christmas week. I'm going to suggest something else, and that is that he reanimate some characters in it, especially the prince. My Treva says, "I've never seen a prince that didn't need reanimating at least once a year." . . . I almost bought myself a Christmas present. A clerk showed me a gold pen and, wrapped around the end of it, in diamonds, was an asp. The clerk said, "You really should write your column with this." I think if I wait somebody will give it to me—an asp, I mean! . . . Paulette Goddard found a new use for all her jeweled clips. She wears a braided crown on top of her head; then, clipped into it from the bottom, are five jeweled clips. That's all right if you've got the clips. . . . Gene Krupa's new band will bring pandemonium into the Palladium. While here he'll try to whip up a huge musical jamboree, with proceeds going to families of musicians now in service. What a session, if Paul Whiteman will direct, with Benny Goodman on the clarinet, Harry James trumpeting, Tommy Dorsey tromboning, Jimmy Dorsey and Freddie Martin sassing the sax, Xavier Cugat fiddling, Duke Ellington at the piano, and Gene beating the drums. That I would like to hear!

INSTALMENT XXXVI.

TO THE RESCUE.

"You can't get me to tell you anything," said Mary Uhlmann. "Send this girl away, Scarface."

"Don't push on the reins, Mary. I've heard it said before that this boy was railroaded to the pen. Over at Charleston the other day I met him. And I like the fellow. He got a rotten deal. Why don't you spill what you know?"

"I don't know anything." The sullen lips closed tightly.

"Seven years of Bob Webb's life are buried in that prison," Sandra said. "They are hunting him to send him back. Doesn't it hurt you to know that you sent him there?"

"Go away. Leave me alone. It's easy for you to talk that way, but you don't live with that devil Rhino Uhlmann." The man put a hand on the woman's bony shoulder. "You don't have to live with him either. Light out of here, Mary. You can hide where he won't find you."

"I've made my bed," she answered.

"You don't have to stay in it," Sandra told her eagerly. "As long as we live we can start again. You are young and can go away and make a new life for yourself."

"I'm not young," the woman differed hopelessly. "I feel a hundred years old. It doesn't matter what becomes of me now."

"It does. It matters a lot. To feel as you do is all wrong. You can make new friends and be happy."

Mary Uhlmann's thin smile was cynical. "Happy! You don't know what you are talking about. Because you are a young girl, you think all one has to do to make the future rosy is to will it so. But life isn't like that. If you take the wrong turning you can't go back."

"O, but I'm sure you're mistaken," Sandra cried. "Come and stay with us. Forget all this."

"Why did you marry him?" the outlaw asked.

"Because I was a fool. No use arguing. I'm here. I stay. And I'll do no talking."

"And let an innocent man suffer for what he didn't do. "I don't believe it. No good woman who has to go on living with herself could be so cowardly."

A touch of red burned underneath the thin tanned cheeks of the older woman. For years she had held hidden in her heart this shameful secret, and now it had been dragged out into the open.

Round the corner of the house a man came, leading a horse. Across his cheek there was a purple wheal where the lash of a quirt had fallen. He glared at Sandra, openly and evilly triumphant.

"So you lied to me," Uhlmann snarled. "You came to see her, not me. I figured it might be that way, and I slipped down by the arroyo. You don't get away from me this time, you meddler.

Sandra was afraid, but she stood stiff and straight. "Maybe if you shoot at me again you might hit me this time," she said.

"Did you shoot at Miss Ranger?" Scarface asked softly.

Uhlmann glared at him. He did not want to stop for explanations, but Scarface was a tough, hardy scamp he could not ignore.

"I shot past her, just to stop the little fool," he admitted grudgingly.

The outlaw did not raise his voice. "My friend," he replied, almost in a drawl, "that don't go in this country."

The big man started to answer, but the rustler beat down his words, a sudden sharp challenge in his tone. "I always knew you were a wolf, Rhino, but I didn't know there was a broad yellow streak of coyote in you, too. We don't war on women here, and we don't let miscreants do it, either."

Scarface waited, still leaning against the door jamb at apparent ease. His indolence was deceptive. Every muscle was set for instant action if the call came.

"Tell you I didn't shoot at her," he cried.

"His bullet did not miss me six inches," Sandra said. "It cut a leaf from a shrub beside the horse."

"You are too scared to tell what it hit," the ranchman charged.

"If you were just shooting into the air why was she so scared?" demanded the other man.

"You know I wouldn't shoot at a girl, Scarfare." If it should be believed he had even shot at this girl, his life would not be safe, regardless of the intent to hit or miss. "I was just funnin'." He ground his teeth, giving his own words the lie. "And the little devil had lashed my face with her quirt."

Scarface did not lift his steely eyes from the big leathery face. "Yes, I know you. When you came busting in here calling Miss Ranger a liar and telling her she wouldn't get away from you this time, it sounded like you were funnin'."

"You ain't so lily white yoreself, Scarface," flung out Uhlmann, searching for a defense. "Don't forget the law wants you for killing Spillman on that raid two-three weeks ago."

"All right, I'm a bad man, too, even tho I didn't kill Spillman. But I'm not yore kind of bad man. I don't shoot at women, and I don't rub out men for pay when they haven't a chance for their white alleys. If I was you I'd light out tonight and keep traveling till I was way deep in old Mex."

"Are you deef, Scarface? Haven't I told you over and over you got me wrong? I'd cut my hand off before I'd do this young lady a mite of harm. All I did was give Miss Ranger a little scare. Why, man, she's my neighbor."

Scarface laughed, not pleasantly. "If you can talk yoreself outa this you'll be good, Rhino. My guess is different." To Sandra he said, without lifting his eyes from the other man, "Get on yore horse, Miss, and I'll see you home safe."

He waited till she had mounted, then turned to the sullen, worried ranchman. "I don't reckon you are crazy enough to pull any more gunplays. If you've got any such notion, discard it. You would only be driving more nails in yore coffin. And anyhow, I'll be on the alert long as you're in sight."

"What's the sense in talking that-away," Uhlmann protested. "I don't aim to hurt you any." He pushed the rifle into the hands of his wife. "Here, take this gun since he's so scared."

The rustler turned to the wife of the harried man. "This fellow's ball of yarn is wound up, Mary," he said. "Rhino has reached the end of his trail here. Better fork his horse and ride with us."

"You can't talk that way to my wife," Uhlmann cried. "I won't stand for it."

"I am talking that way," Scarface retorted quietly. "That's the way it is. You light out, or—"

Stevenson Home Leaders Plan Conference Jan. 4

The board of trustees and advisory board of the Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial have invited approximately 50 supervisors and cafe workers of various agencies in and near Chicago to a luncheon conference Thursday, Jan. 4, in the Memorial residence at 1400 Monroe st. Planned as a means of giving referral agencies a better opportunity to evaluate services provided dependent women and children at the home, the meeting is an outcome of the executive members' belief that a closer relationship between referral and intake agencies would prove mutually advantageous.

Thru the Looking Glass

What with the extra cooking, house cleaning, package wrapping, and trimming of scratchy Christmas trees that old problem of keeping hands presentable is more troublesome than ever right now. Almost every housewife we know is bemoaning the sad effect of red, rough, wrinkled hands on her morale.

All we can suggest is heavy doses of oil. This isn't practical during the day time but you can simply slather your hands with it at night. Use the richest, greasiest stuff you can find—your night cream maybe, or your pet skin oil. Work it in for several minutes—the longer the better—and leave the surplus on overnight.

Some women can't bear the feel of gloves on their hands at night, but it's a good idea to wear them over lavishly greased hands if you possibly can do so. If they're quite loose, they probably won't make you nervous, as tight ones most certainly will. The gloves will permit the heavy layer of cream to soak into the skin overnight, and bed linen won't suffer as a consequence.

During the day you must redouble your efforts about using cream or lotion after every single hand washing. This is a must. Every hand washing depletes the supply of natural oil to some extent, you know, and to compensate for this you should be sure to use some restorative preparation. In addition to these little quick applications you should, if you possibly can find the time, work in a greasier cream occasionally. This you can do during those brief intervals when you sit down to rest or listen to the radio. Instead of sitting with your hands completely idle, give them a little massage. The briefest session pays big dividends in hand beauty; even five minutes of rich creaming helps enormously to make your hands whiter and smoother.

Did You Forget a Gift? Well, Get It Today

BY REA SEEGER.

Today is the last day of the big Christmas rush. Swarms of bundle laden shoppers will shove and push with, we hope, good natured vim and vigor. And as usual those laggards who have waited till the last crowded hour to get the urge for giving some one else something, will surge into the crowds to make everything even more cozy and clubby. For those reluctant shoppers, the assortments may have that shrunken appearance since many sizes will disappear.

Supplies may have dwindled, but merchandise certificates are still crisp bright and plentiful. They are the answer to everything, for with them, a cherished dress, a box of stockings, a beloved sweater, a gay wool jacket, a blouse, or even a hat or a fur coat can be purchased, perhaps after Christmas day, when the shops and stores regain a more peaceful atmosphere. The originator of these gift certificates should rate a handsome array of medals as you can send one for a dollar or a thousand. The people on the receiving end are particularly joyful because they are free to buy exactly what they want, or perhaps something they've craved.

Luxury gifts still are available. There are gifts of fur, from the beautiful fur cuffed gloves of suede to high fashion fur stoles, muffs, jackets, hats, and full length fur coats. Even belts of fur are ready for that last minute shopper to tuck into a gift box, tie with red ribbon and hustle out into the last hour delivery service.

And so this 1944 war time Christmas shopping spree ends, in a final burst of Christmas carols along the boulevard as you head for home.

Crocheted Rugs

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

There are many nooks and crannies in the home where old shaped scatter rugs add a note of cheer. These two patterns serve as excellent ways to use scraps of material or cotton rug yarn. It is simple needlework, and the rugs may be made any desired size.

For instructions in crocheting the two rugs, No. 1072, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

SYNTHETIC TIRES SAID TO REDUCE MILEAGE OF GAS

Loss Reported to Run Up to 20 Per Cent.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Automobile manufacturers, quietly working on post-war models, have reported to the war production board that synthetic rubber tires reduce gasoline mileage, it was learned today. This is a heretofore unpublished factor in the peace-time competition between natural and artificial rubber.

Also disclosed was the fact that the motor car manufacturers are continuing research on their peace-time products while operating the world's greatest arsenal. The secrecy surrounding it is due in part to the administration's hush hush policy on reconversion publicity and in part to the traditional attitude of the individual companies in keeping knowledge of experimental models from their competitors.

The increase in fuel consumption caused by synthetic tires is attributed to the same characteristics that cause extra internal heat in the tires. This heat, developed by friction within the tire, is energy that comes originally from the fuel tank, but is wasted in the extra effort of flexing the synthetic casing, which is stiffer than the natural rubber carcass.

Familiar Problem.

The extra heat developed by synthetics is a familiar war time tire problem. It is more pronounced in larger tires carrying heavier loads and is responsible for the fact that a portion of natural rubber must be used for big truck and bus tires. It remained for the automobile engineers to bring fuel consumption into the problem.

Tests by the automobile companies have shown that the additional fuel consumption is appreciable, running as high as 20 per cent for fast driving in a fully loaded, large passenger cars. The excess is less for smaller cars and for slower speeds.

The research is for the first model that will come off the assembly line after the war job is done. It has been described as being modeled after the 1942 car, the last before full conversion to arms output. But there are to be some changes, say the production men who are in touch with the WPB.

Differences in Alloys.

In appearance, the No. 1 post-war models will be just enough different in looks from the 1942 jobs to distinguish them, probably a change in a fender crease or a new styling of the radiator grill. The main difference will be in the components of the alloys. The run of mill steels have been improved for armaments. The automobile engineers, to meet new characteristics of their raw material, must make modifications in the design of parts with strict tolerances.

Other changes in engine design are being made to accommodate the higher octane gasoline that will be available to motorists after the war.

Think of No. 2 Model.

The automobile company presidents also are thinking of their No. 2 post-war models. It was a peace time practice in the industry to start research and development for a new model as soon as one model was introduced to the assembly line. The development engineers planned one year ahead of production.

Today, the No. 2 post-war car hasn't advanced beyond the doodle stage. Companies refrain from assigning idea men to a drafting board because of the danger of the army and navy grabbing them for production jobs.

GASOLINE ALLEY

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Curt Johnson, 2546 Grove av., Berwyn.]

THE QUESTION.

Do you think women's hats deserve all the ridicule they get?

WHERE ASKED.

Sheriff's office, county building.

THE ANSWERS.

Sheriff Mulcahy, 8000 Langley av.—You're putting me in a very vulnerable position. I have three women in my family. I might say the styles in women's hats denote that their minds aren't static. They couldn't possibly display such a parade of hats if they weren't constantly thinking. They don't deserve disparaging remarks.

Eleanor Florence, timekeeper, 10200 Hoyne av.—I think women's hats are beautiful and I think it's as unjust to ridicule a beautiful hat as a beautiful woman. Hats are more attractive now than they have ever been. A chic hat adds feminine charm and, tho the men tease us, I think they really like them.

William J. Healy, policeman, 812 E. 43d st.—A woman's crowning glory is her hair and a hat is a means of setting it off. Hats, therefore, must of necessity, be designed to attract attention to the hair. Any attempt to standardize women's hats would be a mistake. I will admit they aren't practical, but very attractive!

Edwin S. Nelson, assistant chief deputy sheriff, 1719 N. 76th ct., Elmwood Park—Since men have learned to look at hats as a form of protection rather than an ornament, I would say women's hats are ridiculous. They serve no purpose at all. But I notice them and maybe that's a psychological angle I hadn't considered.

Staff Sgt. Joseph L. Greensley, 7946 Laflin st.—After being in China two and a half years I say American women's hats are wonderful and they all look good to me. Men may tease the women about their hats merely to provoke them, but I think if you get down to the facts you'll find men design them.

Regina Kramer, secretary, 8718 Elizabeth st.—They deserve praise because they're flattering. I think our hats do a lot for us. When I have on a frilly, chic hat, I feel more like a lady. Anybody knows they're becoming. You don't think the men actually mean it when they make nasty remarks about our hats, do you?

MUSICIAN UNION TO ENTERTAIN ITS BLIND MEMBERS

Thirty-one blind members of the Chicago Federation of Musicians and their families will be guests of the union at a Christmas dinner and party in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel at 2 p. m. Monday. James C. Petrillo, international president of the musicians' union and president of the Chicago local, will be host. Opera, radio, stage, and screen stars will entertain. A turkey dinner will be served and gifts will be presented to the 31 musician guests and their children. William Kowalski, member of the Chicago federation executive board, is in charge of arrangements.

YDE APPOINTED HEAD OF STATE PRISON FARM

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 22 (AP).—Supt. Harry Yde of the Illinois state highway police was appointed late today by Gov. Green as superintendent of the state prison farm at Vandalia. Yde will be succeeded by Capt. Harry I. Curtis as head of the state police on Jan. 1.

Yde will succeed Mark K. Ervin of Effingham, who resigned the Vandalia post Nov. 21.

Curtis, 43, of Paxton, has been a state patrolman since 1941. He has headed the Champaign, Pontiac, and Effingham police districts embracing 29 counties, with headquarters in Champaign.

UNRRA CALLED COMPLETE FLOP IN BALKAN AREA

British Writer Hits Military Control.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The united nations relief and rehabilitation administration has proved a complete flop in the Balkans, according to this morning's News-Chronicle. On the heels of the house of lords debate in which the UNRRA was criticized as a top heavy, uneconomic, slow moving institution, the paper's Cairo correspondent loosed a new blast demanding a drastic reversal of policy governing UNRRA operations. The writer asserted that 200,000 persons are dying of starvation and cold in Yugoslavia, but despite the fact that the country's ports have been freed for more than two months and supplies are available at Bari, Italy, no relief has arrived.

Military Control Hit.

UNRRA was pictured as lavishly supplied with money and man power but handicapped by control by the military, who are more concerned with fighting battles than in relieving distress. The UNRRA was said to have put a rope around its own neck by ratifying the agreement surrendering to an allied military liaison commission its freedom of action and decision.

Under the agreement the military liaison is responsible for all negotiations with governments of freed territories for six months after liberation. UNRRA's role is more or less limited to an advisory capacity.

Suspect Politics.

Referring to the suspension of negotiations between the Yugoslavs and the military liaison at Bari, due to Marshal Tito's insistence upon allowing only a limited number of observers in Yugoslavia to check the distribution of supplies, the writer contended that the dispute was trivial compared to the hardship and distress existing in Yugoslavia. The situation is not helped, he says, by the fact that Yugoslavia has received from Russia 50,000 tons of grain with no strings attached. Both Yugoslavia and Albania, he said, suspect that the military commission and, indirectly, the UNRRA, is really a political weapon.

To get the UNRRA functioning, it was suggested that the organization should hold responsibility for supplies and transport and that the military act as its agent. Alternately, the supplies board in Washington should accord direct priorities to the UNRRA so it could function free of the military.

COLONEL GETS 2 YEAR TERM FOR SUPPLIES FRAUD

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—Col. Joseph James Canella, veteran army officer and former quartermaster of the Santa Ana army air base, was given the maximum sentence of two years imprisonment today on his conviction of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with his official duties.

Two Santa Ana, Cal., creamery company officials convicted with him were given lesser sentences, Ray M. Wykopf one year in jail and Harry W. McCormac six months.

Government testimony indicated Canella solicited and received money from persons having business with the quartermaster's office and collected approximately $7,000 between March 17, 1942, and May 21, 1943.

INFANTS' SHOES PUT ON CRITICAL PRODUCTS LIST

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—In an attempt to boost output, the war production board today placed certain sizes of infants' and children's shoes on the critical products list.

The action covers infants' sizes 4½ to 8 and children's sizes 8½ to 12. The measure provides that local production urgency committees will consider the labor needs of these producers when the requirements of the most critical war programs have been met.

The WPB said it was "hopeful" that the step will assist manufacturers in meeting their required production.

CONTENDS VIRUS PNEUMONIA TYPE NO THREAT HERE

Chicago is in no immediate danger from the type of virus pneumonia ascribed to pigeons in an article in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. F. V. Meriwether, director of the United States public health service here, asserted yesterday.

No recent cases of the infection, he disclosed, have been reported in Illinois or the other five central states under his supervision. This negative finding, he said, would seem to make unnecessary the destruction of pigeon flocks here and in the downtown sections of many cities, as advocated by another Chicago newspaper.

A type of virus pneumonia which three Philadelphia medical investigators said they found in six of 14 pigeons trapped in that city may be transmitted to humans, they suggested, thru the wind-borne dust of droppings of the birds. Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, pointed out that only two cases of virus pneumonia have been discovered among 85,000 patients to Passavant Memorial hospital. The infection, he said, is difficult to keep alive outside a living organism.

CHRISTMAS TRAGEDY: STREET CAR KILLS A MOTHER, HURTS CHILD

Mrs. Katherine Hogan, 44, of 9400 Ada st., was killed and her daughter, Margaret, 13, was critically injured by a Vincennes av. street car at 94th st. last night as they were returning on foot from Christmas shopping, their arms filled with packages.

Both were dragged a considerable distance by the southbound car. Mrs. Hogan's body was mangled. The girl suffered a skull fracture and was injured internally, St. George hospital attendants reported.

Mrs. Hogan was the wife of John F. Hogan, an official of Steamfitters' union, local No. 597. Detective George Covelli reported Lawrence Peterson, 41, the motorman, said he did not see the pedestrians until they were directly in front of the car.

Trend of War in Europe Brings Plea to Buy Bonds

The serious turn in the fighting in Europe emphasizes the need for additional equipment which the purchase of war bonds will provide, Francis M. Knight, city and county war bond drive chairman, said yesterday. Individual purchases of bonds stand at 87.7 per cent of the quota and over-all sales are 133.5 per cent of the total city and county goal of $803,160,000, Knight said.

SCIENTISTS FIND BOY SLAYER OF NIECE IS SANE

Norman Burton, 15, of Ohio, Bureau county, who knifed his niece, Sarah Jane Tyne, 5, to death Tuesday, was pronounced emotionally ill yesterday after a lie detector test and psychiatric examination in the office of Dr. Leonarde Keeler, criminologist, at 134 S. La Salle st. He is, however, mentally sane.

The shaggy haired youngster, clad in dungaree work clothes, smiled frequently as he casually admitted he had slain his niece. "I don't know why I did it," he said. He is husky, well built, and 5 feet 10 inches tall.

Examined by Two Scientists.

He was brought to Chicago by State's Atty. M. C. Pires and Chief Deputy Sheriff Henry Wilson of Lee county to determine whether he is sane and whether he has been telling the truth.

Dr. Keeler and Dr. Harry Hoffman, Illinois state psychiatrist, conducted the examination. They said there was no question of his veracity concerning his admission that he killed Sarah.

Boy Emotionally Ill.

"Norman is suffering from schizophrenia, or dementia praecox," said Dr. Hoffman. "However, his disease is not of the intelligence, but of the emotion. He doesn't have appropriate feeling. His intelligence is average for his age."

The youth, the alienist added, knows that he should be put away for his crime, and doesn't care whether he is sentenced to the electric chair. State's Atty. Pires said that Norman will be indicted on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Louise Peete Judson in cell at Los Angeles yesterday.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 22 [Special].—Mrs. Louise Peete Judson, 63, paroled murderess, and her husband, Lee Borden Judson, 67, former Chicagoland resident, were arraigned today on charges of murder in the death of Mrs. Margaret Logan, whose nude body was found in a shallow grave in the garden of her Pacific Palisades home two days ago. Preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 10.

Mrs. Logan, 60, long time friend of Mrs. Judson, had been missing since June 1. Mrs. Judson, who had been her housekeeper, admitted she buried the body, but contended the woman was killed by her husband, A. C. Logan, who died two weeks ago in an insane asylum.

Mrs. Judson served 19 years in prison following her conviction of the 1920 slaying of Jacob C. Denton, for whom she also was a housekeeper and whose body was similarly buried in his basement for some time before the killing was discovered.

Santa Traveled by Air, Long Before Airlines

He has all year in which to get ready for Christmas in his arctic work shop.

But he has only a single night in which to travel far and wide.

Nothing less than air travel could solve his Christmas Eve transportation problem.

Santa is a lovable legend, a merry myth, but the airplane is not a myth. Santa's travel method, in the realm of fancy, is available to you in fact—in the realm of universal air.

Every night and every day Flagships are performing the "transportation magic" that for centuries existed only in the imagination.

If we utilize all that the reality of global air transportation makes possible, Peace On Earth will be attained and maintained.

GREAT LAKES DEALS PURDUE 60-47 DEFEAT

ST. PATRICK'S FIVE WINS TITLE FROM ST. PHILIP

Triumphs, 41 to 38; Dragons Take 3d.

Tourney Scores

CHAMPIONSHIP.
St. Patrick, 41; St. Philip, 38.
THIRD PLACE.
St. George, 46; De La Salle, 43.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

St. Patrick's Shamrocks upset St. Philip, 41 to 38, to win the 11th St. George High school pre-season senior basketball tournament championship before a capacity crowd in Evanston last night. The Shamrocks from the west side thus became the third quintet to gain the award three times, equaling the achievement of Mount Carmel, 1943 title-holder, which was eliminated by St. Patrick in the quarter-finals, 40 to 23.

Brother Patrick, St. George principal and director of the meet, presented the title trophy to Coach Dave Hayes of the Shamrocks. He also gave a cup to St. George, which won third place honors for the second straight time as a result of conquering De La Salle in an exciting consolation game, 46 to 43.

Jennings Is Star.

Ray Jennings, captain and guard of the Shamrocks, was outstanding in his team's conquest, altho he was passed for scoring honors by teammates Forward Chuck Wilson and Center Tom Samp.

Wilson sank five baskets and two free throws for 12 points, Samp was one point behind and Jennings made 8 points.

The Shamrocks opened the game scoring when Mike Joyce, St. Philip guard, fouled Jennings and Samp pushed in Jenning's missed free throw. Bob Behnke registered the Gael's first points on two free throws shortly thereafter. The fast breaking Shamrocks continued to outplay their west side rivals to take a lead of 11 to 6 at the quarter.

Shamrocks Lead at Half.

St. Patrick maintained its advantage in the second period, the score at the half being 23 to 15 in their favor. Forward Dick Kluck and Guard Hugh Califf each made two baskets in the third quarter, but the Shamrocks remained out in front, 32 to 24. The shooting of Kluck and Califf in the final period kept St. Philip within striking distance of the leaders but the west siders could not overtake St. Patrick.

De La Salle scored first to start the game on Forward Art Billie's basket, which was matched a minute later by Jack Carrigan, St. George guard. Another field goal by Billie and two free throws by Bill Neylon gave De La Salle an 8 to 5 margin at the end of the period.

Dragons Rally.

After Jimmy Miller made a spectacular basket on a pass from Dick Scherer and Charley Castino sunk a free throw for St. George in the second period, Scherer sent the Evanston Dragons ahead for the first time, 10 to 9, on a long shot from the field. The south side Meteors regained the lead after a free throw by Neylon tied the score. De La Salle led, 24 to 21, at the half.

St. George, which was losing 35 to 39 at the third quarter, drove into the lead in the last period on baskets by Jack Carrigan and Charley Castino. It was a roaring climax to a slow starting contest.

GREEN DEFEATS ROCKY GRAZIANO IN GARDEN BOUT

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Harold Green, 149 pound Brooklyn scrapper, beat Rocky Graziano, 154 pounder from New York's east side tonight in Madison Square Garden, in a return 10 rounder for which 10,237 fans paid $29,773.

Both fighters were down in the hectic scrap, Graziano taking a three count from a right to the chin in the second round, and Green hitting the floor for nine in the eighth.

And at the end I'm rushing . . .
But having lots of fun.

Of peace on earth, good will toward men.

Proclaiming, it was Holy Night!
Mild shepherds there, in prayer were kneeling,
Beneath a star of wondrous light.

The bells repeat the lore of love!
Thru centuries they have been calling,
"O, trust in Him, Who rules above."

N. U. TO BATTLE W. MICHIGAN IN BID FOR NO. 3

Irish Five Invades Iowa Tonight.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern's undefeated basketball team will seek compensation tonight in the Evanston High school gymnasium for an opening game defeat last year by Western Michigan. The same Wildcat line-up which whipped DePauw and Marquette will start against the Broncos, who have won two games and lost a pair of contests to the University of Michigan.

Altho Glenn Selbo, who was a reserve last season at Wisconsin, is the only experienced player on the Western Michigan quintet, the Broncos are capable of surprising Northwestern. They hold a decision over Brooklyn college in Madison Square Garden.

De Paul Faces Long Island.

The Garden also is the site tonight for De Paul's annual eastern invasion. The Blue Demons, with seven victories and a 43 to 40 defeat by Illinois, face Long Island university. De Paul whipped Long Island, 59 to 38, last year. George Mikan, De Paul's 6 foot 9 inch center, has scored 167 points this season, an average of nearly 21 points a game. Long Island has won four games and lost one.

De Paul will depend on the same starting team which has amassed 481 points in eight games. The team average of 60 points a game is the same as that for Long Island. Gene Stump and Ernie DiBennedeto will be the forwards, and Ed Kachan and Jack Allen will be the guards. De Paul will come home immediately to prepare for its return contest in Champaign New Year's night with Illinois.

Michigan Is Powerful.

While Michigan's 50 to 35 victory over Western Michigan would seem to indicate a Northwestern triumph tonight, the Woverines have an exceptionally tall quintet which now has a string of six victories. This may mean that Michigan will be strong enough to challenge for the Western conference title when it opens the league season a week from tonight against Ohio State's defending champions. Michigan plays Wyoming tonight in Ann Arbor and is expected to win.

Max Morris, Northwestern's sturdy center, is the leading Wildcat scorer with 35 points in two games. Duane Sickels, veteran forward, has scored 23 points, one more than Frank Wright, freshman guard. Ben Schadler, Northwestern's other letter man, has scored 18 points against DePauw and Marquette. Phil Lofgren completes the Wildcat starting five.

Irish Battle Iowa.

Attention also will be focused this evening on the battle in Iowa City between Notre Dame and Iowa, both undefeated. The Irish have averaged 75 points while winning five games. Iowa's average is 77 points for its four victories.

The game matches two top scorers, Dick Ives of Iowa, who led the Western conference last year, and Vince Boryla, 17, Irish center, who has averaged 18 points a game this season. Notre Dame won last year's game with Iowa, 66 to 42, and the Hawkeyes have only one victory in eight played in the series.

Notre Dame will be weakened by loss of Billy Hassett, who suffered a knee injury in the game with Loras college. Coach Clem Crowe has moved George Ratterman to Hassett's guard position.

Wisconsin at Marquette.

Wisconsin and Marquette play the second game of their series tonight in Milwaukee's auditorium. The Badgers took the first contest in Madison, 45 to 40. Ray Patterson, shifted from center to forward this season to make a spot for Don Rehfeldt, 6 foot 6 inch freshman, scored 39 points in the first Marquette contest.

Sonja Henie, the figure skating star who entertained a Stadium full of service men and women last night, visits with a few of her admirers between appearances in her Hollywood Ice Revue. Naval Lt. Art Van Haren of Phoenix, Ariz., congratulates Miss Henie while Sgt. Vince Garrity of Chicago, former Cub bat boy, lends a hand with her skates. Last night's performance brought bond sales totaling $850,000 in a promotional hook-up of the Tribune with the treasury department.

Sonja's New Revue Scores Hit with $850,000 Crowd

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Sonja Henie, Art Wirtz, Freddie Trenkler, and the rest of the Hollywood Ice revue folks have gone and done it again.

The eighth of these gorgeous skating spectacles that Chicagoans love so much was revealed in Chicago Stadium before 18,500 last night, a capacity turnout which represented war bond sales totaling $850,000. Each purchaser of a $100 bond was given a pair of tickets, with the suggestion they be passed along to service men and women. This suggestion, contained in treasury department and CHICAGO TRIBUNE promotional aid to the big gala, was largely carried out, tho there were many civilians who apparently couldn't wait until tonight, when Miss Henie and her swell cast begin their regular Chicago holiday stay to the music of whirling turnstiles.

Show's Freshness and Novelty Is Surprising.

One who goes to the Henie-Wirtz show year after year must, like this observer, wonder each yuletide what Miss Sonja, Mr. Wirtz, and their technical staffs can do to give freshness and novelty to the next year's production.

But there they are again—Sonja's as skilled as ever—perhaps just a little less formal and thus more delightful than ever; the Caley sisters are their same sweet and graceful selves; Trenkler is funnier than ever without really a new bounce in his amazing skates; Fritz Dietl—Aw, shucks, who are we to tell Chicago ice show fans who's in a Henie show and what they do best!

Miss Henie Impressive in Hawaiian Number.

You all know about the skating, but you haven't seen the amazing new costumes — starting with "Greeting"—and getting brighter thru Caleys' "Speed and Skill," the four-season production number in which Miss Henie makes her first appearance, and right on.

Miss Henie really "gave" last night in her familiar Hawaiian number. Those four Hawaiians this year really have summoned enough courage to play their steel guitars—and hot—while Sonja is out there in her shimmery grass skirt, which really is awfully pretty jeweled beads and not grass at all.

A staging improvement this year is the introduction of a revolving stage. This does away with all that former scampering and skidding around in the dark by the stage hands putting up the scenery for succeeding background.

In the first half of the show, there are a couple of novelty groupings we think you'll like especially—one by all those stunning gals in the skating line called "Daisies Won't Tell" and another, a Gay Nineties specialty, "Sunday Afternoon."

The second half starts with something big called "Mood for Romance," and a little later Miss Henie appears with her company in "Tico-Tico."

Fans Like Bud Moore and His Associates.

The fans liked Bud Moore and associates in "The Butler's Holiday" after which Miss Henie and Gene Thesloff charmed the guests with "Meditation."

There is a second comedy act by Trenkler, reminiscent of his G. I. wow of last year—"G. I. Jamboree" he calls it.

The show closes with a magnificent production spectacle—"Carnival Russe."

That's all you need to know — you'll be seeing for yourself in a night or two, of course.

RUMOR KERR TO LEAVE COLGATE IS DISCOUNTED

Hamilton, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP).—Rumors that Andy Kerr had coached his last football team at Colgate university were discounted today by the university's athletic director.

One report was that Kerr would retire to the west coast.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Bill Nicholson, the Cub fly chaser who specializes in the home run punch, was the National league's best last season in the trick of driving mates or himself across the plate. The official so-called "RBI" figures show that Bill was personally responsible for recording 122 runs, 33 of them by his homer exploits.

On top of this, Nicholson gained the distinction of being the first National leaguer to be No. 1 run and homer producer for two successive seasons.

Musial Tops Sluggers.

However, the season's top slugging percentage, figured on total bases against times at bat, went to Stan Musial of the Cards for the second season in a row. In this particular feature Nicholson, with .545, was only four points behind the St. Louis expert.

Other "sluggers" of importance were Manager Mel Ott of the Giants with .554; Dixie Walker of the Dodgers, who won the batting title with .529; Phil Weintraub of the Giants, with .524, and Walker Cooper of the Cards, with .504.

Ott Equals Own Records.

Ott who has been operating as a major leaguer for so long that almost every time he moves he disturbs a record of one kind or another, equaled his own mark for drawing five passes in one game. His lifetime total of passes now is 1,629 and he has driven in 1,777 runs. Ott also tied his own record for scoring six times in one game and raised to 48 the number of times he has hit for two or more homers in one engagemnt.

Augie Galan, the ex-Cub, now a Dodger, was the best pass collector in the league for the second straight year. He walked 101 times, but Nicholson was close behind with 93 free rides. Nicholson also was fairly artistic dodging double plays. He grounded into only three such embarrassing moments and Ott did the same. This was practically nothing if compared to the 23 twin killings produced at the expense of slow motion Ernie Lombardi.

Reds Win Close Games.

Vince Di Maggio of the Pirates now is entitled to permanent possession of the strike out trophy, if there is such a thing. He went out by the strike route on 83 occasions, making his third successive year as leader in this respect.

The Reds were the best at winning by one run margins. They did it 37 times and the Pirates 31 times. On a percentage basis the Reds also were tops at winning extra inning games. They captured 14 of such while losing only three. No team was even close to the champion Cardinals in the matter of spraying whitewash on the opposition. They won 26 shutouts and were blanked 10 times, four of the latter being the work of the Reds.

CLOYD LEADS BLUEJACKETS TO 6TH VICTORY

Minnesota Whips Nebraska, 55-54.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 22 [Special].—The long range sharpshooting of the veteran Great Lakes quintet proved too much for Purdue's basketball youngsters here tonight and the Bluejackets trounced the Boilermakers, 60 to 47, for their sixth victory in eight starts. It was the second loss in four starts for the Purdue squad which has been reduced to an all-civilian basis by a temporary Navy restriction.

Great Lakes now has defeated the Boilermakers six straight times in their basketball series covering two wars.

Long Shots Turn Tide.

Despite innumerable errors of inexperience, the all-around speed of the Boilermakers was enough to keep them in the running until midway in the second half. The turning point came when Purdue was trailing by only three points, 36 to 33. Long range baskets in quick order by Walter Budko, Richard McGuire, and Rand Clark shot the sailors out in front, 42 to 33.

The Bluejacket point deluge was broken temporarily as Charley Haag counted for Purdue on Paul Cloyd's foul, but that merely set off another long range shot by McGuire, and still another one by Cloyd to increase the Sailor lead to 46 to 34.

Cloyd, formerly of Wisconsin, paced the victors with six field goals and one free throw for 13 points, closely followed by Luke Majorki, formerly of South Side High school, Fort Wayne, with five field goals, and Dick McGuire, who had five baskets and a free throw.

Hoffman Tops Both Teams.

The brilliant all-around play of Paul Hoffman and the rebound and defensive work of John Hinga featured for Purdue. Hoffman turned in one of the greatest floor games of his career and in addition took high point honors for the evening with 16.

The Sailors had 98 field goal attempts as compared with 69 for the Boilermakers. Lineups:

GOPHERS BEAT HUSKERS

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 22 [Special].—Two free throws by Arnie Lehrman, Gopher captain, in the last minute of an overtime period, enabled the University of Minnesota basketball team to defeat the Nebraska Cornhuskers, 55 to 54, tonight.

The Gophers led, 21 to 20, at half time and the game was deadlocked, 51 to 51, at the end of the regular 40 minutes of playing time. Nebraska missed a chance to tie the score when Costello failed from the foul line in the last 30 seconds.

Nebraska had to come from behind a 48 to 40 count in the last five minutes of the regular playing period to tie the score, Jim Strahan's three long shots turning the trick.

Big Hermsen scored 12 field goals for the Gophers to pace the attack. Lehrman gathered in 11 for second honors.

Dwight Humphrey, Moline forward, almost upset Waukegan's plans for a victory with a fine floor game in addition to contributing six points to the downstate's total. The two teams were tied, 12 to 12, at the half. In the preliminary junior game, the home squad beat Zion, 30 to 23.

As in the Waukegan game, the star player at Glen Ellyn was a member of Glenbard's losing team. He was Jack Hollenback, guard, who scored four field goals and six free throws for 14 points. Oak Park rallied from a 22 to 18 half time deficit for the victory.

Glenbard's juniors successfully turned back the Oak Park lightweights, 33 to 20, in the first game of the double header.

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—An injunction suit was filed today in Tijuana, Mexico, court, aimed at preventing the Arguello heirs from using machinery and furniture at the Agua Caliente race track.

The action, filed by Leopold U. Valdez as legal advisor to the Caliente Jockey club, named Agustin Silveira as representative of the heirs. The suit contends the equipment is the property of the club and not included in the race track property awarded the heirs by a decision of the Mexican Supreme court.

Various other suits and threats of litigation have been announced since the Mexican government took over the $3,000,000 race track Dec. 14 for the heirs, and gave Silveira material control as their representative.

The New York Negro gave an impressive demonstration of his skill during the first six rounds and in the seventh battered Martin, a Seabee stationed at Davisville, R. I., to the canvas for a nine count with a prolonged barrage of lefts and rights to the head.

HAWKS MOVE ON MONTREAL; FACE ANOTHER DEFEAT

The last place Chicago Blackhawks and the first place Montreal Canadiens will play hockey in Montreal tonight. It will be the first engagement for the tailenders since the double barreled blasting farewell parties President Bill Tobin gave the Hawks for what he had described as indifferent, lazy, and timid play.

President Tobin is not an unreasonable man and has not demanded that the Hawks defeat the champs in Montreal or else. But he is expected to ask a full report on the zeal displayed by the lads, winning or losing.

Canadiens Tough at Home.

The Canadiens have lost only four of their last 43 games in Montreal. That is one of the reasons, perhaps, that Tobin won't start bouncing athletes if the Hawks get nosed out tonight.

Three Canadiens are among the four top performers in the latest goal and point scoring statistics, which is one more reason Tobin probably won't be so tough if the boys lose while trying hard tonight. Maurice Richard of the Canadiens is the leading goal scorer with 19, and besides took time the other night to give Bob Dill, Ranger bad man, a severe thumping at fisticuffs. The leading point maker is Richard's line mate, Toe Blake, who has made 15 goals and 18 assists for 33 points.

Sign New Forward.

Tobin yesterday named the player whose acquisition he had announced a day earlier. He is Hank Blade, a 25 year old forward who has just finished a two year hitch in the Canadian army. It was said he will not play in Montreal tonight but may be in the Hawk lineup against the Rangers tomorrow night.

RANGERS GAIN TWO.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Jimmy Drummond, top defense man for the New York Rovers of the Eastern Amateur Hockey league, and Bucko McDonald, injured defense star, will join the New York Rangers to play the Chicago Blackhawks on Sunday night.

Guy Labrie and Billy Moe, regular Ranger defensemen, were injured in Detroit last night. Both, however, may be in shape to play Sunday.

KENTUCKY AND INDIANA STATE QUINTETS WIN

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 22 (AP).—Kentucky entrants took charge of the opening session of the midwest college basketball tournament today as Morehead Teachers and Murray Teachers triumphed in the first two games.

Indiana State, host team, defeated Concordia seminary of St. Louis, Mo., 67 to 49, in the first game of the evening session.

Eastern Illinois won its first victory of the season by defeating Miami [Ohio], 46 to 30, in the final game of today's schedule.

Morehead, a strong pre-tourney favorite, rolled over Central Normal of Danville, Ind., 65 to 42, in the first game, and Murray squeezed past Loras of Dubuque, Ia., 39 to 38.

Morehead built up a 20 to 3 margin before the Warriors could connect with a field goal.

Morehead Takes Early Lead.

Forwards Carpenter and Cooper were the big guns as Morehead buried Normal in the early stages and coasted to victory with substitutes in the game. The winners enjoyed a 34 to 14 advantage at the intermission.

Only Frank Gibbs, star forward of the Danville entry, was able to penetrate the Morehead defense consistently. He collected six field goals and seven free throws.

Cooper led the scoring with 23 points on nine field goals and five free throws.

Murray Wins Thriller.

The other Kentucky entrant, Murray Teachers, won a thriller from Loras in the second afternoon game.

The Kentuckians trailed thruout the first half before rallying to take the lead early in the second period. Loras got back on top once more, but Murray ran up a four point lead with three minutes to go and stalled the gun.

Dave Wareham, Loras center, was the scoring star of the game. Wareham sank five field goals and seven free throws for a total of 17 points. Red Reagan, Murray pivot man, led the winners with 12 points.

The defeat was the fifth in a row for Loras in its five game invasion of Indiana.

Host Team Wins Easily.

Concordia played the Indiana State on nearly even terms for half of the first period and once held a 12 to 9 lead. Then State started clicking, rolled up a 31 to 19 margin at the half, and gradually drew farther away in the second half. Indiana State had a height advantage, and Bob Armstrong, 6 foot 4 inch center, dominated the rebound department.

Leo Swinford of Indiana State was high scorer with 19 points. Clarence Disney and Ed Lash of State and Hellman of Concordia tallied 16 each.

MAJOR LEAGUES SHOW INCREASE IN MAN POWER

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The major leagues face their fourth wartime baseball season with more manpower than at any time since the start of World War II.

An Associated Press survey showed 572 players on the majors' reserve list for 1945, the National league with 293 and the American circuit 279. The total exceeds 1944's reserve list by 69, when the junior circuit led with 260 to 243 for the National.

Thus, the influx of 17 and 18 year olds and discharged veterans has more than offset the loss of many players to the services.

Of course, in place of Joe Di Maggio, Ted Williams, Johnny Mize, Pete Reiser, Bobby Feller, and Hank Greenberg you'll find such names as Tom Brown, Pete Gray, Eddie Miksis and Ben Chapman—which should give you some idea of the player strength.

Cubs Top All Clubs.

But with the reserve lists raised from 40 to 48 until June 25 when the clubs must pare down to 30 instead of the previous 25, you can expect to see more 17 and 18 year olds cavort on major league diamonds this season.

The Chicago Cubs, with a host of farm hands up for inspection in addition to discharged Harry Lowrey and Thompson Livingston, top all clubs with 41 players. The New York Giants and Brooklyn each have 40. Washington, last placer in the American league last season, has coralled 38 players, tops in its circuit.

Picture May Change.

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals, with their vast chain system, have the least on their roster, 29, while Philadelphia's Athletics are low in the American league with 31.

The recent revised draft ruling, however, may change the entire picture before the season begins. Big leaguers already in the services number 471, of whom 239 are from the American league and 232 from the National. Detroit has lost the most, 37, and the Cubs have been the least hit, only 19 serving with Uncle Sam.

Trojans, Vols Bear Down in Bowl Drills

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—In a light but persistent rain the Southern California and Tennessee football squads went thru strenuous drills today for their New Year's game in the Rose bowl.

Aware of the Trojan aerial attack menace, Coach John Barnhill stressed pass defense in the two Tennessee workouts. He had the second string operating Southern California plays against the varsity, with Assistant Coach Bo Brown imitating Jim Hardy, ace passer.

Barnhill also gave his tackles, guards, and centers a hefty session on the dummies to perfect charging tactics.

Coach Jeff Cravath featured attention to both defense and offense in the Trojan practice, with reserve back field players seeing much action. Neither Right Half Don Burnside nor Left Half Bob Morris is in the best of shape and their respective understudies, George Davis and Blake Headley, were drilled aplenty.

Both squads have scheduled workouts tomorrow, but will rest Sunday.

CHICAGO FIVE TO PLAY CLEVELAND PROS TONIGHT

The American Gears, Chicago National Pro league quintet will seek its second victory in four days against Cleveland in a double header program in the Coliseum tonight.

The White-Liners, feminine five, will seek revenge against the A. I. B. Des Moines girl team in the first game at 8:15 p. m.

Dick Triptow and Stan Patrick, Chicago stars, will bid with Mel Riebe, Cleveland forward who leads the league in points scored with 178 points in nine games. Coach Jack Tierney plans on using the same starting lineup that beat Oshkosh Wednesday night.

The starting lineup will be:

Chicago.		Cleveland.
Triptow	F	Riebe
Patrick	F	Bytzurn
McGown	C	Mills
McDonald	G	Endress
Roos	G	Becker

ONE SHOT—SIX DUCKS!

Salt Lake City, Utah, Dec. 22 [AP].—Al Ball was there as a witness when his brother, Tom, raised his shotgun and pulled the trigger once. Six ducks tumbled earthward.

Big 9 Stars in Spaghetti Bowl Game

SPAGHETTI BOWL HDQ., Italy, Dec. 22 (AP).—This will serve to introduce the Spaghetti bowl, a football game.

It is going to be played New Year's day between a team from the 5th army and another from the 12th air force.

It can't be told just where it's going to be played because Jerry might be listening, but it's coming off in an honest-to-gosh stadium that seats between 25 and 25,000 customers.

Right now the two teams are rounding into some kind of shape and the workout fields are more "hush hush" than a ward room where they plan an amphibious landing.

Indiana's Sparky Miller Coaches Air Force.

The army coach is Capt. Lou Bush, who came out of the Massachusetts State back field to do some baseballing for the Boston Braves and such minor league outfits as Asheville, Columbus, Rochester, and Memphis before Uncle Sam called his signal.

Maj. George A. [Sparky] Miller, former center for Indiana [1935-'37] who went back to the Hoosiers later as assistant to Bo McMillin, is bossing the air force.

Bush is putting a lot of confidence in Sgt. Cecil Sturgeon, a 235 pound tackle for North Dakota State and the Philadelphia Eagles, before coming over here as an M. P., and Sgt. Dwight Reed, who used to toss his 220 pounds around at end for Minnesota.

Texas Aggies, Georgetown, Pitt, Penn Represented.

Against them will be such air force names as Corp. Arthur Faircloth, a tailback from North Carolina state; Sgt. Robert Geier, ex-University of Cincinnati end [1939], and Sgt. John D. Rumsey, all-Lone Star conference lineman at Sam Houston State Teachers in '40.

Helping out Miller with the air force Bridgebusters are Capt. Edward A. Schultz, a Pittsburgh end in the late 20s, and Capt. Walter Daly, former Penn full back.

Working alongside Bush for the 5th army Booby-Trappers are Lt. Bob White, infantryman out of the Indiana back field; Arthur Remke, a signal officer who used to take signals at Georgetown in '41, and Charley Henke, a guard on the Texas Aggies Sugar and Cotton bowl teams of '39 and '40. They'll be playing coaches.

Name Hartnek Boxing Coach at Boys Town

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 22 [Special].—Father Flanagan, founder and director of Boys Town, today announced the appointment of Paul Hartnek, former Creighton university football star and two-time winner of Omaha and Chicago Golden Gloves titles, as a boys supervisor and instructor in boxing and swimming.

Paul Hartnek.

Hartnek a 1938 Creighton graduate, has been fighting professionally for the last seven years. He attended high school in Kenosha, Wis., where his mother resides.

He'll Take Over Wednesday.

He will assume his duties at Boys Town next Wednesday after a holiday visit with his mother. Maurice [Skip] Palrang, Boys Town athletic director, said Hartnek would coach the boxing team and would start practice immediately. He will have a team in the Omaha Golden Glove championship matches to be held in February.

Father Flanagan, in discussing Hartnek's appointment, said "I am sure Paul will do a great job."

Has Unique Gloves Record.

Hartnek is the only boxer to gain the Chicagoland Golden Gloves heavyweight championship twice, capturing the honor by defeating John Washington in 1936 and successfully defending it against the late Lem Franklin the following year.

He was a member of the Chicago intercity squads both years. Altho he was defeated by his New York opponent in each instance, the best Manhattan's champions could achieve was a draw, 8 bouts to 8 in 1936. Chicago won the 1937 match, 9 to 7.

CITY'S CHURCHES HOLD CHRISTMAS RITES TOMORROW

Many Plan Main Events; Others to Mark Eve.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Many Protestant churches of the city will conclude their Christmas observances tomorrow with special services. Catholic, Episcopal, and Lutheran churches will hold to their calendars by observing tomorrow morning as the Fourth Sunday in Advent and then have Christmas eve services in late afternoon, early evening, or at midnight.

At First Congregational church, Union square, the Rev. Dr. Frederick Keller Stamm, pastor, will deliver his Christmas sermon at 11 a. m. and there will be a candlelight and carol service at 5 p. m. At Fourth Presbyterian church, Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson, pastor, said the Christmas service would be held at 4 p. m. vespers, with a Christmas pageant and carols at 7:30 p. m.

To Remember Service Men.

Central church, Studebaker theater, announced that Dr. Harold Ruopp would deliver his Christmas sermon at 11 a. m. Dr. Gerhard W. Grauer, at St. Paul's Evangelical church, Orchard and Kemper sts., said the fourth Advent candle would be lighted at the 11 a. m. service. At 11 p. m. the church will hold its annual informal Christmas eve service, when the 300 members who are in military service will be honored by the lighting of remembrance candles.

The Rev. Dr. Charles Ray Goff of First Methodist church, Chicago temple, 77 W. Washington st., anticipates overflow congregations at the 11 a. m. Christmas service and at the Carol service arranged by James Evans, minister of music, at 8:30 p. m. At Third Presbyterian church, Ashland and Ogden avs., the Rev. Dr. Alvin Ross Hickman, pastor, said the Sunday school Christmas service would be held at 6:30 p. m. with the Christmas eve service an hour later.

Asks Aid for War Sufferers.

Bishop J. Ralph Magee of the Methodist church, Chicago area, in his Yuletide message as national director of the Crusade for Christ program, urged that Christmas gifts take the form of funds for the support of refugees in war zones and occupied countries.

"A great people like America," said Bishop Magee, "untouched by bombs or shells, made rich by high incomes and vast production, with schools still open, churches unharmed, and cultivated fields unmolested, must squarely face an obligation to do for the world a great unselfish service and demonstrate the sincerity of our profession that we are a Christian nation. There is no better time for such a demonstration than Christmas."

Reports received by Bishop Magee indicate that hundreds of the 41,000 Methodist churches have exceeded their goals in the crusade. Bishop Schuyler E. Garth, Madison, Wis., the first of 33 areas to report success, announced that the 509 churches in that area have reached their quotas.

HARRY LANGDON, FILM COMEDIAN, IS DEAD AT 60

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—Harry Langdon, stage and screen comedian whose antics once brought him $7,500 a week from the movies, died today in St. Vincent's hospital of a cerebral hemorrhage. He was 60.

Harry Langdon.

He started in two reelers and ended in them. Between, he had great success and failures and the tribulations that come with marriages and divorces and too much money. Harry's best pictures were "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," "The Strong Man," both made in 1926, and "Long Pants," in 1927. He created a cinematic sensation in the latter by having his heroine play a blind girl.

Hires Capra as Director.

Harry was a vaudeville headliner when he joined the Mack Sennett galaxy 21 years ago. The man assigned to Harry to "gag" his films was Frank Capra. When Langdon received a new contract, he hired Capra as his director. Then Harry decided he didn't need a director—all he wanted, he said, was some one to watch for "ocular errors." Capra, now a colonel in the army signal corps, went up the ladder as a director, and Langdon went down because he made the usually fatal mistake of trying to direct himself.

Four wives divorced him. His fifth divorced him, too, but they were remarried, after a few months, in 1938. This wife and their daughter, Virginia, survive, together with his son Harry Jr., now 9, the child of his third wife, Helen.

Kept His Chin Up.

Langdon, who started acting in Council Bluffs, Ia., when he was 12, had many talents. He could play any musical instrument by ear. He was a ventriloquist. He was a cartoonist, so good, friends say, that William Randolph Hearst offered him $3,000 a week to draw a daily strip. Harry was too successful and too busy, he said, to draw cartoons.

He was "a man of many talents," said Col. Capra today, "but his greatest was his ability to keep his chin up in the face of adversity."

Mrs. Simms' Condition Unchanged for 3d Day

Condition of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms remained unchanged yesterday at Bilings hospital for the third successive day, hospital attendants reported. She underwent a serious operation Dec. 4. Mrs. Simms' home is near Albuquerque, N. M., and she is publisher of two newspapers in Rockford.

OBITUARIES

James Barrowman.

James Barrowman, 66, who until his retirement in 1941 was a sergeant of police at the Warren Avenue station, died yesterday of a chronic ailment which had troubled him for years. In 1939 six fellow policemen gave blood for a series of transfusions to save his life. Surviving are his widow, Elizabeth; three sons, Thomas, a former policeman at Town Hall station and now a specialist first class in the navy; David, and James; a daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Pillar, and six grandchildren. Services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the home, 3516 N. Lavergne av.

The Rev. Peter Crumbly.

The Rev. Peter Crumbly, 62, O. F. M., a Franciscan missionary in the United States for 41 years, died last night in Alexian Brothers hospital. WOUNDED YANKS TO NURSES: JOIN AND SAVE LIVES

A war casualty, speaking from his bed in Gardiner General hospital, yesterday urged Chicago registered nurses to enlist for service in the army and navy.

He was Sgt. Fred F. Gergolunas, 1651 Canalport av., who left the battlefields of Europe just last month. It will be many weeks before he will walk again.

"I was lucky," he said. "I had good medical and nursing care. The boys who don't get that . . . well, they just don't come back."

Ten Thousand More Needed.

It's to reduce the number of boys who won't come back that the Red Cross is conducting a recruitment drive for army nurses. The quota is 275 and unless the drive is a success American soldiers will suffer and some will die for want of care, Mrs. Erma Brannon, director of the drive, said yesterday.

"The need is critical. Ten thousand more nurses must enlist before adequate care can be provided for the sons, husbands, and sweethearts of this nation. Surely Chicago women will not let our wounded die neglected," she said.

Nurses who enlist will be sworn in as second lieutenants with base pay of $150, plus $21 a month food allowance and $259 for the purchase of the initial uniform. Chances for overseas duty are good, but nurses are assigned where needed.

But advantages offered by the service count for little compared with the words of praise wounded veterans have to say for nurses.

Nurses Overworked, Says Soldier.

"I wish women could visualize the good they can do," Pvt. Gale Farris of Bloomington, who was wounded after seven months overseas, said. "The first thing I saw when I regained consciousness was a nurse bending over me. That was midnight. The next afternoon she was still on duty. Those girls over there certainly need help."

Lt. Ruth S. Schiffler, who is on limited duty at Gardiner hospital after 19 months with a general hospital in Burma, said: "Army nursing is the greatest source of satisfaction the profession offers. The need is acute—how acute you cannot realize unless you have been there."

Enlisting nurses' places on the home front must be filled by nurses' aids, Mrs. Brannon said. She issued an appeal for women between 18 and 50 years old, who could give approximately two days a week to hospital work to apply at Red Cross headquarters for training. The telephone is WAB. 7850. New classes will be started early in 1945.

Mr. Reiwitch was the first president of the Hebrew institute, now the Jewish People's institute. He was a member of the Chicago Press Veterans' association.

THRONG ATTENDS BRIEF SERVICES FOR LUPE VELEZ

Beverly Hills, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—Final rites for actress Lupe Velez, who committed suicide last week, were held in a mortuary chapel here today shortly after Harald Ramond, named by Lupe as the father of her unborn child, had paid a brief visit to view the body. Ramond, Austrian-born actor, spent a minute before the casket, made the sign of the cross and walked away.

Several hundred persons, mostly of Mexican descent, attended the brief services. Lupe's mother, Josefina Velez y Villalobos of Mexico City; a sister, Mrs. Josefina Anderson of San Antonio, Tex., and her husband, Pvt. Gordon Anderson, were in an anteroom. Lupe's mother collapsed as she was leaving the mortuary.

Rev. Patrick Concannon led the recitation of five Our Fathers and Hail Marys. In Latin he blessed the body of the actress and then in English he read from the Catholic burial service. Gary Cooper, who had been announced as a pall bearer, was not seen. Johnny Weissmuller, who once was married to Lupe, and his wife came. Johnny and Gilbert Roland and Lupe's two business managers were the pall bearers.

The body will be sent to Mexico City for burial.

DRIVE TO BOOST WAR OUTPUT IN SMALL PLANTS

SWPC Seeks Larger Registration.

The Smaller War Plants corporation on Jan. 2 will open a drive in the Chicago area to obtain registration of several thousand plants which have facilities for war production but which are not turning out as much for the army and navy as possible, Thomas Burtch, regional director, announced yesterday.

Only 1,800 of Chicago's 10,000 plants are registered with the SWPC, Burtch said. About 1,000 of the total are large plants, but the others come under the classification which the SWPC was authorized by congress to assist. Of nearly 16,000 plants in the four state region of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, and Wisconsin, 4,500 have registered.

The SWPC is working on two main programs, Burtch said. The more important includes obtaining contracts, materials, and in many cases financing for plants without war contracts or with open capacity for war work.

Must Register to Get Help.

"We cannot help either the government or these plants unless they are registered," said Victor Fabian, Chicago district manager. "The budget bureau has authorized a short questionnaire for them, on which they file essential information with us.

"When one of the government procurement agencies asks us to find a plant with facilities and workers for a certain contract or subcontract, it takes only a minute to put them on the right track if there is a plant registered with us which fills the need.

"We know there are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of plants here which could be doing important war work, but we don't know which ones they are. Nearly every one which has registered so far has benefitted in some way. Unfortunately, most of them did not register until they faced closing down thru cancellation or expiration of contracts, or thru inability to get materials.

Many Not Registered.

"Others now having smoother sailing have not registered, and it is these we want to help, as well as the war effort. A simple statement filed with us may produce a good contract when it is most needed."

The second program is that of schooling plant executives to prepare them for contract termination. Despite added pressure for larger output of certain munitions, Burtch said some plants, particularly smaller ones producing materials of which there is no shortage, will face sudden cancellation of contracts without being prepared to get full compensation quickly from the government.

Plant officials who understand the termination procedure, and whose accounting systems have been adapted to it, will be able to file claims within 48 hours of the time they lose their contracts, and to get their money within a month or two, Burtch said. Those not familiar with the procedure may wait many months or even years because of inability to prepare proper claims, he warned.

Interested in Fair Break.

The law creating SWPC charged it with helping plants with contract termination problems. The corporation has no financial interest in any contract, and is free to act as agent for any plant asking its help.

"It is more interested in seeing that the smaller plants get fair breaks than in anything else," explained Fabian.

He suggested that Chicago area executives interested in weekly termination classes at Loyola university apply directly to the university, which plans to sponsor them as long as a demand exists.

Midland Reorganization Plan Appeal Turned Down

The United States 7th Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday dismissed an appeal brought by debenture holders of Midland United and Midland Utilities companies from the securities and exchange commission's authorization of the filing of reorganization plans with the federal District court at Wilmington, Del., by trustees. The two companies formerly were part of the Samuel Insull utility empire and have been in reorganization since 1934.

Elston-Willow Warehouse Purchased for $136,300

A syndicate yesterday bought the one story warehouse, 211 by 360 feet, at the northeast corner of Elston av. and Willow st., from the Marquette Cement Manufacturing company for $136,300. The building is occupied under lease by Aetna Plywood and Veneer company. A. R. Foss was attorney for the buying group which took title thru Robert E. Plum, as nominee.

Old Hobby Horse Leaves Live Rivals at the Post

Arcola, Ill., Dec. 22 (AP).—The proximity of Christmas may have had something to do with it, but a toy brought more money than horses at a farm auction. A horse sold for $8, a mare for $7, and a team for $12. A hobby horse, used by several of the farmer's children, brought $13.75.

Pour Last Concrete in Big Shasta Dam Construction

Rye Futures Lead Rise in Grain Market

Grain prices advanced swiftly yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade with rye in the lead. Buying of rye, based on a revival in the distilling demand with sales of 106,000 bushels reported, helped trade in wheat, corn, and oats, and closing sales were near the top. Rye finished 1⅞ to 2⅜ cents higher. Wheat gained 1¼ to 1⅜ cents, oats 1 to 1⅜ cents, barley 2 to 2⅝ cents, and corn ½ to 1 cent.

The reported rye sales led to a belief further distillery purchases were near in view of the shortage of kiln dried corn. A small lot of rye, wanted for delivery on December contracts sold at $1.19¾, or 3¼ cents above the closing price Thursday.

Cash Grains Bring Premiums.

There was an absence of pressure on all grains which brokers said was the result of big premiums being paid for cash grain. No. 2 red winter wheat was quoted at $1.75⅞ or 12¼ cents over May and No. 2 hard winter sold at $1.71½ or 8 cents over the future. No. 2 white oats were quoted 7½ to 10 cents over May.

Large government orders for wheat flour were expected to be filled within the next few days, it was reported. Brokers attributed some support in wheat futures to mills. A barge with 50,000 bushels of soft red winter wheat arrived Thursday from St. Louis, and was expected to go to mills ultimately.

Purchases of 225,000 bushels of cash corn for deferred shipment were reported on bids of $1.13½ to $1.14 for No. 2 yellow, shipment by Jan. 15. However, cash interests were not inclined to bid for shipment after that date and were likewise slow in buying corn from northwestern states because of the unusually high moisture content in grain received recently.

FLOUR SUBSIDIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—A new method of paying the federal flour subsidy was announced today along with a special subsidy on flour shipped to the Pacific coast from Montana mills. For the last three months the subsidy rate has been the same for the entire country.

The Defense Supplies corporation said that in accordance with a directive from Stabilization Director Vinson it will announce monthly rates as follows:

1. One rate on all wheat ground in the Pacific coast area and all wheat originating there and ground elsewhere.
2. One rate on all wheat ground outside the Pacific coast area except wheat originating on the coast.

The special Montana payments were designed to bring the rate on Montana flour shipped to the west coast up to the level paid on the coast. The new system will be effective Jan. 1.

WARD'S REPORTS FULL BALTIMORE STAFF AT WORK

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—An official of the Montgomery Ward & Baltimore mail order house and retail store today said that a full complement of workers reported for duty despite a strike called by a CIO union in sympathy with the Detroit, Mich., walkout.

Both police and company representatives said no pickets were on duty at the establishment, where more than 3,000 persons are employed in the mail order house alone.

Maurice J. Neistadt, assistant business manager of the union, said the Baltimore walkout was called as a "sympathy movement" with the Detroit union's strike.

More Pickets Sought.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 22 (AP).—Reënforcement of picket lines at four Montgomery Ward stores in this area was sought by state CIO leaders today as a means of forcing government action in the 14 day old strike. Such action was urged last night as 2,500 officers and stewards of 200 local CIO unions met to plan help to the walkout. The strikers are members of the CIO United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employes.

Chicago Department Store Sales Gain 14 Per Cent

Department store sales in Chicago during the week ended Dec. 16 rose 14 per cent above a year earlier, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Volume in the entire 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district and thruout the country rose 17 per cent.

LASH PROPOSED PRICE CEILING ON LIVE CATTLE

Assert Beef Supply Would Be Cut.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Sen. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] today said 16 western senators who discussed the meat situation with federal officials agreed unanimously that price ceilings on live animals would be "completely impractical." After a two hour closed session with price and war food administration executives, O'Mahoney said the suggested device would not work for two reasons:

Sen. O'Mahoney.

"First, it would be impossible of successful enforcement—there isn't enough man power.

Predicts Premature Sales.

"Second, it would undoubtedly result in premature selling of animals and reduction in the supply of meat. The cattle grower, uncertain of how the rules would operate, but believing preferences would be granted one grade as opposed to another, would sell his cattle before they reached the proper weight.

"It would do consumers in New York no good to have 40 million head sold at an average weight of 600 pounds, instead of 35 million at 1,000 to 1,100 pounds."

O'Mahoney referred to threats by New York and New Jersey meat dealers to close their shops unless OPA regulations are revised. They contended that the lack of price ceilings on live cattle channels much of the meat to illegal dealers.

O'Mahoney said he believed the problem would be eased if producers were not kept uneasy by talk of ceilings. Reports have been recurrent that Stabilization Director Vinson has a live cattle price ceiling order prepared, despite WFA and grower opposition.

Tells of Hog Ceiling Change.

Sen. Butler [R., Neb.] said:

"Everybody knows what a failure OPA made in its handling of hog markets. At last they were forced to allow the producers of heavy hogs the same price that was allowed for light hogs.

"From what I can learn about the OPA's contemplated action on beef, cattle feeders are in for a terrible headache which will ultimately result in the production of less beef at a time when the world needs every possible pound of beef, and we have an abundance of feed to make it.

"No such radical change should be made in the meat production program without hearing from producers and feeders as well as from Mayor La Guardia and his retailers. Producers' costs have advanced sharply and they cannot absorb any more. Any proposed increase of packer subsidies will not reach the producer or feeder."

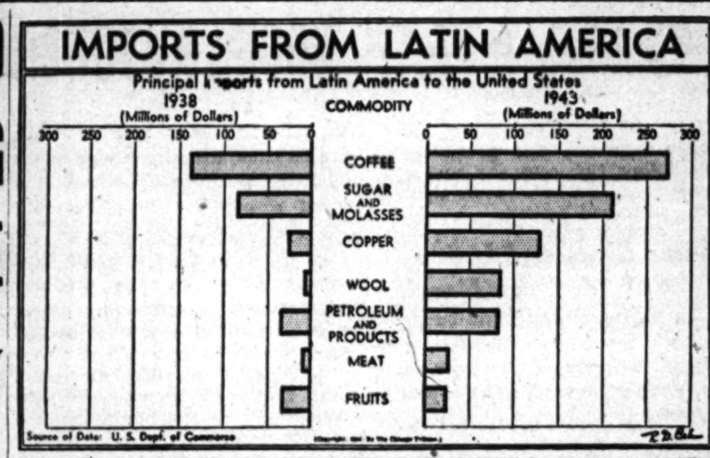

Other senators present were Connally [D., Tex.], Wheeler [D., Mont.], Shipstead [R., Minn.], Capper [R., Kas.], Reed [R., Kas.], Thomas [R., Idaho], Murdock [D., Utah], Johnson [D., Colo.], Millikin [R., Colo.], Wilson [R., Ia.], McCarran [D., Nev.], Robertson [R., Wyo.], and Langer [R., N. D.]. Rep. Rockwell [R., Colo.] also attended.

CATTLE PRICES STEADY

The scant supply of cattle at the Chicago Stock Yards yesterday sold about steady. Best steers moved at $17.25, and the bulk at $13.50 to $16. Barely steady prices were paid for heifers, beef cows, canners, cutters, calves and bulls.

Because butchering crews were about to take a three-day holiday, demand for hogs slumped when sellers demanded ceiling prices. A few sales held steady at the $14.75 ceiling, but most were 25 to 35 cents lower. Most good 190 to 300 pound hogs sold at $14.35 to $14.60. Sows again brought the $14 ceiling price. The average price was down 25 cents to $14.45.

Old sheep held steady, top ewes bringing $7.25, but lambs dipped 10 to 25 cents. Top fed westerns sold at $15, off 10 cents. Most natives sold at $14 to $14.25.

Employment Up in Illinois, Pay Rolls Dip

Employment of Illinois workers rose 0.2 per cent between Oct. 15 and Nov. 15 despite a decrease of 0.3 per cent in the number employed in manufacturing establishments among the 6,841 enterprises reporting to the Illinois department of labor, Acting Director Gordon said yesterday. Employment in the nonmanufacturing group rose 1.8 per cent.

Gordon attributed the employment gain to "larger than seasonal increases in the number of workers in wholesale and retail trade establishments to meet Christmas needs."

Pay Rolls Down 0.4 Per Cent.

Pay rolls decreased 0.4 per cent in both the manufacturing and nonmanufacturing groups. The pay roll decrease in contrast to the employment gain reflected the hiring of many additional workers on a part time basis, he said.

Weekly earnings of men and women combined in establishments reporting averaged $46.58 in November, a little less than in October when an all-time peak was reached. Earnings in the manufacturing group averaged $49.48 for both sexes combined, $55.54 for men and $34.07 for women, an all-time high for women in Illinois manufacturing plants.

In the trade group, including both wholesale and retail trade establishments, weekly earnings of men averaged $51.38 and those of women $20.66. Average weekly earnings in all non-manufacturing establishments for both sexes were $37.11.

Split Manufacturing Group.

A breakdown of the manufacturing group showed that the transportation equipment, wood products, rubber, paper goods, printing and publishing, and the food manufacturing groups had a higher employment and pay roll level in November than in October. Decreases in the important metals and machinery group, which includes many war production plants, accounted for the major portion of the decrease in the manufacturing industries, Gordon said.

Employment and pay rolls in the Chicago metropolitan area rose 0.4 and 0.1 per cent, respectively. Employment and pay roll decreases in the manufacturing group of 0.3 and 0.4 per cent, respectively, were overcome by gains of 2.6 and 1.1 per cent in the non-manufacturing section.

MAKER OF FIRE FIGHTING ITEMS WILL PAY EXTRA

HIGHER PRICED GOODS INCREASE RETAIL VOLUME

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Holiday gift buying dropped this week from the season's peak a week ago, but retail sales were 11 to 15 per cent higher than last year, Dun & Bradstreet said.

"Customers' willingness to accept higher priced merchandise was said to be partly responsible for the gain in dollar volume over last year," the private business research firm said.

INCREASED SHORTAGE OF PORK FORECAST BY SPRING PIG ESTIMATE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The threat of a more serious shortage of pork next year than was previously forecast by the government was indicated in a department of agriculture report today. A department survey showed that if farmers carry out intentions expressed Dec. 1, 7 per cent fewer pigs will be produced next spring than last. The war food administration had urged an increase of 2 per cent.

If borne out, the reduced production would cut civilian pork supplies next fall and winter. Previous reports had forecast per capita civilian supplies of all meat in 1945 would be 123 to 132 pounds, compared with 143 this year, and that the decrease would be of pork. These figures were based upon the assumption that the WFA goal would be reached.

Marketing difficulties, some dissatisfaction with hog prices, and reductions in feed supplies in some areas were said to be factors contributing to the decrease in hog production.

The department estimated the 1944 fall pig crop at 31,325,000 head, compared with 47,672,000 in the fall of 1943. Total 1944 production was 86,753,000, or 29 per cent less than 1943's 121,706,000. The department said reports on breeding intentions for the spring of 1945 indicated a crop of 52 million head, or nearly 3½ million less than in the spring of 1944.

PULLMAN COSTS CONSUME 98 PCT. OF SALE DOLLAR

Operating costs consumed more than 98 per cent of every Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company sales dollar in 1944, H. M. Dudley, vice president and controler, said yesterday. His statement was based on disbursements in the first nine months of 1944 and estimated expenses for the final quarter.

Labor costs and taxes made larger inroads on the company's sales dollar in 1944 than in 1943, Dudley said. Factory employe pay rolls accounted for 38.80 cents in 1944, against 21.92 in 1943, and taxes took 9.36 cents against 8.73.

"Only 1.81 cents of the sales dollar, exactly the same as last year, will be retained as profit in 1944," he said. "And this is subject to possible decrease thru renegotiation." Production of implements of war amounted to 78 per cent of the Pullman, Inc., subsidiary's production, he said. War vital transportation equipment made up the remainder.

CASUALTY FIRM INCREASES PAR VALUE OF STOCK

Stockholders of Continental Casualty company have approved the directors' proposal to increase the par value of stock from $5 to $10, raising capital stock from 2½ to 5 million dollars without increasing the number of shares, the company said yesterday.

Continental Assurance company shareholders voted to increase the company's capital stock from 100,000 to 200,000 shares with a par value of $10 as at present. Each shareholder will receive an additional share of stock for each share held Dec. 15. Assurance is associated with Continental Casualty.

RAIL AND ARMS SHARES RALLY, BOOST MARKET

Some Lag on Dim Civilian Outlook.

Market Holiday

The New York, New Orleans, and Chicago cotton exchanges and the Montreal and Toronto stock exchanges will close today until Tuesday in observance of Christmas. The Winnipeg grain market will be closed thru Tuesday. Other security and commodity markets will be open today but will close Monday.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Rails and other armament rated stocks rallied briskly today to boost the market generally, altho many leaders lagged.

Belief that the German drive in Europe would prolong the war and accentuate demand on carriers and munitions makers revived bids in these departments after a slow and mixed opening. The darker outlook for civilian manufacturers, however, tended to restrain numerous pivotals. Commitments also were reinstated on a belief that the recent reaction had served as a fairly good technical "correction" after the long advance to seven year peaks.

Dealings Lively on Rise.

Because all markets will close on Christmas day, some customers held aloof. Others did likewise to await the outcome of the Nazi thrust.

Dealings were lively when the advance got under way in the second hour, but slowed later and top prices were reduced in most cases.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.3 at 57.7. Of 868 issues registering, 466 advanced, 186 declined, and 216 were unchanged. Transfers totaled 1,280,640 shares, compared with 951,230 yesterday.

Peaks for the year or longer were touched by Baltimore and Ohio, Grumman Aircraft, and International Telephone. The communications issue was boosted by reports the company was negotiating for sale of its Spanish properties.

RAIL RALLY LIFTS BONDS.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—A late rally in rails pulled the bond market out of an irregularly lower drift today and the list was mostly higher at the close. Carrier advances ran from small fractions to more than a point, with a few gains up to nearly 4. Industrials and utilities, altho less active and somewhat hesitant in spots, made some progress. Trade of $10,856,500 compared with $9,211,000 yesterday. The Associated Press rail average reached a high since 1937 at 96.4, up .2.

Peoria and Eastern income 4s advanced 3⅞* to 50½, but the road's 4s of 1960 dropped a point.

International Telephone 4½s and 5s rose more than a point to new peaks on heavy turnover. United States government loans were quiet. Foreign dollar bonds declined, with Buenos Aires 3s off 3½ on sale of two bonds.

CHICAGO LIST RECOVERS.

Prices recovered slightly on turnover of 25,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Of 97 issues traded, 38 advanced and 31 declined. Among volume leaders were Aviation corporation, Chicago corporation common, and Pennsylvania railroad, each up ⅛, and New York Central, up ⅝. Among five issues at 1944 highs was Glenn L. Martin, 25⅝, up 1⅛.

AMERICAN FLIES FIRST LOAD OF AIR BORNE ORE

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 22 (AP).—American Airlines today reported it had handled its first big shipment of ore by air freight. The company said 1,120 pounds of bauxite were flown from the Porocel corporation in Little Rock, Ark., to Penn State college in State College, Pa., for testing. The company is operating daily air freight service.

Carols Mark Festivities in La Salle St.

The Christmas spirit yesterday ousted the war for a few minutes from the minds of employes and officers of banks, financial houses, and other enterprises forming what is known as La Salle st. Festivities in many of the banks and brokerage houses centered in departmental parties.

At the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company girl employes today will sing in the lunchroom for fellow workers and after the bank closes on the balcony of the main banking floor.

Gen. Dawes Is Guest.

Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, former Vice President of the United States, was a guest with other men employes of the women workers of the City National Bank and Trust company, where cake and coffee were served. Dawes is chairman of the bank. The bank chorus sang carols on the main manking floor yesterday and will repeat today.

Albert W. Harris, veteran banker, and Mrs. Harris were guests of honor at a tea Thursday for employes of the Harris Trust and Savings bank. He formerly was chairman of the bank. Carols were sung yesterday. Today Mark A. Brown, a vice president who could pass for Santa Claus if dressed for the job, will follow his custom of passing out shiny red apples.

Northern Trust company's chorus of 80 mixed voices sang carols yesterday morning and will repeat the program today. Thursday the bank held open house at which turkey and the fixings were served all the employes.

Albums Mailed to Yanks.

American National Bank and Trust company observed Christmas earlier when it mailed photo albums to all its men and women in service. The albums contained pictures of daily bank activities to remind the Chicagoans of home. With each went a check to provide the means of enjoying the holiday season.

Kenneth L. Smith, president of the Chicago Stock Exchange, said the largest number of persons in several years attended its Christmas party on the exchange floor after the close of trading. Sandwiches and beer were served.

The Chicago Board of Trade had a large Christmas trees on the floor, but no formal celebration was held. The board chorus, garbed in burgundy robes, sang carols on the second floor balcony of the foyer.

Christmas carols sung by employes of the Gary steel mills who wore old English costumes echoed thru the corridors outside the offices of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and other subsidiaries of United States Steel corporation at 208 S. La Salle st. The carolers, directed by G. G. Olsenius, also sang in the building lobby.

LONG DISTANCE OPERATORS VOTE FOR PAY STRIKE

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Formal notice of a strike vote of long distance telephone operators was approved today by the executive board of the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers [Independent], which will forward the notice to Washington. The operators are employes of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

C. T. Deats, vice president of the federation, said 98.3 per cent of New York City local members voted for a strike for a $5 weekly wage increase. Under the Smith-Connally act the local must wait 30 days from the day government agencies receive the strike notice, and then vote again. The local claims 3,700 members among the 6,000 long distance operators in the area.

Meanwhile, a strike vote among 12,000 employes of the New York Telephone company, including local operators, has been ordered by the general executive committee of the Traffic Employes association [Independent].

VOLUNTEER TO WORK PAYLESS ON HOLIDAY AS GIFT TO FIGHTERS

Brunswick, Ga., Dec. 22 (AP).—More than 500 workers in the Brunswick shipyards today volunteered to work Christmas day "without pay as a gift to the boys overseas" and assure the launching of the seventh merchant ship in December.

"It started with 80 shipfitters," said General Manager Emil J. Kratt, "and spread thru the yard like wildfire." As word got around of the shipfitters' action 80 welders matched their offer, then another department joined in and thruout the afternoon crew after crew sent word "we'll work Christmas day without pay."

Approval of the work on Christmas day, previously announced as a complete shutdown, must be given by the regional office of the United States maritime commission in Philadelphia, but said a yard spokesman, "I think they'll give it." The seventh launching would be of the William Cox, first ship built in the yard to be named for a Negro.

WLB REOPENS SUBSTANDARD PAY QUESTION

'Floor' of 72 Cents Asked in Textiles.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The whole issue of substandard pay was reopened before the war labor board today when labor members of the WLB demanded a "floor" at 72 cents an hour.

Public members suggested 55 cents, but Chairman Davis said that figure was proposed "only as a basis for discussion" in the case at hand. The board has been granting boosts to 50 cents, in some instances ordering them, to correct "substandards of living."

Pending textile wage cases were the immediate issue, tho the labor members said their proposal was not limited to that industry. The public members' tentative figure was submitted in a form that could make it a general precedent.

Evasion of Issue Charged.

A statement by labor members asserted that the board had "refused to attack this [substandard] problem in a forthright fashion" and had "evaded the issue and sought to circumvent or postpone an adequate solution by creating wholly unsatisfactory administrative stopgaps."

Davis said the 72 cent proposal, submitted as a resolution, had been "tabled." Other WLB officials said the labor members probably would insist on that figure in determining the minimum wage rate in the textile cases.

In their "across the board" resolution, labor members said evidence obtained from a study of subsistence budgets showed 72 cents was necessary for a wage earner to maintain a family of four.

They declared WLB persisted in evasion of the substandard rate problem "despite Presidential assurances, despite powers granted in statutes and executive orders, despite its own brave words."

For Discussion, Not Binding.

Davis said the 55 cent rate suggested by Dr. George W. Taylor, WLB vice chairman and public member, was submitted merely as a point on which to start discussions and that none of the public members was committed to that rate. He said this was routine and did not indicate a final form.

Emil Rieve, president of the CIO Textile Workers' union, said public members of the board "are obviously blind to the cold realities of the situation" if their 55 cent proposal is a serious one. He also asserted that critical war shortages in cotton textiles were a result of low wages in the industry.

The Taylor suggestion also would increase the minimum for all textile employes by five cents an hour. It would lift the New England mills' minimum to 57 cents an hour. The union has asked a 60 cent minimum and a 7 cent premium for the third shift.

RESERVE BOARD WARNS OF BOOM IN FARM LANDS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The federal reserve board today warned of the danger of a disastrous farm land boom such as occurred during the World War I.

Land values rose steeply during both wars. The difference so far is that farm mortgage loans have not soared as they did between 1914 and 1923. There are indications, however, that the steady decline in mortgage loans since 1923 has slowed almost to the stopping point, it was said.

The board said the demand for farms is likely to increase in the next three years. Because of high war time farm income, the value of farm real estate has increased 44 per cent from the 1935-'39 average.

Shift 223 Million in Gold to Belgian Bank's Account

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Transfer of $223,292,833 in fine gold from the account of the Bank of France to that of the National Bank of Belgium was announced today by John Foster Dulles, counsel for the Belgian bank, who said the action ended litigation based on the transfer of Belgian funds by France to the German reichsbank.

40 IN VIGILANCE SQUAD HUNTING TAXI GOUGERS

'Black Market' Drivers Put Under Watch.

Forty policemen and investigators took up stations yesterday at downtown railroad stations, hotels, and other loop locations, under orders to break up the taxicab "black market" in which greedy drivers have been exacting triple and quadruple fares and refusing to make emergency and other long trips.

The move, backed by rising public indignation as reflected in orders from Mayor Kelly and action by the city council committee on local transportation and the subcommittee on taxicabs, brought immediate results, said Edward J. Gorman, acting city public vehicle license commissioner. He reported that drivers with gouging tendencies apparently were alarmed at the city's activities and were "laying low."

The enlarged staff put under Gorman's direction included 20 plain clothes policemen detailed by Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniform force; 10 traffic checkers assigned by Leslie Sorenson, city traffic engineer, and 10 investigators lent by Chairman Quinn [50th] of the local transportation committee.

Two Practices Under Fire.

The policemen were ordered to arrest drivers caught violating the city taxicab ordinance. The investigators will report violations to Gorman, but do not have authority to make arrest. Two types of violations will receive major attention, Gorman said. These are:

1. Overcharging passengers sharing rides. The legal fare is the meter reading for the distance plus 5 cents for each extra passenger, the total amount to be divided among those in the group.

2. Refusing to take passengers. A driver whose cab is vacant is required by city ordinance to take a fare anywhere within the city limits.

Five Drivers Are Fined.

Drivers arrested for violations not only will face Municipal court trials and fines of $5 to $100 on conviction, but also may lose their licenses. Gorman's office will conduct separate license hearings for all those arrested, regardless of the outcome of the prosecutions. Accused drivers who escape arrest also will be summoned for hearing. Gorman has authority to suspend drivers for periods of 5 to 30 days, to recommend revocation of licenses, and to refuse new licenses.

Five drivers accused of varying violations of the city taxicab ordinance were fined $5 to $15 each before Judge Jay A. Schiller in State Street court. A sixth, Julius Bonczek, 44, of 2014 Indiana av., was discharged for refusing a fare. Gorman appeared in court with Benjamin Samuels, vice president of the Yellow Cab company, and both backed up Bonczek's excuse that his gear shift had broken.

Beg Your Pardon

A story in Thursday's edition of THE TRIBUNE stated erroneously that the New York Central railroad's Twentieth Century limited between Chicago and New York would not operate on Christmas day. The train's run for Christmas eve only has been canceled.

3 Bus Lines and Union Ask 2d Wage Hearing

Three Aurora and Elgin bus lines and a drivers' union yesterday petitioned the regional war labor board for a rehearing on a voluntary wage agreement whose approval was denied a few weeks ago by the board. Spokesmen for the union denied it planned a strike, but said a meeting to discuss the situation will be held next Wednesday. The board had denied the petition for an increase of 6 cents an hour for members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes and Motor Coach Drivers [AFL], filed jointly by the union and the companies.

SPECIAL COURTS FOR EX-YANKS URGED BY JUDGE

Chief Justice Scheffler of Municipal court yesterday said he would have no trouble finding a well qualified judge to sit on the bench in a special ex-soldiers' branch should such a tribunal be created soon.

"In order to pass properly and sympathetically on the troubles which soon will be bringing scores of ex-soldiers into the Municipal courts, a man must be a war veteran himself," Judge Scheffler said. "But that will be easy, because about 90 per cent of our judges are veterans of World War I."

Chief Justice in Rainbow Division.

The chief justice himself is a veteran of New York City's 69th infantry, which as the 165th infantry, fought in the Rainbow division and produced a famous chaplain, Father Duffy, whose activities made a great motion picture and whose statue now stands in Times square.

"I am having Municipal court judges check on the number of cases they are handling involving discharged service men and women," Justice Scheffler continued. "I know we are handling a good many cases of extremely youthful discharged men in the Boys' court, where Judge Drucker is sitting. If cases involving newly discharged war veterans have become numerous enough to warrant the creation of a special court I will ask the judges to agree with me, and do so at once. If the time has not come, it undoubtely will as soon as the war is over.

Many Vets Extremely Young.

"Because we have so many judges who could deal sympathetically with the troubles discharged men are bound to get into, we certainly ought to create a special branch of the court for that purpose as soon as it is needed. Many of the war veterans will be extremely young. Many, suddenly taken out of army life and thrust back into civilian activities, do things they wouldn't otherwise do while they are adjusting themselves. Some are shell shocked.

"There are many reasons why they need special treatment and attention. They're entitled to it, and I am sure the judges will recognize that and see that they get it."

RADIO, GAS COUPONS STOLEN.

James Crogan, 1747 E. 71st st., yesterday reported the theft of a radio and gasoline ration coupons good for 100 gallons in a burglary of his home Sunday night.

YULE DEMANDS FOR CANDY 50% HIGHER THAN '43

The sweet tooth of many Chicagoans will remain unsatisfied during the holiday season because of a candy shortage thruout the city. Confectionery shops said yesterday the demand for sweets is almost 50 per cent heavier this year than during Christmas week of 1943. Clerks reported they frequently are unable to fill the orders of customers.

One loop shop, which opens for business at noon, yesterday was completely sold out of a stock of 500 pounds of popular candy in 25 minutes. There remained only assorted nuts and hard or bucket candy. A clerk reported that 500 pounds of candy were sold in 20 minutes Thursday.

Customers Have More Money.

The general manager of one of the city's largest confectionery companies predicted his stock will be sold out today. He attributed the increased buying of candy to the larger salaries and wages of customers who in former years desired candy but were unable to purchase the better brands.

Many shops limit their sales to one pound per person, and almost every clerk reported her customers willing to purchase any type of candy available. The 1943 holiday shortage of Brazil nuts has carried thru to this season, and pecans or almonds frequently were suggested in lieu of Brazils. Chocolate covered nuts also were at a premium, and salesgirls said most purchasers were satisfied to get salted nuts, even tho the prices have soared.

Could Have Sold "Tons More."

Some stores had virtually nothing but curios and nuts on their shelves late yesterday, but shoppers continued to order whatever was in sight.

One clerk, who reported her stock probably won't last until Christmas, said she could have sold "tons more" candy had it been available.

Boys 13 and 11 Find Dad's Pistol; One Shot in Side

William De Young, 13, yesterday was shot in the left side with a .38 caliber revolver which he and his brother, Thomas, 11, found in a dresser in their home, 6553 S. Oakley av. The gun is the property of their father, Joseph, a plant maintenance worker. At Southtown hospital physicians said the boy's injury was not serious.
